Editors to be Inducted In Order of Good Cheer

The Order of Good Cheer was organized in 1606 at Port Royal, Nova Scotia by Samuel de Champlain as an antidote for tedium for the explorers and colonizers who accompanied him.

The 1961 CWNA convention, the 42nd in the association's history, will centre around Halifax's Nova Scotian Hotel and the program facing the delegates will be one of the most interesting and entertaining ever attempted.

The City of Halifax and the Nova Scotian government have co-operated very closely with the convention committee and the well-rounded program which has been arranged will be of general interest to all attending the annual meeting.

A highlight of the convention will be the unveiling of a plaque in honor of Sir Joseph Howe in Province House, following a buffet dinner at the same location. Presentation of membership certificates of the Order of Good Cheer will be made to all delegates present.

During the convention presentation will be made of the 1961 Better Newspapers Awards, given annually by CWNA for the best all-round paper, best editorial page and best front page in the various circulation groups.

Presiding over the sessions will be CWNA President, Werden Leavens of the Bolton (Ont.) Enterprise. Convention program chairman is Frank Burns of the Kentville (N.S.-Advertiser).

The only order of its kind in the world—which asks only that members have a good time—will shortly welcome into its fold close to 400 new members who will pay no initiation fee, no dues and never have to meet formally.

The new members, delegates and their wives attending the annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association in Halifax, from August 14 to 16—will be inducted into the Order of Good Cheer—one of the oldest social organizations on the North American continent.
