Donald P. Douglass Appointed Deputy By Mines Minister

Ontario's mines minister, James A. Maloney, today announced the appointment of Donald P. Douglass as Deputy Minister. Mr. Douglass was sworn into his new office today, although his appointment dates from December 29. He replaces H. C. Rickaby who retired last month as deputy minister after 33 years in the public service.

Mr. Douglass, a native of Stanley, N.B., who received his early education there and at the Rothsay N.B. Collegiate, graduated from the University of New Brunswick in 1932 as a Bachelor of Science, and in 1945 he was awarded his M.Sc.

His first years in the mining business, from 1935 to 1937 were spent with the Coniaurum gold mine in the Porcupine district where he was on the electrical engineering staff. In 1937 he joined the Department of Mines as the electrical inspector for the Kirkland Lake district. He moved to Toronto in 1940 to take over the position of senior electrical inspector, and in 1952 he became executive officer following the death of D. G. Sinclair. He was appointed assistant deputy minister in 1958.

The new deputy minister of mines is a member of the Professional Engineers' Association and of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy. He is an enthusiastic curler and a member of the Toronto Curling Club. Until the ice becomes too thick he spends much of his spare time as a fisherman.
