

HUNGRY HOLLOW BRIDGE FINALLY OPENS!

After years of speculation and more than a year of construction, two of four lanes of the new Ninth Line bridge spanning Hungry Hollow opened yesterday. After removing the current detour (an old section of Mountainview Road), crews will prepare to open the two remaining lanes either late this year or early next. (Eve Martin photo)

Country fun, city handy

The Georgetown Gemini

This year marks the 150th anniversary of the Georgetown Fair and the Georgetown Agricultural Society has pulled off a real coup by booking the Royal Canadian Police Musical Ride to perform at the festivities.

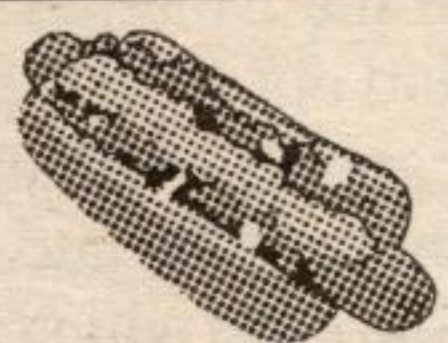

Using the theme of "Country fun, city handy," the society has also modernized the fair's image with the introduction of the "Cock-a-doodle Dude," a hip chicken who is still small town enough to know a good thing when he sees it.

Local merchants are also being given the opportunity to get in on the act, being offered advertising space on T-shirts using the image of the Cock-a-doodle Dude. The shirts are the brainchild of four Sheridan College journalism grads who have formed their own advertising company, In Your Face Advertising.

LEIGH'S DOGS Hot Dog Cart

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the warm, friendly people of Acton for their continued support of my HOT DOG business for the past 4 years.

It was a pleasure serving you! You're the best!

Circumstances have forced me to relocate. In the future, you can find me at HOME HARDWARE in Georgetown. I hope to see you all there.

Sincere Thanks!

Leigh Mackey

Vehicle break-ins

A Weber Drive resident started the month of August on a down note, finding that his briefcase had been removed from his vehicle some time during the night. The vehicle contained a specialized tool kit used in the repair of computers.

The value of the tool kit and briefcase is estimated at about $1,500. Halton Regional Police report no signs of forced entry on the vehicle.

That same evening a Gray Gate resident reported the theft of about $100 worth of cassette tapes from an unlocked vehicle. Police report that the perpetrator was spotted and fled the scene when disturbed. There was no damage to the vehicle and police currently have no suspects in the crime.

B&E on Armstrong

Sometime between the close of business Friday and the early morning hours of Saturday, a break-in was detected at an Armstrong Avenue business. Police report that about $400 worth of tools, wheels and other items were removed. An investigation is ongoing; police have several suspects in mind.

Vehicle damaged

On July 30, a Guelph Street man returned home to find his 1989 Toyota Land Cruiser had been scratched from end to end down through the paint. Police currently have no suspects in the crime. Damage is estimated at $800.

Car, house vandalized

In the early morning hours of Aug. 5, two Raylawn Crescent homeowners awoke to find someone had spray painted their car and house with graffiti. The front windshield and hatchback of the 1992 VW Golf were covered with paint.

Parking signs removed

Halton Regional Police report that No Parking signs are being removed by persons unknown on Main Street. Over the last two weeks police have noted that several signs have been removed from postings on the walls of downtown buildings. Police are continuing to investigate.

Bonfire

Georgetown firefighters responded to reports of a building fire at a farm on the 8th Line Monday only to find that a passing motorist had mistaken a rather large bonfire behind a barn as a house on fire.

The homeowner agreed to let the fire die down to a more manageable level. As the house and barn were not on fire, there was no damage to any property.
