Britain and Burne A Glance at the Burmess-The Wars The Burmans are Mongolians, with black helf, short hands, proug skulls and fast faces. Usually the men are finely formed, and they excel in wrestling, boxing, rowing, football and other athletic exercises. They are lary and dislike discipline; are attached to home, but are not patriotic. If by any means one of them gets in power, he becomes arrogant, arbitrary, and corrupt: Their favorite amusements are the theatre and a buffalo fight. The women are more industrious than the men, and but and sell and also sited to their nousehold duties. Besides the true Barman a variety pf; more sphabit, their territory. The Shans, the most inumerous and widely different of the Indo-Chinese people, are found in all parts of the country. The Hingphos are found in the claws of each foot were clipped, the operator rubbed burnt a um into the festered wounds (From Na uro.) Here is an instance of "instinct" which shows, I think, that there is no difference whatever between the reasons of animals and that of men. A mare here had her first foal when she was 10 or 12 years old. She was blind of one eye. The result was that she frequently trod upon the foal, or knocked it over when it happened to be on the blind side of her, in cansequence of which the foal died when it was three or four weeks old. The next year she had another foal; and we fully expected that the result would be the same. But no : from the day it was born she never moved in the stall without looking round to see where the foal great relief from the operations performed was, and she never tred upon it or injured on him. The whole operation occupied only it in any way. You see that reason did not teach her that she was killing her first twenty minutes, and was very satisfactory to all parties. . In a few days the pans will foal; her care for the second was the result of memory, imagination, and thought, after the foal was dead and before the next one was born. The only difference that I can see between the reasoning power of man and that of animals, is that the latter is applied crowbar was dropped down the main vertical only to a very limited sphere of providing shalt of the Savage mine from the surface, embraces a vast amount of other objects tom, pieroing the bonnet and floor.
