

Haileybury in 1924

Items from the Files of The Haileyburian of Seven Years Ago

There is a definite prospect that a new theatre will be built in Haileybury this fall by D. Korman of Englehart, a former mayor of that town.

After a couple of weeks of the finest weather this year, a storm came this week and four or five inches of snow fell, giving a real touch of winter to the district.

Mrs. J. E. McCuaig won the ladies' championship at the Haileybury Golf Course on Saturday, carrying off the Jemmett trophy for the second year in succession.

Haileybury people will observe this week the second anniversary of the big fire of 1922, and will conclude a two-year period of steady progress towards the rebuilding of the town.

Sixty-two names have been added to the Haileybury voters' list by the revising officer, Judge Hayward, and the list is now ready for the coming vote on the Ontario Temperance Act.

During the windstorm Monday night one of the Laurentide Air Service planes was blown from its moorings near the market dock and drifted down the lake some distance before it was blown ashore about midnight.

Sewing and dressmaking classes are being organized to be held in the Haileybury High School on two evening weekly during the winter months.

The annual field day of the Haileybury High School was held on Friday last in ideal weather at Farr's Park.

Lamb Bros., of Cobalt, have taken over the Haileybury Garage at the corner of Ferguson Avenue and Browning Street and are open for business.

FOUR LAND IN JAIL AS RESULT OF NIGHT RIDE IN A VISITOR'S CAR

Four youths are held in the district jail here to appear in police court tomorrow, following a night ride in a car belonging to a visitor in town, which they are alleged to have taken possession of on Brewster Street at about 7.30 on Saturday evening, without asking permission of the owner. It was 2 a.m. on Sunday when they were found by provincial police officers, still in the car which had suffered some slight damage in the course of their travels. Just where they had been or how far they had travelled is not known, but they were in the vicinity when they were apprehended. The youths are named Milross, Davis, Blanchard and Dupuis. The two first named are around 21 or 22 years old, while the others are about 16.

Every Woman in Town Should See "Front Page" at the Empire Theatre

On Wednesday and Thursday, October 7th and 8th, set aside all other engagements and go to see the picture at the Empire. It is a picture so different from the ordinary romance, so much more human and stirring that every woman should see it! It tells the man's side of love and marriage; it reveals what men say, do and think when there are no women around; it shows why some men forget romance for business. There's a little bit of every husband in the hero; and every wife's worries are in the heroine! "Front Page" is going to have the men and women of this town talking for days and days. "The Front Page" was originally written for the stage by those "bad boys" of Chicago newspaperdom, Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, brought to the screen by the producer of "Hell's Angels" and the director of "All Quiet on the Western Front" and heading the cast are such stellar performers as Adolph Menjou, Pat O'Brien, Mary Brian and Edward Everett Horton. "Front Page" has more action per minute than any talking picture you've seen in a year, and don't forget the date—Wed. and Thursday, Oct. 7th and 8th.

CO-OPERATION

Co-operation is a word that is used rather too freely; also, it has been misused to such an extent that some people are apt to be irritated when they are told that they should co-operate. Nevertheless, the term does express the idea of working together, of team play, and it is about this which we wish to say something to our readers.

The schools are now open, and the parents of the school children are naturally anxious that their children should do well in school and secure the greatest benefit possible out of the time given to their studies. The entire responsibility for this does not rest on the school staff. The parents have their part to play, which is more than simply paying school taxes. If the best results are to be obtained, parents must co-operate with the school, and the school with the parents.

The child should be properly prepared for school. The child who has diseased tonsils, or who cannot breathe properly through his nose on account of adenoids, is not properly prepared for school. His time there will not be spent to the best advantage. The school cannot alter this condition, but the parents can.

The child who requires glasses is handicapped until he is properly fitted with the glasses he needs. Toothache will distract the attention of the brightest child. Running ears leads to deafness.

All this means that parents should see that their children have all their defects corrected by proper treatment, as it is only in this way that they are given a fair chance to develop properly and to profit by their time in school. The most that the school doctor or nurse can do is to advise parents to take their children to the family doctor for whatever treatment they require. If there is no school doctor or nurse the parents would be well advised to have their doctor examine their children, for even though they may appear to be well, they may be suffering from some condition which requires attention.

Health is closely related to proper diet. The school child is active and is growing, so that he requires, in abundance, food that will provide energy and building materials. The adequate breakfast which should begin the day, and which should have allotted to it sufficient time in which to eat it, means that the child should go to bed early enough to have long hours of sleep and to be rested when it is time for him to get up.

When the noon meal is to be taken to school, parents should interest themselves to see that there is provided a clean place for eating and that there is also provision for some hot food during the cold weather. Parents are responsible for the feeding of their children, and they should work in conjunction with the school to secure a proper noon meal for the school children.

The school is expected to do a great deal for the child. What it can do depends in large measure upon the helpful co-operation given by the parents to the school in the common interest of the welfare of the child.

INSTRUCTING CHILDREN IN SEX IS NOT AN EASY MATTER

Parents Who Feel Unduly Embarrassed Advised to Leave Subject Alone Rather than Overemphasize it

Students of child training are agreed that sex instruction is a parent's job which should not be left to schools or other agencies. But many parents are not able to give instruction. Some find they are unable even to discuss the subject with their children. This, of course, is due to their own faulty upbringing, but naturally there is nothing much that can be done about it.

Others, realizing that it is their duty, and perhaps alarmed by scare-mongering lectures they have heard or articles they have read about the alleged danger of leaving children uninstructed in sex matters, grimly set about the task and generally end by creating a barrier, so far as this subject is concerned, between themselves and their children.

The ideal method is not to emphasize the sex out of its true relation to other factors of life, but rather to include it in its place as part of general instruction. It should not be made the subject of a special lecture or talk, but should be dealt with as occasion arises.

If the parent is prepared to answer the first casual question with an equally casual, though truthful, answer, and to continue in the same manner, the child's natural curiosity will be satisfied in this as in other respects, and the subject will never become unduly emphasized.

Books can not completely relieve the parent of responsibility, because parents will still be required to answer questions stimulated by the books, but parents will find books very useful as supplementary instructors. "Growing Up," by Karl de Schweinitz (The Macmillan Company), is a splendid book for young children; while "The Sex Education of Children," by Mary Ware Dennett (The Vanguard Press), is recommended for parents who wish to learn how best to deal with this important subject.

Parents who can not discuss sex matters with their children without embarrassment on both sides, or without adopting a moralizing attitude, are advised to leave the subject severely alone. Children have other means of obtaining information. This may not be altogether the best for them, but is better than

MINING CLAIM HOLDERS

DEPARTMENT OF MINES

NOTICE

To Holders of Mining Claims in Ontario Not Yet Patented or Leased

Notice is hereby given to holders of mining claims, wherever situate, upon which the work specified in the Mining Act has been prohibited or restricted to a stated period by the Minister of Lands and Forests under the authority of the Mining Act, or where permission to do the work has been given under conditions and limitations designed to protect the timber, THAT under the Forest Fires Prevention Act, 1930, they are required to apply to the District Forester in the District in which the land is situate for a permit to perform such work, and that failure to apply for such permit or upon issue of the same, failure to perform and record the work prescribed by the Mining Act, will subject their claim to cancellation. The time for performing and recording the said work is extended by Order-in-Council to and including the 15th day of November, 1931. If the work is so done and recorded, the time for computing the date before which further work upon the claim is required, will be computed as from the said 15th day of November, 1931.

The name and address of the District Forester to whom application for such permit should be made, may be obtained from the Recorder of the Mining Division in which the claim is situate. A miner's license in the name of the applicant, or due renewal of the same, must accompany the application and the number or numbers of the mining claim or claims must be clearly stated.

T. F. SUTHERLAND,
Acting Deputy Minister of Mines.
