

Nickel Company Gives Prizes in Essay Contest

High and Continuation School Pupils to Compete for Cash Awards in Essay Contest

Approved by the Honorable George S. Henry, Premier and Minister of Education, an essay contest for cash prizes totalling $200 is now being held among the school children of the Province as part of Canada's celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of her nickel industry.

"What Nickel Means to Canada" is the subject upon which all pupils in the day sessions of the high continuation and vocational schools in this Province are invited to write in competition for a first prize of $100, a second prize of $50 and two additional prizes of $25 each. The International Nickel Company of Canada, Ltd., is offering these prizes.

Napier Moore, editor of MacLean's Magazine; Brigadier-General Charles H. Mitchell, C.B., C.M.G., Dean of the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering at Toronto University, and Dr. C. W. Drury, chairman of the Toronto branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining & Metallurgy, will serve as judges.

The Department of Education has issued a memorandum to the appropriate school authorities, announcing the contest and giving its terms. The preamble to this announcement reads:

"During the past twenty-five years, the Ontario mining industry has attracted world-wide attention. The output of the various mines has increased in volume by many millions. Today, the production of the mines in Northern Ontario places Ontario among the foremost countries of the world.

Eighteen eighty-three, fifty years ago, saw the commencement of the Nickel industry in Ontario. This year, Ontario celebrates the Jubilee. With a view of fixing interest in nickel and its uses, and to promoting a knowledge of the nickel industry, the International Nickel Company has offered to institute an essay competition among the pupils of the High, Continuation and Vocational Schools of the Province."

RESTFUL RESTLESSNESS

There is always something amusing to do. Shuffleboard, deck tennis,—or whatever game appeals to you. And how those Atlantic breezes across sun-splashed decks arouse the most jaded appetite! You take your daily dip in salt water swimming pool—a pleasant tonic for tired nerves. You play bridge; and there are happy hours when you do absolutely nothing but look at an iridescent sea. What a rare joy that is in this hurrying noisy age.

No matter how much or how little you have done during the day, you are always ready to dance in the evening. Then one last promenade around the deck, a silver crescent of a moon riding overhead; a million stars are shattered in the looking-glass of the sea; the great liner moves onward silently and smoothly—a phosphorous spray from its graceful bow.

The Canadian Pacific would welcome the opportunity to assist you in planning that trip you have been thinking of for so long. This year is an opportune time.

with disorderly conduct, while French, in addition, faced a charge of theft.

To the charge involving both, they pleaded guilty and were fined $10 and costs, $28.50 each, or 30 days, while French drew a month, to run concurrently, on the other count. Major said he was unable to pay and joined his companion at the district jail.

French, it is alleged, had stolen a battery and a marble shift lever knob from an automobile owned by Hugh Doyle. He told Crown Attorney F. L. Smiley, K.C., he had taken the articles, but said he had left another battery in its place and one worth $13, against a $5 battery in Doyle's car.

Heard Hon. Winston Churchill Over the Radio on Monday

Mrs. W. G. P. Lewis, Moore's Cove, reports that on Monday afternoon at 2.30 she heard quite plainly a broadcast of a speech by Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, in London, England. He was addressing the Royal Order of St. George, according to the announcement, and the reception was quite clear for a time, Mrs. Lewis says, before some interference occurred. There was also a musical program which came in clearly. The radio at the Lewis home is a 9-tube set of a well known make and is not equipped with a short wave receiver.

GROWTH

Is your child happy? The healthy child is a happy child. Your child is born with certain possibilities, and, in fairness to him, you should give him a chance to develop these to the full.

It is much more important to consider whether your child is growing and developing as he should rather than to compare his growth and development with the average for other children.

Growth means increase in size. The best growth is that which occurs when all parts of the body grow in their proper relative importance. There is no evidence to indicate that rapid growth is desirable.

When most people speak of normal heights, they refer to an average or standard. Any child or adult may vary considerably from the average and still be normal. As individuals, we vary one from the other, and so it is that it is impossible to establish a normal for height or weight in the sense of a fixed standard which every normal person would maintain.

Growth is obviously desirable. It is during the earliest months of life that the most rapid growth occurs. By keeping an accurate record of the child's growth, his gain in weight and height, we have a most valuable index to his general physical condition.

It is for this reason that regular weighing of the baby is advised, and the practice should be continued, at longer intervals throughout childhood. Regular gain is much more important than the actual weight at any one time. Failure to gain in weight, or loss of weight, suggests that something is wrong and that the cause should be found and corrected.

The healthy child is, as we have said a happy child. The healthy child gains regularly in weight. So we see that happiness and growth are related. The happy, healthy child has rosy cheeks and red lips. He is active, alert and interested, so much so that he is somewhat strenuous and noisy. He does not have to be coaxed to eat. He sleeps soundly.

This is the picture of a healthy child. Do not think your child is healthy just because he is not sick. If he is not growing properly, if he is quiet and uninterested in play, this does not mean that he is "a good boy"; it most likely indicates that he is not healthy.
