EDITORIAL

The merchants in Haileybury and Cobalt are faced with the prospects of either pulling up their socks or going broke. In New Liskeard last week, a new giant supermarket was opened which cannot fail to hurt our own independent grocers. And so it goes on. Some of our leading citizens set a fine example of how to hurt their own town by buying their cars, furniture, clothes and everything else, out of town. About 40 per cent of the tax revenue in Cobalt and Haileybury is raised from commercial properties. Every time a business folds up, it means that much greater tax burden on the home owner.

Basically the fault lies with our own merchants. If they wanted to, they could compete on very favorable terms with out of town stores, for both taxes and labor costs in Haileybury and Cobalt are still below those existing to the north.

But our Chambers of Commerce are doing little or nothing towards helping the retailers by studying schemes to bring more trade to our towns.

There is no reason why Mike Ayoub couldn't have spent his $200,000 or more in Haileybury or Cobalt, and brought in business from outside, but he spent his money north of here, because no one is doing a darn thing to encourage business to locate in our towns.

Jeunesses Musicales
 Piano Concert Series

Miss T. Fortin, regrets that owing to a mistake in arranging accommodation both the Community Concert and the Jeunesses Musicales Concert are billed for the same night.

Sunday, October 28th, Jeunesses Musicales opened their campaign for the coming season.

A dinner was served in the basement of Holy Cross Church to approximately forty members, and was followed by an informal party when some of the members themselves entertained the others.

The President, Laurent Hurst, explained to the audience the aim of Jeunesses Musicales, that is, to cultivate in the young people a love of good music. Membership cards were then offered to the workers from Cobalt, New Liskeard and Haileybury. It was gratifying to notice among those several young men and young girls who seemed very willing to preform as entertainers and as workers.

The four concerts of the season will all take place in the Community Hall at New Liskeard on the following dates; Nov. 20, Karl Engel, pianist. Dec. 11, Eddon B. Lehman, trumpeter, Charles Rainer, pianist.

Mar. 26, Hyman Bress, violinist, John Newmark, pianist. May 7, Opera de Poche, "The Ventriloquist and the Telephone."

It is with dismay that that the committees of both Community Concerts and Jeunesses Musicales have just discovered that their first concert happens to be on the same night. Many members that belong to both organizations will be disappointed but it is absolutely impossible to make any changes.

Anyone wishing to become a member of Jeunesses Musicales may call Miss Helene Maurice Secretary. Telephone 232.

is nevertheless one sure thing on which rests our survival. We will survive any difficulty if we as a nation are willing to admit the superiority of spiritual values over the material. In other words if we are a religious people, if we hold to the sacredness of the home, if we are citizens respectful of our laws our institutions and our traditions, if we are willing to work hard and practice those virtues which are necessary to every good citizen, we will survive the mounting tide of hardships ahead. This victory will be our own and all the example of all those fallen. In this we have but to follow so for the generations to come, comrades to whom we are rendering to-day a solemn homage and our utmost appreciation."
