The Letter Box

Haileybury, Ont.,
 29th November, 1948

The Editor,
 The Haileyburian
 Dear Sir:—

What a pity more encouragement is not given by our Town Council to the citizens of Haileybury to take an interest in town affairs. In many municipalities the evening of the nomination meeting is used by the Council to report back to the public on the work they have done during the year. Why not in Haileybury? The various town committees should welcome the opportunity to report and the public would appreciate the opportunity of learning the scope of their work and would also thank those Councilors who showed they had made progress. It is admitted they get little thanks and no pay!

Haileybury is in a healthy condition so far as town affairs and finances go. It is no longer necessary to beg men to run for council. But how are we to know how well they carry out their trust if they do not make such a report?

In their financial statements, the Town Council also reserves a silence. It may be possible to see the annual statement and lists of expenditures in the town office, but why are they not published in some form or other for us all to read at our leisure?

Let us have more publicity among ourselves, then perhaps it will lead to more public spirit and even create some interest in local building and industry.

Yours sincerely
 W. J. LECKY.

National Unity is Subject of Talk To Rotary Club

Baptist Minister Has Studied Problems and Suggests Solutions

The strains and stresses of national unity in Canada, with some suggestions as to how they might be overcome, was the subject of a well thought out address given by Rev. W. J. Bingham, minister of the Haileybury and Cobalt Baptist Churches, to the local Rotary Club at its meeting on Monday.

Mr. Bingham listed the causes of the strains under six headings—the great distance from east to west, the diversity of races which go to make up the population, politics, economics, languages and education.

The distance between the western section and the east leads to localism and provincialism, the speaker said, and this is especially marked in British Columbia, where the people are inclined towards isolation. On the prairies they believe they form the most important part of Canada, while in Ontario and Quebec the general belief is "We are Canada". The Maritimes, being the oldest part of the country, also hold the belief that they form the most important part of the Dominion.

In his "suggested solutions" to the problems of national unity, Mr. Bingham said that the first, that of distance, was being solved gradually. The air services had brought together the east and the west, and last week's football game in Toronto had helped a lot to overcome the feeling that exists.

The problem of race was most difficult, the speaker said. Amalgamation and assimilation was the answer, but it would be difficult to form one Canadian race, although he believed it would come eventually. So far as politics are concerned, Mr. Bingham said, it needed someone with exceptional statesmanship to bring the country together. "Maybe George can do it," he added in humorous vein.

Touching on the question of economics, Mr. Bingham said the Maritimes were in the doldrums for lack of markets, the prairies needed an extensive irrigation scheme, and for the more western provinces the big problem was the freight differential. "Ontario's need at the moment is more Hydro," he said.

On the question of language, the speaker believed there should be only one, which would make for greater national unity, and on education he believed there should be a unified school system up to Grade 12.

Mr. Bingham said that the Christian religion would never prove a bar to national unity, and that if people had true religious feelings it would be a great help towards that unity. He continued with a Bible quotation in which a "good land" was described, which might well be applied to Canada with its great national resources.

Mr. Bingham, a member of the Kinsmen Club, which has aims and objects similar to those of Rotary, was introduced by Rotarian J. L. Runnalls and tendered a

Commencement at High School Was Enjoyable Event

Diplomas and Prizes are Presented to Students; Entertainment Pleases

The presentation of diplomas and prizes won during the past year, together with a delightful entertainment by the students, made a very enjoyable evening last Thursday for a large gathering of citizens at the annual Commencement exercises of the Haileybury high school, held in the upper section of the public school. Mr. A. T. Crutcher, principal of the school, presided over the program and some of the presentations were made by prominent citizens, including members of the high school board.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP is a lot of little things

HAVE RESPECT FOR ELDERLY PEOPLE

This swift-moving, modern life holds many handicaps for elderly people. Crowded streets, stores, transportation! Here's a good opportunity to lend a friendly hand... by guiding an old lady or gentleman across a busy intersection... giving up our seat on the bus! The reward will be generous. A grateful smile... a happy lift from an unselfish act. You will be doing one of the "little things" that make for "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.
