

Syndicate Has Promising Claims in Quebec Twps.

District Where Big Companies Are Working; Will Carry on Development

The McCallum Syndicate, composed of local interests with J. McCallum and E. Adshead as field men, has some promising ground staked in the township of Senneville and Louvicourt, Que., on which they will do some development work during the balance of the summer. Messrs. McCallum and Adshead are in town at present, after spending the first part of the summer prospecting the district, and will return there in the near future to carry on some development on the block of claims which they have staked.

The district where the syndicate's property is located is receiving considerable attention this summer, it is stated. Several of the big companies are interested and there are parties of men working in various sections. The Noranda has taken over the Matthews property in that locality. Mr. McCallum states, and the Treadwell-Yukon, Ventures and Nipissing are all interested and doing work on properties. The location is almost direct east of Rouyn, on the same belt as the Siscoe Gold Mines, which is drawing attention and is expected to prove of importance. The route in is via Amos and the property of the McCallum Syndicate is within 25 or 30 miles from the railway.

Roman Catholic Church Burned at Charlton

Word was received here yesterday that St. Stephen's Roman Catholic church at Charlton, 45 miles away, was destroyed by fire about nine o'clock Tuesday night. The cause of the blaze is unknown, but when Rev. Father Roy McMahon, parish priest there, tried to enter the frame building in an effort to save some of the contents, he found the structure so thoroughly in the grip of the flames that he had to retire. Nothing was saved, but a volunteer bucket brigade succeeded in preventing the fire from spreading to the priest's house and sheds nearby. No candles had been left burning and the origin of the blaze is a mystery.

Knows the Ropes

One of the few women associated with the cauliflower industry—that is the variety of the cauliflower familiar to the boxing ring—Mrs. K. J. Flynn, widow of Leo P. Flynn, late maestro of pugilism, is shown above as she boarded train in New York to rush to the bedside of her mother who is 83 and critically ill. Mrs. Flynn handled most of her husband's affairs while he was alive and is wise in the ways of the profession of fisticuffs.

LOCAL EX-SOLDIERS TO ATTEND REUNION OF PIONEER BATTALION

Four ex-soldiers of Haileybury and North Cobalt have planned a trip to Sudbury to attend the reunion of the Second Canadian Pioneers, one of the battalions recruited throughout the North in the early stages of the great war. This event is to be held on Saturday in that city and a great celebration is being arranged. There will be a big dinner at which it is expected that many of the old soldiers from different parts of the country will be present, and there will be other entertainment that will no doubt recall the days when, in spite of great hardships and suffering, men were brought together in a way that nothing else could accomplish.

The ex-Pioneers from here who will attend the celebration are George Brown, George George, Gil MacDonnell and Dan Hellens. They are planning to motor down on Friday evening and return on Sunday.

Church Union in Smooth Rock is Working Well

Rev. Jones Who Inaugurated Scheme Highly Pleased With its Success

Delight with the progress of the religious experiment being made at Smooth Rock Falls, and under which members of the United Church and the Anglicans have worked out a measure of co-operation, was expressed here by Rev. T. D. Jones, minister in charge of the congregation in the paper town and who is spending a few days attending summer camp in this district. Mr. Jones was formerly at All People's Mission in Sudbury, and previously had been in western Canada.

The present scheme has been in effect for some months now, Mr. Jones explained, and he said that loyal support was being given to it by both parties to the agreement. Under its provisions the regular Morning Prayer of the Anglican Church is conducted each Sunday morning, and in the evening the United Church form of worship is used. He finds, he said, that members of each communion are regular attendants at the services held under the auspices of the other branch.

Hearty approval of Rt. Rev. J. G. A. Anderson, anglican bishop of Moosenee and his diocese executive, was obtained before the arrangement was put in practice, Mr. Jones said, and he declared that Bishop Anderson was enthusiastic in his support of the proposals. A lay reader, Mr. Holmes, was appointed by the bishop to co-operate with Mr. Jones, with the latter taking the clergyman's part in the Anglican services. The only exception is in the Communion service, and arrangements were made to have Bishop Anderson visit Smooth Rock Falls at intervals to administer this sacrament to his co-religionists of the Anglican faith.

Mr. Jones said that he had been giving this matter consideration for 20 years, but that this was the first time he had had an opportunity of putting it into full practice. While in the west, he declared, he had co-operated with Anglicans as chance offered, and he recalled one pastorate where his Protestant church was used once a month by Roman Catholics for their service. When he came to Smooth Rock Falls last year he had found fifteen Anglican families there, without a church and dependent on occasional visits from clergy in other centres for the holding of services.

In the circumstance, the plan was conceived of inviting these people to co-operate with the United Church. Consent of the official board of the church was obtained readily, and the scheme was then broached to Bishop Anderson, after the local Anglicans had been sounded out. The bishop consulted with his executive, and approval was given. The result has been that each Sunday morning, the Anglican Prayer Book service is used in this church, the service being intoned the canticles chanted and the Anglican ritual carried out. The psalms for the day are read in alternate verses by minister and congregation.

Provision was made to have the Anglican families represented on the board of the church, and the question of finances was arranged. (Continued on Page 5)

Price of Graves Increased By Cobalt Council

Cemetery Problem Dealt With In Silver Town; No Clue To Mystery Grave

The sequel to the "mystery" grave in Silverland cemetery developed at the meeting of the Cobalt Council Wednesday night, when a by-law which increased the cost of dying was adopted by the members present. Incidentally, it developed that no clue to the identity of the person said to be buried in the family plot of Harry Eastcott had been found, and Mayor O'Gorman told his colleagues that a legal friend had advised him to take no steps to have the body disinterred, but rather to make some arrangement with Mr. Eastcott relative to additional ground for his plot.

Under the new bylaw, the regulation price of a plot of ground for four graves will be $16 in the municipality's cemetery. Single graves will be charged for in proportion, it is provided. The old rates were two dollars for one tomb, and six dollars for a plot of four. In introducing the bylaw, it was explained that a fresh start would be made with the burying ground, which the municipality acquired for one dollar in 1927, but regarding which there is an absence of records, while the dead never has been registered.

The bylaw provides for the rectifying of this omission. The Department of Health at Toronto will be asked for information, and the sale of lots and arrangement for their location and digging will be left to the town treasurer, with the proviso that no funeral is to be held until the grave is paid for. Although the cemetery became the property of the town in 1927, there were no receipts for graves later than 1921 available, the mayor stated at the meeting.

HOLD CIVIC HOLIDAY IN NORTHERN TOWNS MONDAY, AUGUST 3RD

The majority of the towns in the North will observe Monday next, August 3rd, as a civic holiday this year and proclamations have been issued to this effect by the various mayors and councils. Haileybury, Cobalt and New Liskeard have decided this week on the question, Kirkland Lake and the more northern centres are also in line and, in common with a large section of the province, including Toronto, the first Monday in August will be observed as has been the custom for many years past.

Nothing in the way of a celebration has been planned here and it is not likely that there will be anything out of the ordinary. The proclamation issued by Mayor Hamilton simply asks citizens to duly observe the holiday and the business places will remain closed throughout the day.

No Stamps Required on Cheques of $5 and Under

An announcement was made at Ottawa on Tuesday to the effect that stamps will not be required on cheques of five dollars and under. The recent budget provided for the two-cent levy on all cheques, but this has been modified. Previous to the passing of the budget the exemption from the tax was on all cheques of $10 or under.

NO PROVISION FOR HAILEYBURY AIRPORT IN GOVT. ESTIMATES

It had been hoped here that when the supplementary estimates were brought down in the House of Commons there would be something provided for the improvements to Haileybury's air harbor, a project that has been taken up on various occasions by the town council and the board of trade. It was hoped that if the larger scheme planned by government engineers last year could not be carried out, at least some temporary improvements would be made, but one fails to find anything in the published lists of proposed expenditures. The following items appear to be the only ones that pertain to points in the North: $7,000 for a public building at Sudbury; $4,000 for a similar purpose at Timmins; $15,000 for the building of a wharf at Moose Factory and $600 for the dam at Latchford.

Residents of Haileybury who heard a plane pass over the town about 10 o'clock on Tuesday night, and wondered if it was the Lindberghs, learned the following morning that it was W. H. Clarke, of the General Airways, making a late flight to Elk Lake.

Freight Rate to Affect Price of Coal in Canada

Local Dealer Looks for Raise Following Proposed Increase in U. S.

That the price of anthracite coal in this part of the country, and most likely throughout the dominion, would be advanced this fall was the prediction made by a local dealer this week. He stated that in all probability the freight rate schedule in the United States would be revised in the near future and that the revision would be upward, with an increase of some 35 cents per ton on coal leaving the mines for export.

This authority also pointed out that the recent impost of 40 cents per ton duty on American anthracite, together with the sales tax, had been responsible for a raise of 50 cents per ton in the fall price of coal here. While there is nothing definite settled yet as to the increase in the freight rates, there has been talk in the press of a general revision and the figure of 35 cents has been mentioned by the coal operators, who are in close touch with the situation.

While the ban on Russian coal has been put in force, there is still a certain quantity available in this country. This ban, with the duty on American coal, has been designed to encourage the use of Canadian coal in the central parts of the Dominion, something that has always been a difficult end to gain. It is held that coal from the Maritime provinces cannot be profitably shipped any farther west than Montreal, and while measures have been taken to promote the sale of Alberta coal in Ontario, these have not succeeded in producing the desired result to any great extent. What the result of the experiments with the lignite of Northern Ontario will be remains yet to be seen.

A radio broadcast last night from The Toronto Globe said that 110 million acres of wheat in India had been destroyed through the devastations of a plague of locusts. Reports also continue to come from the Canadian west that great sections of the prairie provinces will be almost totally devoid of a crop through drought.
