Great Writers On Reading

By R. ST-CYR

"When I am reading—a book, whether wise or silly, it seems to me to be alive and talking to me. Sometimes I read a book with pleasure and detest the author. It is easy enough for a man to walk who has a horse at his command. The invalid is not to be pitied who has a cure up his sleeve. And such is the advantage I receive from books.

"They relieve me from idleness, rescue me from company I dislike, and blunt the edge of my grief, if it is not too extreme. They are the comfort and solitude of my old age. When I am attacked by gloomy thoughts, nothing helps me so much as the running to my books. They quickly absorb me and banish the clouds from my mind. And they don't rebel because I sue them only for lack of pastimes more natural and alive. They always receive me with welcome."

... Montaigne.
"Let us read with method, and propose to ourselves an end to what our studies may point. The use of reading is to aid us in thinking . . . Edward Gibbon.

"Books are to be called for and supplied on the assumption that the process of reading is not half-asleep; but in the highest sense an exercise, a gymnastic struggle; that the reader is to do something for himself. . . . Walt Whitman.

"How many a man has dated a new era in his life from the reading of a book. The book exists for us perchance which will explain our miracles and reveal new ones. The at present unutterable things we find somewhere uttered. These same questions that disturb and puzzle and confound us have in their turn occurred to the wise men; not one has been omitted; and each has answered them according to his ability, by his word and his life." . . . Henry David Thoreau.

"Book love, my friends, is your pass to the greatest, the purest and the most perfect pleasure that God has prepared for His creatures. It lasts when all other recreations fade. It will support you and last you till your death. It will make your hours pleasant to you as long as you live." . . . Anthony Trollope.

With the advice of such great authors as the ones' above I feel that there is nothing that I could possibly add, to entreat you to read further, or more, I am sure that your librarians will be glad to help you to choose some very interesting reading matter. There is countless knowledge, life, humour and pleasure that can be reaped from the huge harvest of books in your library.

Miller - Shaw

The marriage of Gwendolyn Miller to Dr. John Charles Shaw took place on May 7th at four o'clock in Christ Church with Canon R. M. Jones officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Miller, Charing Cross Rd., Chatham, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Shaw of Cobalt.

Miss Miller formerly was with the Victorian Order of Nurses in Cobalt.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of peau de soie, fashioned on princess lines, with sweetheart neckline and long lily point sleeves. The gown featured appliqued motifs of Chantilly lace, hand embroidered in seed pearls and sequins and a floor length train falling from a tailored bow at the back V neckline. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a coronet of orange blossom and opalescent pearls. She carried a spray of white gardenia and stephanotis.

Mrs. James Hudson was her cousin's matron of honor. She was gowned in shaded pink floral cotton, and carried a bouquet of white gladioli. Sandra Grant of Peterborough, niece of the groom, acting as flower girl was dressed in full length azalea organza with coronet of fresh white feathered carnations and nosegay to match. "Happy Dilemma"

For GIRLS ONLY

If you smile, he thinks you're a flirt.

If you don't he thinks you're angry.

If you let him kiss you, he wishes you were more reserved.

If you don't, he seeks consolation elsewhere.

If you flatter him, he thinks you're silly.

If you don't, he thinks you don't appreciate him.

If you talk of love and marriage, he jumps to conclusions that you are proposing.

If you don't, he thinks you don't care.

If you go out with other boys, he thinks you are fickle.

If you don't he thinks no one wants you.

BOYS, bless their pointed little heads, don't know what they want.

For BOYS ONLY

If you smile at her she thinks you are a wolf.

If you don't, she thinks you are blind.

If you try to kiss her, she thinks you are fresh.

If you don't, she thinks you're shy.

If you flatter her, she thinks you're after something.

If you don't, she thinks you didn't notice her.

If you talk of love and marriage, she thinks she's caught and doesn't want you anymore.

If you don't, she wants to know why you don't love her.

If you go out with other girls, she thinks you are two-timing her.

If you don't, she thinks that no one else will go with you.

GIRLS, bless their loyal hearts, know just what they want,

But, want you to figure it out yourself.

ONTARIO HYDRO

Important Information for All Hydro Customers in Cobalt, Haileybury Englehart, New Liskeard and Thornloe

Beginning in June, bills for electrical energy will be prepared by an electronic data-processing machine, the Univac — the huge, almost-human machine in the Toronto office — turning out accounts at regular intervals, together with all necessary data and records.

Because of this change, the first billing period will vary for many customers. Your bill may cover a period of three or four months instead of the present two or three, which could mean a higher bill than you usually receive. This, of course, will automatically adjust itself in subsequent billings. On the other hand, you may receive a bill for a shorter period, with a lower amount than usual. Therefore, do not worry if this happens to you.

Your Ontario Hydro hopes that the transition to the new method of billing will result in increased efficiency and service for the customers. Customers are requested to note change in the discount date on their bills which may vary from month to month.
