Man has split the atom, sent rockets to the moon, manufactured machines that perform astounding calculations. But he still hasn't been able to discover what happens to a normal cell to turn it into a cancer cell.

Despite the advances in treatment more than 22,000 Canadians died from cancer last year. More than half of these were men.

Egypt's Capital

Cairo, capital of Egypt, is the largest city in Africa, with a population of 2,500,000. It was started in A.D. 969, but the present city is the fourth to be built there. The European section is modern, and the older section has narrow, twisting streets. The mosques, the Oriental atmosphere and the nearness of the Pyramids make it a colourful and dramatic place.
