

Across the Kitchen Table

By MRS. MAC

One hears so much these days about "do-it-yourself" projects and "making something out of something else" such as a dressing table stool out of a backless chair, or a garden table out of an old treadle sewing machine stand, that it really seems rather nice to hear of something being used for what it was intended and I really giggled about this little poem which I clipped out of the Christian Science Monitor:

SPICY ADVICE

Nan bought an old spice cabinet mellow and fine,
Her friends were all envious ("Wish it were mine"),
Said Ruthie, "I'd plant it with ivy and things."
Said Ann, "It is perfect for trinkets and rings."
"Oh no, not for me," put in Rose who was cute,
"I'd fill it with paper clips, pens and desk loot."
D'you know what Nan did with it, in spite of advice?
She used it, of all things, to hold —spice!

Last Thursday I went up to see Mr. Pickard's iris blooms. To say they were beautiful, is putting it mildly. They are breath-taking. The most marvelous shades and colors, many of them that he has raised himself from seedlings. After admiring the iris, Mrs. Pickard showed me her African Violet collection and they were just as beautiful in their class as Mr. Pickard's iris. The multitude of blooms on them testify to the loving care they receive.

Isn't June a lovely month? But then isn't any month a lovely month? But especially June, because the first wonder of flowers blooming, which put us in a tizzy in early May, has now subsided somewhat and we can really enjoy the quietness of June, coupled with the pleasure of watching the robins and bluebirds hurrying here and there pulling up fat worms to fill the eager mouths that are gaping wide at every sound. And there is the joy of finding in the morning, fresh with dew, the first rose bud bursting into bloom. It's so nice too, to waken just as the sky is beginning to turn a rosy pink and hear the birds in the tree outside the window, singing its heart out in a song of praise. Of course I didn't say anything about getting up at that time of morning, it's wonderful to go back to sleep with the bird's music in your ears knowing that you do not have to get up for another hour or two.

June is Dairy Month in Canada

"Make Dairy Foods Daily Foods" is the theme adopted by the Canadian Dairy Industry for the most intensive sales campaign in its history, during the month of June.

In addition to special advertising by processors during the month of June, the Dairy Council is making over one million copies of dairy food recipes available to consumers through the retail food trade. Special programs featuring the project will be undertaken at the local level from coast to coast.

In a statement addressed to the President of The National Dairy Council, Prime Minister Diefenbaker observed that—

"This promotion shows enterprise on the part of the Canadian dairy industry and a realization that in these days of stiff competition it is not enough to find a good product—you have to find a market for it too.

"Dairy products are not only the foundation of much of Canada's farm economy, but a valuable part of the national diet as well. Increased consumption by Canadians of their farm-produced foods is the best assistance we can give to the agricultural industry of this country."

The need for an expanded sales drive by the Industry becomes apparent when it is realized that an all-time record milk production in excess of 18,000,000,000 pounds, about 1,000 pounds per person, is estimated for the current year. At the start of the dairy year, May 1st, surplus stocks of some 50,000,000 pounds of butter and more than 60 million pounds of skim milk powder were hanging over the domestic market. Butter consumption has shown a sharp decline during the past year.

The Canadian dairy processing and distributing industry is made up of several thousand small, medium and large companies. These include privately-owned companies and voluntary co-operatives, the latter accounting for about 25 per cent of the total multi-billion pounds of milk processed in Can-

Dahlia Blooms

A Dahlian in bloom in June is the strange phenomenon reported by Jack Sutherland, an avid Cobalt gardener. Mr. Sutherland was working in his garden when he noticed that his Dahlia normally a fall flowering plant, was developing good healthy blooms. Not being a gardening authority we are at a loss to account for this. Perhaps some of the other green-thumb enthusiasts of the district can give us some assistance in explaining this.

ada each year.

The gross annual value of the Dairy Industry reaches a total of one billion dollars, making it one of the largest single industries in Canada.

Dairy processors, manufacturers and distributors are spending more than $5,000,000 each year to advertise and promote the sales of dairy foods and expand the market for the milk production of Canada's dairy farmers.

Although fluid milk and butter together accounted for almost three-quarters of Canada's milk supply, fluid milk sales during 1958 accounted for 48 per cent of dairy farm cash income, butter 37 per cent, cheese 6 per cent and manufacturing milk 9 per cent.

Data published by the Canada Department of Agriculture show that the farmers' share of the consumer's dollar amounted to 77 per cent in the case of butter and 52 per cent for fresh fluid milk. These returns compare with 48 per cent for pork, 43 per cent for potatoes, 19 per cent for canned peas and 13 per cent for bread.

MORE WONDERFUL YEARS OF LIVING!

Look down that road next time you're driving. What's ahead—a lot of living, or the one second of carelessness it takes to die? Why not trade a little free time to live a lot longer. The difference between 50 and 70 mph. isn't worth the risk . . . the few seconds you save are rarely that important.

In this freedom-loving land of ours, everyone has a chance to make his dreams come true. Give them that chance; your Ontario Department of Transport urges you to observe the speed limits. Slow down and live.
