Haileybury this week is playing host to golfers and golf fans from all over the north. We join with all the community in welcoming them and wishing them the very best of luck.

It seems strange that this little town, which lacks any major industry, which isn't so directly dependent on the mines as is Cobalt, nor has the solid agricultural basis of New Liskeard, can still be unchallenged as a recreational centre.

Our golfing friends will find good hotels, excellent boating, swimming and fishing, and a town in which the average quality of residence challenges any in the north. And, if we may send a shiver down their backs, in the winter time our curling club is one of the finest in the province.

As an entertainment and recreational centre Haileybury occupies something of a unique position. It is, perhaps, unfortunate that so little has been done to attract more tourists, and to develop more tourist attractions and tourist industries here. But perhaps one of our golfing visitors will take time to have a good look round Haileybury, and realize that here we have great opportunities if someone will but take time to develop them.

Some of the nights during July were cool but not as cool as it was away in 1904 when the temperature dropped to 35.8.

For July, 1958, the average mean temperature was 68.0, for the same period in 1957 it was 69.7 and the average since 1894 is 66.8.

The maximum temperature for this July was 90.0 on the 22nd. two degrees higher than it was in 1957 and much lower than the average since 1894 when 102.0 was registered in 1921.

The minimum for both this year and last year was exactly the same, at 49 degrees as compared to 35.8 as the average since 1894.

TO GIVE YOU
Dial Service

IN HAILEYBURY

It takes a complex maze of wires, skilfully arranged in neat patterns — plus the modern dial telephone — to make automatic telephone service possible. And it takes months of patient, precise work to build the equipment that goes into action the instant you start dialing a number.

Installation of the equipment which will mean "dial service" for you is well underway in the new telephone exchange, and after the change we believe you will agree that the faster, more convenient service makes your telephone more valuable than ever.
