

And speaking of flowers, last Friday morning, I tip-toed here and there around the edge of the lawn and found the tulips, the daffodils, the crocus, the dwarf iris and the bleeding heart, as well as scads of creeping Jenny. (drat her), popping their perky heads up. And then, wasn't Monday morning enough to break anyone's heart? I don't think I'll even look out the window towards the flower beds for a month! (On second thought, maybe I will).

Our small grandson came to visit on Sunday with the intention of staying until Tuesday. However, when it came near the time for his parents to go home, he couldn't make up his mind just what to do, but he finally decided that if Mummy would stay, everything would be rosy. So after a bit of coaxing Mummy decided she would stay. Shortly after, a little voice piped up, "I wish Daddy could have a holiday, too, I'm going to miss him." Bless their hearts, can't they be sweet?

At the hospital last week-end, while visiting a friend from New Liskeard, I was surprised to see Mrs. J. T. Leishman occupying a bed there. A fall down stairs has

The Death of One's Own Company

By BETTY McBRAYNE

One's own company passed away, we buried it the other day. Its ghastly death, no doubt a crime; the murderer was modern time. No longer does one sit alone, to solve a problem, to read a poem. To sit alone is an act of lunacy—looked down upon by our community.

Enjoy yourself, go to a dance. Don't give your concentration a chance. Go to a show or sip a coke, life to us is one big joke.

One's own company, I am sad to say, Passed away the other day, Never should you sit and think; Come down town and have a drink.

The above poem, written by a New Liskeard High School girl, really portrays the attitude of a great many people now-a-days, doesn't it? To sit down quietly by one's self, to study, to read, or just to think, without the shimmying television, the blaring radio, (both as loud as possible, of course), or someone to talk to, just doesn't seem to be the accepted thing, does it? Personally, although I thoroughly enjoy meeting people, both in and out of my home, I do appreciate a quiet evening at home, with the radio turned off, (thank goodness, we have no television) a fire in the fireplace and a good book or magazine handy. That's my idea of "peace, perfect peace". Either that, or in the summer, an afternoon or evening to work in the garden, among the flowers.

News from the Evelyn Shoppe

Here's good news for Cotton Pickers! The new 1960 cottons have arrived and have out-done themselves in style, variety and design.

Cotton lingerie so beautiful that you catch your breath with delight. Newest of the new in night wear are the crinkle cotton "pop-overs" short tops with Capri mid-calf legs. The material checked and plain stripes in an amazing crinkle weave. These are trimmed with lace edging. Then there are Baby Dolls in polka dots, high-lighted with a white froth of embroidery, and plain colors in dri-dry Pima cotton. All of them have matching dusters, dainty as a butterfly's wing, with closed or open necks, tiny sleeves and handy pockets. And the price range of both pyjamas and dusters will make you look twice to believe. From $2.98 to $5.95! Other lingerie items in pale rainbow pastels and gossamer weave cottons include slips and half slips.

Then when you have made your selection of "under-cover" fashions, see our cotton dresses. Slim or full-skirted, pleated, the Shepherdess look, the Gypsy look, the square dance look. Pale pastels, bold brilliants and sharp black and whites.

These easy-care, air conditioned cottons wash with the greatest of ease and dry without mussing. Many of them are the famous Dan River, wrinkle-shed, Dry-Don finish cottons. So come on down and do your cotton picking early, the crop is greater than ever, "color bright, crisply light and fashion tight."

Moose Harvest

The 3,000 people, 300 of them non-residents of Ontario, who hunted moose in this district in the 1959 season, took 1,030 animals 850 going to residents and 180 to non-residents, a survey shows. Hunter success for residents was 31.1% and for non-residents 60%. With a slightly greater number of hunters in the field, the moose harvest was about the same as in 1958.

Sixteen Children Guests of Rotary

At last week's meeting of the Haileybury Rotary Club, sixteen boys and girls under ten years of age were guests of the members.

Those members who had no children of their own, borrowed from their more fortunate neighbors. Following the dinner, the children learned that the Easter Bunny had left gifts for them.

A film entitled "Life in the Swamp", was enjoyed by the grown-ups as well as the children.

On behalf of the guests, Bob Macdonald thanked the members given her a very painful back and I'm sure her friends will be sorry to hear of her accident.
