Across the Kitchen Table

By Mrs. Mac.

It is always nice to get help with my column and this week I'm really pleased with the assistance I've had.

Mr. Reavell brought me a little poem which certainly expresses my feelings at times but I must say I do not agree with the last line, because I can think of nothing more boring than the prospect of "doing nothing for ever and ever." One of Edna Jacques poems that tells of the old mother who wants "to rest a while and then just putter 'round," is much more my idea of Heaven.

Then, with his renewal cheque, Mr. Hugh Carmichael of Sioux Look-out, sent the nicest letter with an interesting description of life and conditions in that northern town. And this zabeth Smith of Toronto, a renewal cheque and the message, "May your many apparent struggles find eventual reward."

So to all these good people, my sincerest thanks and the hope that they and many others, will send many more letters in the future.

This is Mr. Reavell's poem:

Here lies a poor woman who always was tired; She lived in a house where help was not hired. Her last words on earth were "Dear friends I am going

Where washing ain't done, nor weeping nor sewing; But everything there is exact to my wishes, For where they don't eat there 's no washing of dishes.

I'll be where loud anthems will always be ringing, But having no voice, I'll be clear of the singing.

Don't mourn for me now, don't mourn for me never-I'm going to do nothing for ever and ever.

(Author unknown but it was written before 1850)

Tuesday morning, I worked in the office for a few hours and when glancing out of the window, which I did quite frequently, I was amazed at the number of goodlooking firemen passing up and down the street. Some of them were alone or with other firemen but most of them were accomp-panied by girl friends or wives. It was indeed a great day for Haileybury, to have for the first time in over fifty years the annual Firemans Tournament, held in the town.

I wonder if there is any hobby more rewarding than the growing of flowers? No matter how tired I am, a few minutes with my flowers relaxes and rests me. This year the tulips and daffodils lasted such a long time because of the cool weather and now the iris are flaunting their gorgeous coloring. I only have six different colors but have ordered ten more rhizomes which I hope will all be different. And I am also exchanging several of the colors I have with friends so we will both benefit. My roses too, are a joy. I had quite a few last year and they all wintered beautifully, so this spring I invested in eight more and now I have sixteen different varieties and nearly all of them are budded.

The Blaze and American Pillar climbing roses are exceptionally well budded and should be starting to bloom in a week or so. And the pan-sies and forget-me-nots are, as usual, a joy.
