TCA Photo
An "Electronic Reservations Brain" was demonstrated recently in Toronto by Trans-Canada Air Lines. The prototype "machine with a memory" was built for TCA by Ferranti Electric of Toronto after being conceived by Lyman Richardson, Communications Analyst with TCA in Montreal. It is expected to provide an up-to-the-second inventory of all available seats and complete a reservation in a matter of seconds. It will reduce by some 60 per cent the three-and-a-half million transactions that are required to board TCA's 250-thousand passengers a month. The nerve centre which handles all available space throughout the TCA network of some 26,000 route miles, processes 30,000 communications messages a day. The automatic system, if adopted by TCA, will reduce the number of messages by at least 80 per cent.

YOUNG CANADA BOOK WEEK

We don't hold much with most of the "weeks" that are celebrated in the course of the year such as "tomato juice week" or "be kind to mothers in law week".

But a useful purpose seems to be served by Young Canada Book Week. Not because any sensible person needs reminding that youngsters should be encouraged to read. It does, however, provide a specific occasion for adults to discover what's available in the way of reading for children and to learn which books are most likely to interest young folk.

Children can't be compelled to read nor bribed... nor prodded. But give them access to plenty of well selected, attractive and interesting books and they'll read freely, happily and fruitfully.

Your local library has a well stocked Children's Section, for all age groups, both English and French speaking, and are always glad to welcome young readers as regular members.

Will those members who have not already secured their Turkey Raffle tickets for sale, kindly pick them up from Mrs. Jensen at Steve's Food Market.

SOUND GOVERNMENT

Constitutional or parliamentary monarchy with a sovereign like ours, is a very sensible form of government, says The Financial Post.

Republics, taken by and large, don't stack up well in comparison. They and their leaders are constantly engaged in fighting the next election, and to that party interest, the interest of the country is most of the time taking second place.

A president may become sick in body or mind. He may lose touch with public opinion. His leadership may falter or disappear. There's nothing to be done in any way of these circumstances except wait for his term to end or have a revolution.

The Canadian system of course is not the product of superior wisdom. It's strictly a matter of historical good luck.

THE BIBLE TODAY

Prior to the "Liberation" of China by the communists, a young Christian Chinese was asked, "If communists take over and the freedom of worship is denied the Church, what will you do?" "The Church will go underground" replied the young Chinese. "We have the Bible in our language and we will carry on", and the Chinese Church has carried on magnificently,

The British and Foreign Bible Society turned over all its printing equipment in Shanghai to the China Bible House and their achievements since 1949 have been most gratifying and encouraging. Seven Bible Houses are maintained and 3,294,954 Scriptures have been distributed.

There is full liberty granted to the Bible Society to maintain its work of fellowship and integration with the Churches in China. There is not, however, the same liberty to engage colporteurs who will proffer Scriptures for sale in the market paces and on the streets.

MORE STAKING

What may be the beginning of a staking rush has been building up quietly in northwestern Ontario, reports The Financial Post.

First intimations of blanket staking of large tracts of promising ground comes out of the Fort William-Port Arthur area.

So far the efforts of the major mining organizations believed tying up the ground are veiled in secrecy.

At least two major areas north of Lake Nipigon are the centers of attraction to mine developers. These are believed being checked for copper and nickel mineralization.

One area lies immediately north and east of Armstrong, Ontario on the Canadian National Railway main line.

The second area is believed about 80 mile north of Armstrong on the Albany River.
