Arts Alive stages its own Oscars

The red carpet will be rolled out for five locals to receive Arts Alive awards.

Arts Alive is a group of volunteers who are dedicated to promoting the arts in Halton Hills. They stage concerts (Second City Revue, Classical Brunch, etc.) and the proceeds are used to improve the facilities at the Cultural Centre in Georgetown. Thus far, they have raised over $17,000, which has been spent on various improvements to the John Elliott Theatre, restoring and preserving the stained glass windows in the gallery, and the recent installation of a box office at the theatre, supplying the necessary computer and software.

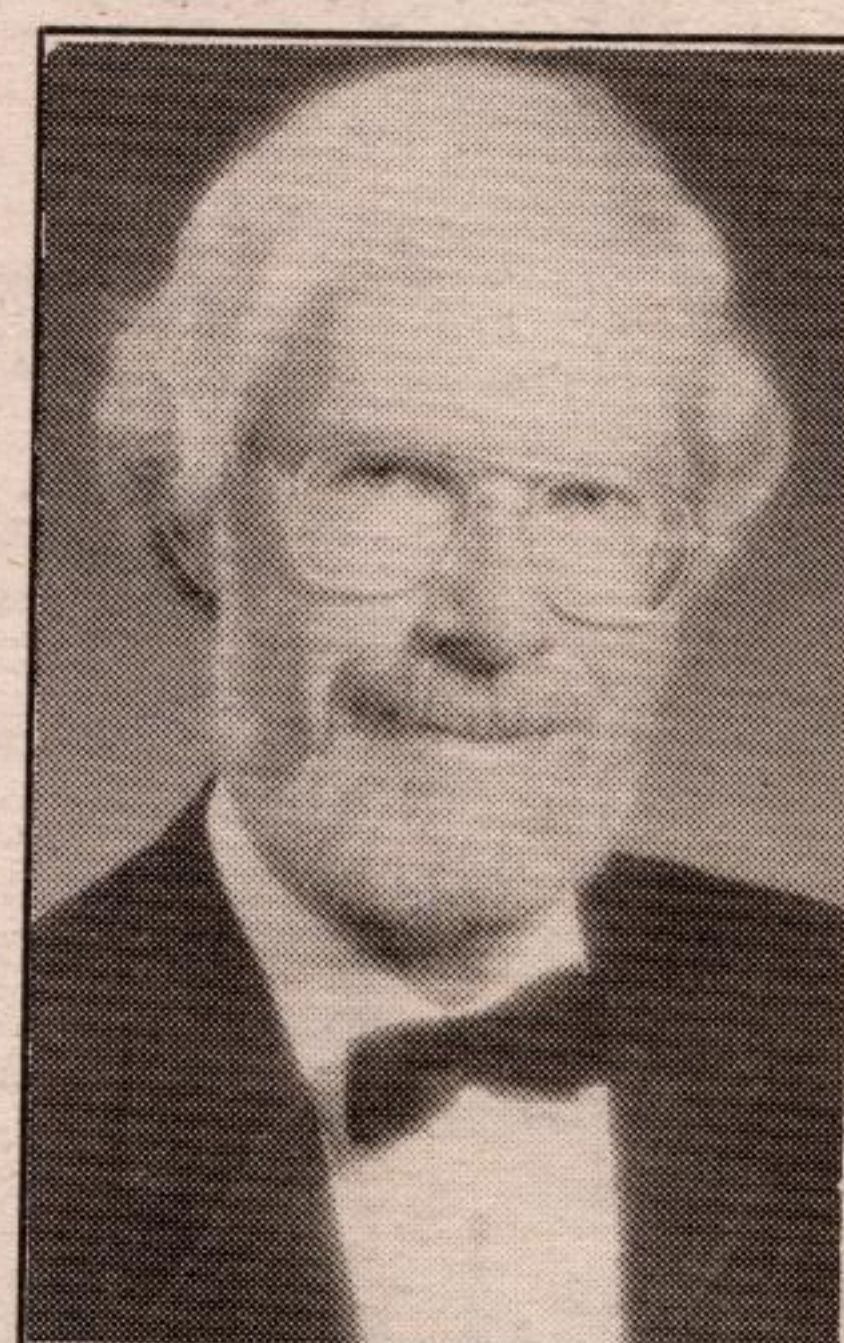

Their current project is a new sound system for the theatre.

Every five years Arts Alive presents awards to citizens of Halton Hills who have made significant contributions to the arts. Following a call for nominations, the Awards this year will be presented to the following:
