Letters To The Editor

Haileybury, Ont. is a matter of some personal regret that approximately only one quarter of those invited actually appeared, and of that quarter, only eleven individuals expressed interest in joining future classes in Welfare and Warden work. This was a great disappointment, because the interest and work of our first course personnel would have indicated more interest on the part of others.

Whatever the reason for the discouraging result, it is hoped that we can secure many more primarily for women, will open The second Welfare Course, candidates for the next courses, on Wednesday, April 30th, at 8 p.m. (not 7.30) in the Haileybury High School. The second Warden's Course will open on Thursday May 1, at the same time and place. Registration will be done on the opening night in each case.

Admission to the demonstration was by ticket. These tickets were sent to selected persons in each of the three towns, selection being made necessary by our space problem. Others will be invited to succeeding demonstrations. In this connection, it

16 Ingleside Drive Downsview, Ontario. April 7, 1958,

To The Editor, The Haileyburian, Dear Sir:—

The caption under Mr. Peters picture, quote, "HE WON NUFF SED" unfortunately demonstrates you are an extremely poor loser. You would almost imagine it was a personal defeat. Had the shoe been on the other foot there would have been a whole front page extolling their good points, (if they have any?) many would not suspect it. You are quite a psychologist. The caption is an obvious challenge to those who may see it that way.

I would be extremely proud to live in a place where the people have the courage of their convictions and determination to carry them to their logical conclusion.

Now, Mr. Editor, I am in sincere sympathy with your attitude towards the other fellow. This is generally the procedure in all one horse town where editors, although reluctant, have to pander to the wealthy majority, which in this case, is Tory. The most important aspect of all this should be quite obvious to you, fifty per cent, and perhaps more, of the people you, your staff and paper are dependent upon as readers, had what may seem to you super human courage in the midst of an obvious avalanche to the other extreme. It may be said, what manner of people are they, that stand out from the great majority. It is an honor to live among and learn from, these people, their outlook in life and current events for the emancipation of mankind from capitalistic slavery and supposed democracy. It may be too late now to try and redeem yourself, staff and paper in their eyes, however it is worth the effort, if so you will be partially forgiven by Sincerely yours, James MacFarlane.

Rod Coneybear, writer and narrator of his tales of adventure, entertains listeners to the Dominion network of the CBC weekly program on Mondays with his exciting fantasies and science-fiction stories. Each complete in itself, the tales are designed to produce a good old-fashioned thrill but often with as much laughter as fright.

Ole 'Orrible's Column

We were not impressed by human nature that must equal Mayor Damiani's refusal to make any comment on the mess at the high school. He could at least have said that to lose Miss Murphy and Mr. McAlpine was a blow to the town. However, Damiani is no Dickerson, or Art Cooke. He never has stuck his neck out, and we suppose he never will. If a mayor isn't prepared to provide leadership for his council, or mould popular opinion, then perhaps there is something to be said for the British system whereby the council elects the mayor who is little more than a chairman of a committee.

 Haileybury council has an amazing ability for discussing practically everything at fantastic lengths. If someone of the councillors would only learn how to write out a motion and get a vote, the meetings might be cut in half. *****

When ordering printing, it's a good idea to be specific. The poor old printer isn't a mind reader. With draw tickets, remember there's a difference between books and tickets. If you want five hundred books, that's 2,500 tickets if stitched five to a book. Recently a lady wanted 500 books, but asked for 500 tickets. She thought she had been short changed. *****

Cobalt Lions are wondering why the town council turned down their offer to provide new and stronger lights in town. We hear that the council has decided to do the job on its own. Apparently the council was afraid that the Lions might take too long to raise the money. We understood that the Lions were prepared to take the money from other funds to get the job done in a hurry. *****

Harry Groom bought us a beer the other day, and we had an acute attack of indigestion right afterwards. Probably means another letter is on the way. *****

Of major interest to Cobalt and Haileybury residents, there will be an announcement within the next few days of a change in the organization of one of our largest local concerns. We understand that no one will get thrown out of a job, but the move will herald a big expansion in the area. *****

Cops, reporters and undertakers are either cynic or humanitarians. Years of seeing grief and bloodshed at close quarters must do something to an individual's character. Visiting a home where the parents have just lost a child by drowning or motor car accident, breaking the news to a wife that her husband has just rolled his car and is not a fit subject for an inquest, is a lot tougher than a good day's work. Doctors too must go through emotional strains just as hard. One of these days if we make some money, we'll hire some fresh young punk and let him go out and break his heart. In the meantime we can only console ourselves with the thought that reporting gives an insight into cracy. It may be too late now to try and redeem yourself, staff and paper in their eyes, however it is worth the effort, if so you will be partially forgiven by Sincerely yours, James MacFarlane.
