

Twenty-Two Guess Lake's Opening on May 3rd

Robins housekeeping, golden daffodils waving in the breeze, regal tulips taking their place in the sun—so many miracles has this season, but the efforts to turn over the flower beds and plan the corn patch were half-hearted until Sat., May 3rd, when, so it seemed, quite suddenly—the ice was gone from Lake Temiskaming.

Neil Fleming, who for many years has acted as official judge, did so again this year. Whether the ice sank or melted or drifted, we are in no position to say, but nevertheless, the open water brought a sense of release to many hearts and a renewed drive to get hold of summer. Judging from the number of citizens who waited for it, the statement "The ice is gone" should warrant as much space as a flying saucer, but well, we mean when someone says "the ice is out", what can one say but "Yes, the ice is out."

Twenty-two entrants in The Haileyburian's Ice contest guessed the opening date—among them is H. G. Pickard who, some 12 years ago won three times in succession.

Emblem of Ontario

—The Trillium

In May, when the robin sings his sweetest song, the wake robins or Trilliums bloom.

The white wake robins grow in the woodland. In the flickering shade, the pure white flowers shine like stars.

They grow in rich, leafy soil. In spring, the sunlight reaches them. In summer, they are in shade.

All the parts of the plant are in threes. There are three large leaves and three pointed petals. The white wake robin has no perfume. But it is very beautiful, and will grow in your wild garden.

Churchill on U.K. Immigration

Large-scale inter-Commonwealth migration has recently been the subject of a number of questions in the United Kingdom House of Commons.

When asked on March 12th whether he would appoint a Royal Commission to report on emigration, Prime Minister Winston Churchill said: "I think that emigration from this country should be by families and representatives of the population as a whole, and not simply that daring and bold men should go. We have got to stay and fight it out here. I do not think it is necessary at this stage for us to have a Royal Commission on the subject."

In the silence of the night, there need be no more worry about those little moths that are so busy boring their way through your best curling tam. Now you can install a cedar chest with a paint brush. Cedar-lux, the new impregnated paint can be applied over wallpaper, wall-board or plaster. It's mothproof, seals all cracks and crevices. A 5-lb tin covers a closet and lasts a year. Available in Canada for about $6.95 a tin.

New Gates for Cemetery

A meeting of the Cemetery Board was held in the Town office on Friday evening, April 25th. Attending members were Thos. Lemon, Thos. Tulloch and M. B. Glazier. Jas. Reavel and Albert Hargrave were absent.

It was decided that this year two twelve-foot iron swinging gates will be put up at the entrance to the cemetery. The Town Clerk will secure prices for such an undertaking and after these have been studied, the members plan to go ahead with the project.

The caretaker of the cemetery, Mr. D. Cooke, was given a $25.00 increase in salary—from $100.00 a month to $125.00. Over and above this, he will receive, as always, payment for the digging of graves.

A discussion followed on the poor condition of the road to the cemetery, which is badly cut up and improvements are planned.
