Mining School Attracts Students From Wide Area

At the present time there are 84 students enrolled at the Provincial Institute of Mining at Haileybury, coming from such far-away places as Freetown, Sierra Leone, British West Africa, Indianapolis, Indiana, Kimberley, British Columbia, Winnipeg and Bissett, Manitoba, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie, Wawa, Bourlamaque, Fort William, Toronto, Regina, MacKenzie Island, near Red Lake, Oakville and Montreal, as well as many from the areas closer to Haileybury. Over half of the students are from mining districts.

The Institute offers highly practical courses in subjects directly related to mines and mining. Although it does not lead to a degree, it provides a high standard of technical instruction for young men who desire to enter the industry but who have not the time or financial resources to allow for university training. The qualification for admission to the two year course is Secondary School (Grade XII) graduation, and the total annual fee is $205.00 which includes all incidentals, cost of field trips and laboratory equipment.

Mine operators take a real and practical interest in the school, usually providing summer work for the students and excellent facilities for field work. Graduates very seldom experience any difficulty in finding permanent employment in the mining industry.

perienced miner, who had worked on and off in the property for about four years.

No explanation for Sauve's action was offered, except that he must have acted on impulse, forgetting the nearby chute.

Dr. A. Bullen of New Liskeard said that he went underground but Sauve had died a few minutes before he arrived. He said that the man had suffered very severe internal injuries.

Crown attorney George Black of Haileybury assisted Dr. H. A. Dunning of Cobalt, who was the presiding coroner.

First white settler in Canada's capital city was an American, Philemon Wright of Woburn, Mass., who started up the Hudson River in 1800 seeking new lands and eventually settled on the present site of the city of Ottawa.

The hospital boasts a modern cafeteria, diet kitchen, including "meals on wheels", fully equipped delivery room, nursery with twelve bassinets, premature nursery and formula room. X-Ray department has been re-located and provides the latest in X-Ray equipment. The operating room suite consists of two major operating rooms and one fracture room, also included is a four-bed post operative recovery room.

Presently under construction is a fully equipped laboratory, physio-therapy department, isolation unit and central medical and surgical supply rooms.

The hospital will have a total of 225 beds to accommodate chronic and general hospital patients. The chronic unit serves an area taking in Sudbury, North Bay to Hearst.

Hospital staff nurses include a Dietitian, Pathologist and graduate Laboratory Technician. The hospital is supervised by Superior Sister Marie de l'esperance and twelve assisting Sisters. Mr. Clayton G. Dunn is Comptroller. One hundred and eighty persons are presently employed at the hospital.

Major additions and renovations are being completed by Hill-Clark-Francis Ltd. under the supervision of Mr. Ralph Campeau. Mr. Campeau was employed on the original hospital building and over the years has supervised many additions to the hospital.

Curling Season Windup Sees Series of Upsets

The big inter-town bonspiel is grinding to a close. Finals of the various events, in both the men's and women's sections are scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday nights of next week unless something interferes with the ice. On Tuesday night of this week three sheets of Haileybury ice were unfit to play on owing to frost falling from the roof. They should be back in use not later than Thursday.

The bonspiel has seen its upsets. Crack rinks have been chased to the bush league. At least two rinks have had the embarrassing experience of not even getting on the score board. The number of six-end games have been greater than usual, when skips have given up the ghost rather than prolong the agony.

The battle for Lavery's Bulova Watches is now approaching the semi-finals and none of the skips who have won the event over the past ten years are in the running this year. Tuesday night saw only two of the New Liskeard rinks still in this top event.

The New Liskeard ladies are not faring much better in their section than the men's rinks, but there is still a fair number of them in the running for the prize money. The finals of the Women's events are scheduled for Haileybury on Thursday night which will wind up curling in both rinks for the year.

Finals for the men's events are scheduled for New Liskeard at about 7.30 next Wednesday night. A number of New Liskeard rinks have found it necessary to use more substitutes this year than usual. Sickness among personnel has taken its toll, which along with the removal of H.C.F. office staff to North Bay has further decimated other rinks. In ad-

Many Renovations At Haileybury Hospital

First phase of a major renovation plan has been completed at the Misericordia Hospital, Haileybury, with opening of new administrative offices, main entranceway and lobby.

The new main entrance located at the east of the hospital leads directly into the administrative offices. Admitting and discharge office, ambulance entrance and new elevator are now located in close proximity allowing patients to be admitted and discharged with maximum efficiency.

A large canopy has been erected over the ambulance entrance allowing added protection to patients being admitted by ambulance. All entrances to the hospital are at ground level which overcame the long flight of stairs which formerly served at the main entrance.

Marble, terrazzo, stacked brick and birch plywood have been used extensively in finishing the new main lobby and blend to make a striking entrance. Thermo-Seal windows extend across the front of the lobby affording a Panoramic view of Lake Temiskaming.

When completed the entire hospital will have received a new look. The third floor has had a complete face lifting with walls, floors, lighting and washroom facilities receiving attention. First, second and fourth floors are presently being renovated with the thought in mind of patient comfort.
