HORSE SENSE: that instinct which prevents horses from betting on people.

BOOGEYMAN'S NOT COMING.

Scaring a child into obedience by threatening to call a boogeyman or other scary thing may cause a child to develop lasting fears. It is equally unwise to put him into dark room or send him supperless to bed. Threats of giving him to a policeman can be equally undesirable, since every child should be taught that the policeman is a friend to whom a youngster can go when he is lost, hurt or frightened.
