Montreal River Low

Although Lake Temiskaming is still in high water, the Montreal River is at low ebb.

Residents of Latchford say that the river at that point is the lowest it has been for many years. The riverbed, south of the hydro dam, is carrying just a trickle compared with its normal volume.

Matachewan Hard Hit by Relief Bills

Beset by economic woes, Matachewan hopes that the provincial government will change the town's status. The town fathers have made an application to the province to revert to an unorganized township. This would drastically change the provincial grant situation, particularly in the field of education and welfare.

There is a population of about 850 at Matachewan but it has been declining steadily during the past few years.

The last four mines closed down last year, and the town has been plagued with immense relief bills.

Brighter Outlook

brought a sharp increase in overseas shipments of wheat.

In the months ahead, the prospect is for a fairly general improvement in exports, and in these circumstances the lower exchange rate on the Canadian dollar should be of considerable benefit.

The lower exchange rate should be helpful, also, to domestic producers concerned about import competition in the Canadian market. And even before the recent drop in the rate, there were encouraging signs of an improved Canadian competitive position in such important industries as steel and automobiles.

In addition to these heartening developments on the trade front, the economy has received further support from the government sector. Expenditures at all levels of government have continued to increase and revenues, particularly at the federal level, have shown some abatement reflecting the automatic stabilizing effect which has proven so helpful in all recessions since 1945.

Against these important sources of strength, however, must be set a number of factors which, though by no means elements of weakness, are nevertheless tending to exert a moderating effect upon the developing economic recovery. Among these are the disappointing trends in house-building and in general consumer spending, together with the continued cautious business policies with respect to both inventories and fixed capital programs.

The Review notes that in Ontario, the employment trend began to improve fairly early in the year. Despite widespread declines in manufacturing and continued shut-down of uranium mines, total employment at mid-year was moderately above a year earlier.

The most striking improvement during the second quarter was in primary iron and steel, with production rebounding upward to near the record levels reached in early 1960. Prospects have improved also in many steel-using industries. Not least among these has been the automobile industry where production picked up to somewhat above the year-ago rate in late June and July (after earlier marked declines) and where further increases are anticipated by September when an early start is planned in the new model year.

In most other major Ontario industries, the picture remains quite mixed. In heavy manufacturing, for example, producers of aircraft and aircraft components have been the busiest in nearly two years. On the other hand, demand for railway equipment continues low and production of farm machinery was cut sharply in June as the effects of the Prairie drought became apparent.

The regional construction program of the year is expected to be slightly greater than 1960 — with the big gains being in public projects, in commercial building and in the oil and petrochemical industries. At the same time, expansion outlays in most other manufacturing industries are expected to be somewhat lower than last year, and expenditures on new power facilities have also tapered off.

Potato Tour

ling a small crop at the premium price they now get. One farmer said he got more for table stock potatoes sold in Northern Ontario than for seed potatoes sold in Southern Ontario.

A grading station both grades and packages crops for marketing.

A Grand Bend area grower reported marketing there is done successfully through two outlets. Most of the crop is stored at farms until needed for central grading and packing. Mr. Laverty invited growers to inspect the Shelburne operation.

It was reported 450 to 500 acres of potatoes are now growing in the north, about 20 per cent of which is seed potatoes. About 150,000 bags of table stock potatoes are produced.

According to surveys, each Canadian eats one and one quarter bushel of potatoes a year.

More than 50 acreage report forms had been mailed to local growers, Mike Bailey of New Liskeard, department of agriculture fruit and vegetable inspector said. When all reports were in, it would be possible to give a more accurate statement of the number of acres in potatoes.

A series of "questions and answers" closed the meeting, with Mr. Bovey as moderator and panelists Mr. Whiteside Mr. Doyon, George Edwards of Englehart, Mr. Laverty and George Hackett of Cochrane, international potato king.

There was considerable discussion as to the type of potatoes which should be grown but Mr. Doyon did not think the average housewife knew or cared what type she bought as long as they were of a uniform size, disease-free and cooked white.

Mr. Whiteside said it was a well-known fact potatoes grew much faster in Northern Ontario than in Southern Ontario and the Cochrane weather conditions were about parallel with those of Prince Edward Island.

W. T. Barr of New Liskeard chairman of NODA zone 5 thanked the panel and questioners.

W. H. C. Marsh of North Bay, regional NODA manager, was chairman of the meeting and Carl Reddon, an Englehart councillor, welcomed the growers here, saying the large attendance reflected a "very enthusiastic interest".

More Drilling On Dane Iron Ores

About 12,000 feet of drilling will be done on the Jalore Mining Company's claims in the vicinity of Dane and Boston Creek. The company is a subsidiary of the steel company of Jones and Laughlin of Pittsburg and the area is reported to contain sizeable amounts of iron ore.

J. J. Drury, resident geologist for the company has stated that three diamond drill crews will be starting work very shortly. Heath and Sherwood has the drilling contract.

Earlier this summer a car load of bulk crude ore samples was shipped to Pittsburgh for pelletizing tests.

Mr. Drury emphasized that the work being carried out is necessary to determine the mining plans for the property but to his knowledge there are no plans yet for actual construction or mining.

The property came into prominence shortly after the Second World War when a large exploration program was carried out in this area. The claims now held by Jalore were purchased from the original owners and development work started.

During the time the property has been in Jalore hands, a new jet smelting process using natural gas was developed, making the working of these claims feasible.
