

Across the Kitchen Table

BY MRS. MAC

Tuesday night I spent a most pleasant time with the ladies of the Dutch Reformed Church in New Liskeard. On the invitation of Mrs. J. Baker of Halleybury, who is president of their women's organization, I showed them the slides I took overseas, which they seemed to enjoy, particularly those taken in Holland. They have a lovely meeting place in the basement of their church and I did enjoy meeting these women who are all so friendly and jolly that I immediately felt as though I had known them for years. And as a memento of the evening, they presented me with a hand crocheted cushion in a design I've been wanting for a long time.

Have you ever stopped to consider the origin of the place names in your particular area? We all know of course, that Halleybury was named for C. C. Farr's college in England; "New" Liskeard for "old" Liskeard in Cornwall, England; and Cobalt for cobalt, for sure. Uno Park honored the Parker family; Heaslip, the Heaslip family, and Tomstown was named for the white haired old Englishman, Ulysses Henry Thomas, known to everyone for miles around as "Uncle Tom". But if you want to hear names that defy origin, consider those in Newfoundland. I was reading an article concerning them in the Salvation Army War Cry, and here are a few of the choice ones: Ireland's Eye, Heart's Content, Blow-Me-Down, Bare Need, Below-the-Head, Herring Neck, Stepside-Shalloway, Cape Onion, Clown's Cove, Come-by-Chance, Cow Head, Cowards Island, Doting Cove, Fox Roost, Jerry's Nose, Joe Batt's Arm, Pick Eyes, Salt Pans, and Seldom-Come-By.

I thought I had a good imagination, but I'll surely take a back seat for the Newfoundlanders.

This morning we woke to see the first real snow of the season, even if it didn't stay very long. However, I guess I better not say too much about it as there may be six inches of it tomorrow morning!

Membership May Top Quarter Million Mark

Membership in the Royal Canadian Legion may top the quarter of a million mark this year. At present, it is running about 3,600 ahead of the total last year at this time. But officials feel that the current total of 238,000 could exceed 250,000 by the end of December.

If the trend holds, it will represent a new high for Legion membership. The increase is attributed to the new policy of retaining members. Membership committees have been instructed to concentrate on renewing lapsed members rather than luring new ones.

The present Legion membership is over five times what it was in 1939. In the last ten years alone, there has been a gradual increase of 75,000.

National Heads Meet

Some 35 representatives of the Legion provincial and state commands meet in Ottawa on November 10, 11 and 12.

Convention At Halifax

The Royal Canadian Legion's 19th biennial convention opens in Halifax on June 3. The five-day national convention will draw some 1,200 delegates. This will be the first time that a Dominion convention has gone further east than Saint John.
