Lamb Carcass Grading Will Earn Premiums

M. F. Cook, Temiskaming Agricultural Representative, announced today that quality premiums will be paid on eligible lambs marketed on or after August 14, 1961.

The payments will be on the basis $2.00 per head for Choice (A) lambs and $1.00 per head for Good (B) lambs weighing between 36 to 51 pounds hot dressed weight.

To be eligible for premiums, lambs must be properly identified by the producer or his agent and must be slaughtered at a plant where federal carcass grading is available. Payment will be on the basis of an official carcass grading certificate issued by a government grader.

It will therefore be necessary for producers to tag their lambs to preserve their identity through the grading process. These tags are available through Clifford Krick, and information concerning use can be obtained from Mr. Cook or Mr. Krick.

Also, each shipment of lambs to a slaughtering establishment must be accompanied by a manifest containing the following information: Name and address of the producer; The number of lambs in the shipment; The ear-tag numbers.

Manifest books can be obtained without cost from Mr. Cook at the Farm Services building.

The premiums will be paid in much the same manner as that now used to pay premiums on quality hog carcasses. Settlement forms will show the grade of the lambs slaughtered and will have a warrant attached covering the appropriate premium. The warrant will be signed by a government grader.

Mr. Cook emphasized that ear-tagging is the responsibility of the producer and his agent. He said that all producers having lambs for slaughter after August 14 should see that they are properly identified to ensure eligibility for the premium payment.

N. Cobalt Wedding Followed by Eastern Trip

Lady of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church, North Cobalt, was the scene of a pretty wedding ceremony Saturday, August 5, when Miss Irene Angeline Madore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorient Madore, Cobalt, became the bride of Morris Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Brown, North Cobalt, with Rev. Roland Becotte officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely white organza dress with rounded embroidered neckline and wore a shoulder-length veil held by a tiara of rhinestones and carried a bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by her sister Mrs. Lena Dobbs, who wore a pink taffeta street-length dress, with hat, gloves and shoes in matching color and carried a bouquet of white mums.

The groom was attended by Mr. Sheldon Dobbs.

After the ceremony, a reception was held for relatives and close friends in the Orange Hall, North Cobalt.

The bride's mother received, wearing a smart pale blue terylene dress with white accessories.

The groom's mother, also receiving, wore an attractive pale blue flowered satin with navy and white accessories.

For travelling to points in eastern Ontario, the bride donned a pale blue checked dress with white accessories. On their return the young couple will live in North Cobalt.

Out-of-town guests attending were: Mrs. Albert Madore Sr., Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Andy Hayward, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gagnon, Matachewan; Mr. and Mrs. Raoul Gratton, Kirkland Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Koehler, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Gregg and son Clayton Gregg; Garson; Mrs. Lloyd Richards and daughter, Miss Maureen Richards, South Porcupine; Miss Marilyn Brown, North Bay; Mr. and Mrs. George Leveille and family and Mr. and Mrs. Guy McChesney and family of New Liskeard.

Cabinet Ministers Present When Farm Services Building Opened

Saturday was a big day for farmers in Northeastern Ontario in general, and the New Liskeard area in particular. The new farm services building at the demonstration farm was officially opened.

Ontario public works minister Ray Connell whose department was responsible for construction work, turned the building over to agriculture Minister William Goodfellow.

Mr. Connell said that the total cost of the building was close to $200,000. The building is the only one of its kind north of Toronto and Guelph, and will serve nearly 10,000 farmers in Algoma, Temiskaming, Manitoulin, Sudbury, Nipissing, Parry Sound and Cochrane areas.

It co-ordinates under one roof a wide variety of specialist services including a veterinary diagnostic laboratory, engineering department, home economics, crops and dairy improvement services.

Agriculture Minister Goodfellow said that the province is fortunate in having in reserve in Northern Ontario millions of acres of potentially rich agricultural land which will be needed as world populations soar and agricultural land in Southern Ontario is used for other purposes.

He added that during a period of surpluses, he had not encouraged large scale development of new land in the north, but he did feel that existing farmers are entitled to the best services the agricultural department can provide.

Mr. Goodfellow said that he does believe that there is a great future for beef farming in the north, and looks forward to the day when the area will produce enough beef and livestock to support an abattoir or packing house.

He added that three years ago the demonstration farm gave up its herd of dairy cattle as the department was not interested in competing with existing dairy farmers, but that a very extensive program of beef raising is now in progress.

Speaking of surpluses, Mr. Goodfellow remarked that in his view one dollar worth of food distributed to the needy did more for peace than a dollar of atomic weapons.

The two cabinet ministers joined to unveil a metal plaque which reads: "This plaque commemorates the opening of this building by the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Agriculture, and the Hon. Ray Connell, Minister of Public Works. New Liskeard, August 12, 1961."

Mr. Goodfellow also paid tribute to M. F. Cook, local agricultural representative, who has completed 31 years of service.

Mr. Cook introduced the guests from many parts of the province, and said that the day was one of the happiest in his life.

Following the ceremonies, visitors and guests toured the building and its many facilities. Apart from the laboratory, engineering department, the office of the representative and his assistant, Clinton Nesbitt, and that of the demonstration farm superintendent, the building contains a home economic department under Miss Kathleen Shevkenek, and the offices of Mike Bailey, fruit and vegetable inspector; Al Whitehead, dairy fieldman and Clement Heroux, dairy herd improvement association field man.

Among those present were Phil Hoffman, MLA; Arnold Peters, Federal MP; representatives Romeo Leroux, Sudbury; Gus Courchesne, Matheson; Emerson Jennings, Manitoulin Island; Raoul Portelance, Cochrane; W. Gossman, Kapuskasing Experimental Station.

Others were: Grant Mitchell, Sault Ste. Marie; Felix Miette, North Bay; Professor T. L. Jones, OAC; Dr. W. R. Mitchell, extension officer of OVC; Hon. Wilfred Spooner, Minister of Lands and Forests; Rene Brunette, MLA;

George Edwards, president of the Agricultural Societies for Northern Ontario; William Peters, president of the Ontario Milk League; Dr. John Thompson, veterinarian for Temiskaming; Col. C. E. Reynolds, chairman of the ONR and Mayor and Mrs. Lowery Taylor, New Liskeard; F. Baker, publicity for the department and R. G. Bennett, chief agricultural officer who chaired the proceedings.

Noranda Wins Trophy At Kiwanis Tourney

New Liskeard Kiwanis was host to golf bugs from Division 1 who travelled from across the north for the annual golf tournament, one of the most popular summer activities of the International service club.

Noranda emerged the winners at the end of a wet day of golfing to take the J. W. McBean trophy offered by the Kiwanis Club and put into competition in 1959. Hosts were the New Liskeard Kiwanis Club.

The golf tournament was held at the Haileybury Golf Club and a supper followed during which Lt-Governor Tom Smith, Noranda, addressed the Kiwanians. He presented the Lt-Governor's ribbon to the New Liskeard group which shares the distinction of having emerged on top among nine clubs in the two first quarters of 1961. Division 1 of Kiwanis is composed of clubs from Cochrane, Kirkland Lake, Cobalt, Noranda, South Porcupine, New Liskeard, Rouyn, Timmins and Val d'Or.

The trophy was presented to the Noranda team by president Glen Gregory, New Liskeard, whose club took it last year. Members of the Noranda team were J. W. Mullian, J. Amour, H. Paul and Bob Jardine. Cobalt was the runner-up Saturday.

Others prizes handed out Saturday included: prize for most falls in one match, Arnie Armstrong, New Liskeard; golfer who went farthest in bush, Doug McLellan, New Liskeard; most honest golfer, Gord Hamilton, Kirkland Lake; golfer nearest pin on No. 7 and who used strongest language, Lorne Woods, New Liskeard; low net score, Bud Spencer, Cobalt and low gross score, Joe Sloan, New Liskeard.

New Postage Stamp On Canada Resources

A special postage stamp illustrating the multiple use of Canada's renewable natural resources is to be issued on the 12th October, according to an announcement by the Postmaster General, the Honourable William Hamilton.

Mr. Hamilton said the new stamp is part of the Post Office Department's contribution to the "Resources for Tomorrow" program, a long-range project designed to ensure the effective multiple use of Canada's natural resources. The program is to be inaugurated by a Federal-Provincial conference scheduled for Montreal in October. The federal government, plus all ten provincial governments, is participating in the conference and all eleven governments are vigorously supporting the program.

The Postmaster General noted that the "Resources for Tomorrow" program was first suggested by the Prime Minister as a means of co-ordinating efforts to improve the management of Canada's natural resources. A major objective of the Montreal meeting will be an improved understanding of the necessity of public support for the effective multiple use of renewable resources. The stamp, symbolizing the renewable resources of agriculture, forestry, water power, fisheries and wildlife, and linking
