Keep the Streets Clean

Some business men who have premises on Ferguson Avenue in the downtown section are of the opinion that the pavement on that thoroughfare is not being kept as clean as its qualities would warrant. They point to the fact that it is only occasionally washed down with the fire hose and that between times dirt of various kinds is allowed to accumulate and to lie undisturbed save by the wheels of passing vehicles. It is claimed that in some instances the refuse from stores is even being swept out on the street through the front doors, and the opportunity for making Haileybury a clean town is being neglected.

This should get some attention from the proper authorities. If at all possible the main street should be kept well clear of rubbish and if some business places are guilty of sweeping refuse out on the street it should be prevented. The town has a fine thoroughfare through its business section and it would not be difficult to keep it clean, thus presenting a pleasing appearance to visitors and citizens alike.

Those with business places on the main street can do a lot towards overcoming the trouble themselves.

Clothing Needed

In another column will be found an appeal from Mrs. M. O. Houston, chairman of the town's relief committee, in which citizens are asked to contribute clothing for the families of the unemployed. The co-operation of all is requested in order that no one may suffer unduly throughout the winter. This is a good cause and one in which every citizen can help. The committee has a very difficult job to do and they are handling it in the best possible way, not only taking precautions to see that no one goes without the necessities, but also that no duplication will be made and no person will get more than a fair share.

The Haileyburian would add to the appeal to all citizens to be as generous as their circumstances will permit. The need will probably be greater as the cold weather approaches and it will not do for anyone to suffer either from cold or hunger if in the power of those in better circumstances to prevent it.

Canadian Exports Suffer

Some striking figures in regard to Canada's exports of farm products to the United States, as compared with what they were some 12 years ago, are contained in the current issue of the "Commercial Intelligence Journal" published by the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa. The total exports for the month of August in 1920, 1930, 1931 and 1932 are given, together with a two-months summary for each of the years mentioned.

These figures show that while the total exports in August of 1920 were valued at $5,948,056, they had shrunk in value to $210,140 for August of this year. The figures for July and August were $12,154,392 in 1920 against $547,077 for the present year, with the years intervening showing a gradual decrease.

A good example is the number of cattle exported. In 1920 they entered the United States free of duty, while now the U.S. tariff is from two and one-half to three cents per pound. In August of 1920, there were 25,919 cattle exported across the border. In 1932 there were 988. On every item of over 40 listed in the Journal there has been an increase in the tariff imposed, in some cases it has been multiplied many times and in no case is there an article which is admitted free.

We have heard a great deal about the high tariff propensities of the Republic during the past few years, but it takes definite figures to make us realize just what it means. The loss of this market for our agricultural products must have been largely responsible for the present difficulties which Canadian farmers are facing. No doubt our own tariffs have offset theirs to some extent, and other markets are being gradually opened up, but the fact remains that millions of dollars of business have been lost to the basic industry in this country during the past few years.

Fire Prevention Week

The week of October 9th to 15th has been named as "Fire Prevention Week" this year and everybody is being urged to do something towards lessening the danger of conflagrations which have taken all too heavy a toll of both property and life in this country. To Haileyburians the lesson should be a timely one, as on Tuesday next, October 4th, will fall the anniversary of the great fire which destroyed the greater part of the town in 1922.

Although 10 years have passed since that great disaster, it is still fresh in the minds of many of our present-day citizens, but it is to be feared that the bitter lesson we learned on that day has not had the effect it should have had. One may be pardoned for the belief that, given the same conditions, something of the same nature could easily happen at the present. We are prone to take too much for granted and to trust too much to luck in the matter of fires.

It is true that for the past year or two the town has been exceptionally free from bad fires, but this is no guarantee that it will continue so, unless we all do our part towards making it safe. Should we not all take stock to some extent during fire prevention week this year? No one needs to be told what to do to make premises safe from fire. It is simply a case of using common sense in making sure that we are incurring no unnecessary risk. We cannot provide for all contingencies, of course, but we can, and should, take individual precautions to see that there is nothing overlooked which would help to prevent the spread of fire if it should occur. Let us think of this, not only on October 4th, and during Fire Prevention Week but in our everyday pursuits, and use at all times the care which is the only remedy for the great fire losses that have scourged the land for generations.

Dr. Banting Is Visitor In Cobalt District This Week

A distinguished visitor to Cobalt this week is Dr. F. G. Banting, of insulin fame, who is registered at the Fraser House while staying in this district. Dr. Banting is here on a holiday and is taking a rest, accepting no invitations to appear in public. He has been sketching various scenes which have taken his fancy, and also has been renewing wartime acquaintances with Dr. E. F. Armstrong, with whom he was associated while overseas.

Schools to Have a Couple of Holidays Next Week

Pupils of the Public and Separate Schools will have a couple of holidays next week, when the annual convention of the South Temiskaming Teachers' Institute will be held on Thursday and Friday, October 6th and 7th. The convention will be held in New Liskeard this year and the usual program of addresses, papers, etc., is being prepared. At the convention last year it was suggested that the 1932 meeting should include a trip to James Bay, over the extension of the T. & N. O. Railway, but this has not been provided for in the program, although the teachers of the district to the north have planned an excursion to Moosonee.

Portable Diamond Drill As an Aid to Prospecting

A portable diamond drill outfit, weighing 140 pounds and designed to act as an aid to prospecting, has been shown in Haileybury this week. The machine which has a capacity of 100 to 150 feet, is mounted in the rear of a small car for display purposes and looks compact and capable in every way. The drill is driven by a small gasoline engine which is a part of the machine, and it can be easily conveyed to outlying prospects where roads are not available for heavier drills to be taken in. Considerable interest has been shown by local men in the machine, when it has been started up and ran for periods during the stay of the demonstrator. It is known as the "X-Ray Diamond Drill Outfit."

CHANGE OF VENUE MADE FOR HEARING APPEAL FROM DAMAGE VERDICT

A change of venue has been arranged for the re-trial of one phase of a civil action which came before Mr. Justice Sedgewick and a jury at the Temiskaming Assizes in Haileybury last December, and in which a verdict for $10,000 damages was varied on appeal to the extent that re-assessment of the amount was directed by the higher court at Osgoode Hall. It has been arranged that the later development in the action will be held at Cochrane on October 11, when the Assizes for that district will open.

The case is that in which Daniel E. Keeley and his young son, Allan, sued Owen Evans for damages, following an accident in which Evans' car and the boy's bicycle were involved, and as a result of which the lad had one leg amputated. The older Keeley and Evans both were employed by the McIntyre Mines at Schumacher. The jury at Haileybury held Evans to have been negligent and awarded damages to plaintiff. Mr. Justice Sedgewick, who heard the original case is slated to preside at Cochrane.

Still No Word of Prospector Believed Lost

James Daly Not Heard From for Several Months; Fears Held for Safety

There is still no word of the whereabouts of James Daly, Haileybury prospector who has been believed missing in the woods of Northern Quebec for some weeks past, following the finding of a pack-sack with his name near a trail in the area where he was thought to have been working. Since the finding of the pack, by Ed. Croteau, on June 29th, and his seeing it again a month later in the same location, there has been no news of Daly, who went into the district at the opening of the prospecting season in the spring.

There were reports last week that a body had been found and that it was thought to be Daly, but these were found to be without foundation. Chief of Police MacGirr got in touch with M. B. Grover, at Amos, who stated that up to a few days ago there had been no news of the missing man.

With the total absence of news of Mr. Daly, and the time drawing near when he would be expected to return to Haileybury in the ordinary course of events, fears are being expressed this week that he has had suffered some mishap. He is, however, well versed in the ways of the woods, having spent many years prospecting in various parts of the North Country, and those who know him well say that he may turn up safely any time.

The T. & N. O. Station at South Porcupine was damaged to the extent of $800 in a fire of unknown origin last week. Many express parcels in the building were damaged or destroyed.

The town of Cochrane is installing street names and having all its houses numbered, the former being done at the expense of the town and the latter by the property owners.

Harvest Should Be Example for Christian Life

Rector of St. Paul's Draws Parallel Between Earthly and Spiritual Crop

A parallel between the earthly and spiritual harvest was drawn by Rev. Canon F. H. Hincks, rector of St. Paul's Church, in his Thanksgiving messages on Sunday last, when the annual harvest festival was celebrated at both morning and evening services. The church was beautifully decorated with products of the field and garden, intermingled with autumn leaves, and in addition to the main services of the day, which commenced with the celebration of Holy Communion at 8 o'clock, a special service for the children was held in the afternoon.

The familiar hymns of thanksgiving for a bountiful harvest and the anthem "Sing to the Lord of Harvest," by the choir, were included in the services. In the anthem the solo parts were taken by Miss Velma Thorpe, Mr. H. A. Day and Mr. H. A. Seymour.

Speaking at the evening service from the text "Herein is My Father Glorified, that ye bear much fruit," Canon Hincks said that the harvest was not only a time of rejoicing, but a time for deep thinking in regard to the spiritual life. In His teachings, Christ took many examples from nature, showing that just as in the life of a plant there is a steady going forward to the time of production, with a definite objective of harvest, so God has for us a definite purpose and our spiritual life should be one of steady progress towards the bearing of spiritual fruit. "Just as the branches of the earthly plant keep in constant touch with the root as the main source of life, so must the Christian keep in touch with Christ in order that his Kingdom may be advanced on earth. The plant does not exist of itself, is not conscious and not able to enjoy life, but rather lives for us that we may enjoy it and be reminded of the beauty and glory of God." In this there was another lesson, the speaker said, that we are not simply to gather in, but to give out as well and to be a blessing to those with whom we come in contact. This was true in the lives of the saints. God gave them their strength and as their example encourages us, so should we set an example to others.

In plant life there was always a conflict, and many enemies to be overcome. This represented the temptations to be met with constantly in the life of the Christian, who might easily grow to perfection were it not for spiritual enemies. The fight to overcome these enemies was the cause of better fruit, Canon Hincks said, and there was also a good example of this in the fact that plants growing farthest north and overcoming the difficulties of the rigorous climate brought forth better fruit than those grown under more ideal conditions.

"We thank God for His blessings," Canon Hincks concluded.

but we must also take His lessons to heart. There is a time of testing to come, when we will be required to give an accounting and we must seek God's grace in order to carry out His will on earth."

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Evans, residents of the Cobalt camp for many years, and who have been staying at Temagami since the former severed his connection some weeks ago with the Cobalt Foundry, are leaving today for Wingham, where they intend to spend the winter.
