Northern Ontario's Oldest Weekly Newspaper

Ole 'orrible Quits

Effective next week, The Haileyburian and Cobalt Weekly Post will be published by the Temiskaming Printing Company of New Liskeard.

The present editor and publisher regrets that the unremitting pressure of increasing costs, without any great increase in revenue makes it necessary to sell the paper to some organization that has the financial resources and mechanical facilities that will ensure a profitable operation.

We want to thank a great many people who have helped during the past three years. First of all the North Bay Nugget, which kept us on at full salary so that we could afford to run the Haileyburian. Following a motor accident, we have found it more and more difficult to do two jobs, and this too has contributed toward our decision to sell. However the Nugget's assistance is a rare example of a large daily materially assisting a small and struggling weekly.

We must also thank Alan Hurst at the Bank of Nova Scotia, who never yelled too loud when we got in the red and always provided a good deal of sound advice.

Art Cooke has helped us many times, while Alex Maclean, Haileybury's grand old photographer, has donated hours of his time. Dalton Dean managed to prevent us from being sued, and Mr. Cummings was always willing to give us the benefit of his considerable political experience.

Dan Hellens bailed us out of a nasty jackpot once, while Hubert Doran of the Temiskaming Construction and the Valentine brothers at Morissettes saved our necks with printing orders time and time again.

Bob Ashford and Mrs. Ashford and Uncle Harold at the show, Mrs. Lyttle at the Evelyn Shoppe, Jimmy Timmins at the Haileybury Hotel, just to name a few of that small but faithful band of regular advertisers who have kept the wheels turning. We are going to miss you.

It isn't possible to name all those who have helped keep the Haileyburian going. Our staff has worked extremely hard, and for the most part on very poor wages.

We thank them and all the other little people who don't run businesses or hold important positions, but none the less always did their best to help the town's old paper stagger along.

We are glad that Cecil Bond and associates plan to keep publishing the Haileyburian as a separate paper, and wish them well. In looking back over the years, our biggest consolation is that we did our best, accomplished some good, and while we may have made mistakes, at least no one can say that we were often dull.

IMMUNIZATION CLINIC.
Dr. E. R. Harris, Medical Officer of Health, Temiskaming Health Unit will be conducting an immunization clinic for infants and pre-school children at the Legion Hall, Haileybury, on Wednesday, September 24th, 1958 from 1.30 to 3.30 pm.

All parents are invited to bring their children and have them protected against Whooping Cough, Diphtheria, Tetanus (Lockjaw) and Smallpox.

This protection should be given your child from these months of age upwards and may be obtained from this clinic or from your family physician.

The dates of clinics for those adults and children who received their initial two injections of Polio Vaccine in the spring of the year will be announced later

Two young local nimrods, driving along the Silver Centre road early Monday morning looking for partridge, saw five skunks, all kinds of birds except partridge, and finally a large bear.

Armed only with shotguns, they chanced a couple of potshots at the rear of the bear which sent him scampering in one direction while they dashed madly in the other and decided that home and breakfast sounded better than bear steaks.

Bears are becoming a menace to blueberry pickers along the Silver Centre road. One man is reported as having shot nine of them at various times, almost in his back yard.
