The financial statement issued this week by the Treasurer of the Diamond Jubilee Committee. Alan Hurst, has started up several trends of thought in this writer's mind. At once, we thought about being manager of a bank in a small town. Auto-however, we decided that anyone who couldn't get lights in their eyes over a magic snow and still support the Rotary Club all in one night was a dead loss. But it wasn't us, it was Ray-mond. The main thing is, all the kids in the neighborhood thought Ray-mond was another Blackstone, so who are we to argue. Actually, he is billed as the logical successor to Houdini. "Hou" is there to "dini", it?

We got more than our money's worth after we got in out of a sub-zero wind at 7:10 for a show that was to begin at 7:00 o'clock and there were children and adults lined up in the cold at 6:30. It wasn't anybody's fault; just the wrong sleeve. And he couldn't hypnotize anyone long enough to find the key. We got a nice seat right up in the front row of that beautiful auditorium and handed our admission ticket over right smartly to that beagle eyed Marciano who took the tickets. He didn't miss much either because the old folks right behind us only had children's tickets by mistake; there was lots of room but "you the kids were in show business" and it was two bucks or else and out they went.

You cannot afford to get old in this life—there the kids were screaming and yelling and having the time of their lives and we were busy counting up five stage hands, a pianist .. six. seven. are naming this "Get to Know Your Banker Week" because we think he deserves it.

The real drawing card for us was the threat of "Cecilia" who was reported lighter than a balloon and floating through the air. This interested because every woman wants to be light on her feet. Where was "Cecilia?"

We didn't think Ray-mond was getting too much co-operation from his staff. We've never gone to a show before and been so enchanted with the leading lady's ad libbing. We just got bits and pieces, mind you, and the general atmosphere but the idea was that they only had twenty four hours to get somewhere and Ray-mond was to quit his tricks right then and get out of Haileybury. Ray-mond went right on with his tricks though even if he did have to go off-stage and wait on himself a couple of times. We admired his strength. We none left when we got home but the kids are still trying that magical card trick.

For the little lessons in life, we think the Jubilee should get us all way off in this October haze. we can see the long faces getting longer; we can hear the voices that said "Such ridiculous nonsense"; we hear those men of faith who knew we would end up scraping the roast pan for the last piece of turkey; "In Haileybury, a Jubilee?" "For what?" If people warn you often enough in a day that it's going to rain, most of us get out an umbrella. You shouldn't listen to too many people. Somewhere amidst all this gloom, one voice said "It can be and it will be a success." This is the only approach or we will fail." We put our umbrella away. Lesson number two concerns money—filthy old money. We only repeat the second lesson because we think that if a town of this size is to foster a spirit that knows no equal, there should be more "All for one and one for all." This town cannot afford to have too many people who are interested solely in the pursuit of the success of one organization. Looking over the financial statement of the Jubilee, we were struck with the thought that you could be a ballplayer and a Catholic; you could be an Anglican and a curler and have a youngster who wanted to ski; you could be a Protestant mother in the Haileybury Women's Institute and have a son who was a Boy Scout; you could be interested in any one of the organizations other than the I.O.D.E. and yet benefit from the work of the I.O.D.E. every time you turn around in this town. We ask you to keep this thought in mind before you begin deciding that someone should have gotten less and someone should have gotten more. We ask you to also bear in mind that although the committees intended to try and make the Jubilee financially successful for all, at one time everyone was going to be overjoyed if we were able to celebrate our anniversary as it should be and come out even. An editor in a small town is supposed to be very careful and even if the lunch that was served couldn't be digested still write "Mrs. DoNothing served a dainty lunch." We've forgotten what we're supposed to do this week and we're telling you that when the money started rolling in back in July, we didn't like several little scenes over who was getting what.

We are glad that every organization has benefitted from their wonderful effort which made the Jubilee a success. We feel confident that you will congratulate the Treasurer and the committee for finishing up the Jubilee with such a rosy statement. THE MAGIC OF IT ALL It took us a long time to decide to go and see Ray-mond and his Mystery Review last week—not half as long as it took us to get into the Auditorium; but,

We have so much to protect This Canada of ours—is ours to enjoy at a price—the price of constant alertness. We cannot take for granted our freedom to worship, to vote, to educate our children, or to order our home life as we please. All these freedoms are ours only as long as we are willing to do everything necessary to maintain and defend them. All honour then to the Canadian Soldier—the steadfast guardian of all our free institutions. Without men like him, the Canada we love might cease to be. We have so much to protect. Let us all do our part, without let-up, whatever way our duty lies. SERVE CANADA AND YOURSELF IN THE ARMY To be eligible you must be 17 to 40 years of age, skilled tradesmen to 45. "He charged nothing for his call... but it saved me lots of hard cash over the years"

"When I first thought of life insurance, I looked only at the size of the premiums I'd have to pay. Then a man from The Mutual Life of Canada said: 'Premiums aren't everything. A well-managed company pays its policyholders good dividends. Premiums less dividends—that's the real cost of your insurance.' "I studied the dividend record of The Mutual Life and decided to take all my insurance with that Company. It has certainly paid me. That helpful young man charged nothing for his advice—but it has saved me lots of hard cash over the years."

HYDRO ELECTRICAL INSPECTORS Work in Your Interest. One of Ontario Hydro's major contributions to safe electrical living is through its staff of Electrical Inspectors. They protect Hydro customers by checking and inspecting electrical installations for fire and shock hazard. Throughout the province 155 inspectors are on the job, to assure that wiring meets the requirements and standards as laid down in the publication, "Ontario Hydro Regulations." Please make sure all new and rewired installations are inspected by an authorized Ontario Hydro Inspector. DO YOU KNOW? During 1953 Hydro Inspectors made 626,690 electrical inspections in farms, homes and industries in Ontario. Information concerning Ontario Hydro can be obtained by writing to your Hydro Chairman, 620 University Avenue, Toronto.
