

THE NOTHING MORE TO SAY.

She turned abruptly on her head, A French look, by the way, To give the little married ones A subtle part to play. Then she looked for a moment at her own face, and said, "I have nothing more to say."

FIRST LOVE.

He whom I loved in early years, So well so tenderly; who blith With a first passion's hopes and fears, A heart which time has not yet still'd, Can I forget him? Day by day I strive To find new dreams my old dreams drive.

Be reasonable and you will be happy.

Fly the pleasure that will flee to-morrow. Men's evil manners live in hearts; their virtues we write in water.

To ever active in laudible pursuit, is the distinguishing characteristic of a man of merit.

The higher character a person supports, the more he should regard his minutest actions. What is often termed shyness, is nothing more than refined sensa, and an indifference to common observations.

Be cheerful, but not light; familiar, rather than intimate; and intimate with a very few and on good grounds.

We are even more sensible of grief than pleasure; our joys pass in a moment, but our griefs are of long continuance.

Let not the emphasis of hospitality lie in bed and board, but let truth and love, and honor and courtesy flow in thy deeds.

Do right and fear not; thou mayst be sure that, with all thy consideration for the world, thou wilt never satisfy the world.

Money, like manure, does no good till it is spread. There is no real use of riches, except in the distribution; the rest is all conceit.

A man should never be ashamed to own he has been in the wrong; which is but saying in other words, that he is wiser today than he was yesterday.

Brigham Young's twenty-five wives and forty-four children are about to begin an interminable legal warfare over his will.

When a man wants to call a puppy, he whistles, but a girl just walks along with her handkerchief floating across her shoulder.

A youth of Augusta, Ga., who was married by a magistrate the other day, insisted that the bride should pay the fee, as he bought the license.

A California man thinks he can ruin the ice dealers even more effectually than the present mild weather. He has constructed a faucet which contains numerous small tubes inclosed in larger ones, and between the outside of one and the inside of the other certain chemicals are packed that cause the water which is drawn from the orifice to be as cold as ice. Even boiling water, if allowed to run through this magic faucet, will come out cool and fit for drinking.

Paris is to have an extensive underground railway system, with four principal lines, all meeting below the garden of the Palais Royal, where an immense depot will be erected. Twenty-one million dollars are to be furnished for the work by the general Government, the Department of the Seine and the city of Paris.

A young officer, not over fond of fighting, waited on his commander on the eve of a battle to request leave of absence on a visit to his father and mother, both of whom were extremely ill. "Yes," said the General, "I honor your father and mother, but your duty is to fight."

A deplorable state of affairs exists in one of the counties of Minnesota. In the past two years, 18,000 acres of growing wheat have been ruined by grasshoppers, and now the farmers, who have 20,000 acres ready for sowing, say that unless the grain is furnished them by the State they cannot plant more than one half of the land prepared.

The principal of a Public School at Passaic, N. J., has discovered the existence of a secret society, consisting of a number of pupils of the institution whose avowed object was to steal from the stores. The society was organized in great style, with "head centers," by laws, and oaths of membership. When detected, the reason given was "sing outed by a teacher in the cheap New York workbooks."

A London attorney having died exceedingly poor, a shilling subscription was set on foot to pay the expenses of the funeral. Most of the attorneys and barristers having subscribed, one of them applied to Toler, afterward Lord Chief Justice, expressing the hope that he would also subscribe a shilling. "Only a shilling to bury an attorney? Here is a guinea. Go and bury two or three of them."

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.
