THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 10, 1879.

THE PROSPECTS.

Looking at present indications for our future prospects, we can discover nothing to justify the gloom that has to so great an extent settled over the commercial portion of the country.—The promise of an average harvest, is extremely good. In the east the hay crop is reported heavy. In this section, in consequence of the early drouth, the hay will be rather under an average. The wheat on low ground, has been considerably damaged by the late frosts, but this damage is not general at all; and even the wheat crop, throughout the country, promises to be a fair average. It could hardly be expected to be as abundant as last year. The spring crops are more promising in many respects than last year, and will probably make up in a great measure for the damage done in some sections by the frost.

The fruit crop promises to be abundant, and judging from the attention given latterly to this branch of husbandry, we anticipate a very great improvement will be manifest in this department. The market for our fruits will improve with the qualities, and lately a considerable demand has manifested itself in the eastern markets for our best keeping fruits.

In the old countries we see the great wheat producing part of Europe in such a turmoil of unsettlement that very little attention has been paid to agriculture. We refer to Russia, and the Baltic Provinces, that formerly supplied the European Markets, and were our greatest competitors in this serial. The supply from this source being cut off, the demand for our products must necessarily be increased, and with the demand, the price, so that, should our crops be somewhat inferior to last year, the pro pects are that the prices will more than compensate.

The question may be asked what has this to do with commerce? The answer, every thing. This is largely an agricultural country, and our commercial interests depended on the property of the farming community, and in consequence of the low prices experienced during the past season, the commercial interest have felt very much depressed, and the slight damage to the wheat crop this spring had a tendency to still further depress that interest where the merchant did not look beyond the grainfield in his own locality, which has been too much their case. This would be excusable to a certain degree in the agriculturist, whose calling does not demand that he should keep so thoroughly posted in the markets of the world as the merchant, and therefore, next to the press, the merchant has the means within his reach of conveying the glad tidings to the agriculturist who has taken less pains to post himself. Now we hold that our prospects never were brighter than at present for the future. Legislation has nothing to do with it, only to let us enjoy fully what nature has put us in possession of—a good productive soil, and a free market for what we produce, and all the happiness in ours that we will allow ourselves to enjoy.

COUNTY MINUTES.

We have received a copy of the minutes, by laws, reports and accounts of the Municipal Council of the County of Halton. When soliciting tenders for this job, we, as well as each of the other printing offices in the county were notified that the job was to be printed, and requested that we would tender. In this notification it was distinctly stated that the book was to be printed in solid Bourgeois, but in looking at the book we see that is printed in Long Primer—a larger sized type—and the lines are placed as far apart as possible, thus making the book almost twice the size it should be, and as the council pay for the book by the pages it increases the prices to almost twice what it should cost. We think it is about time the County Council and the people of the county should be apprised of how their money is being galled out of them by underhand work. Of course the proprietor of the Oakville Standard, where the job was printed, did have the lowest tender—that is, when counted by the page, but by taking the whole book as it is printed it costs the council between $40 and $50 more than it should. We think that the printing committee of the County Council should look into the matter and take into consideration that the specifications were not properly followed, before the job is paid for.

Eleven little girls were poisoned in Minneapolis, Minn., by eating a quantity of castor beans. Three have died.

HANLAN AGAIN WINS.

The English Champion, Elliott, Beaten.

Easily by Eleven Lengths.

The great aquatic feat which has been watched with great interest came off on Monday last. The race between Edward Hanlan, of Toronto, and Wm. Elliott, of Blyth, England, for the championship of England, over the Tyne championship course, a distance of three and a half miles. A great deal of betting has been indulged in, the general offers being ten to four on Hanlan. Great crowds were congregated along the course, while the river was full of ships and boats of every description, from the heavily laden steamer, down to the raft, on which the small boy with his companions contented themselves. The excitement was immense, and when the scullers made their appearance about twelve o'clock, was almost uncontrollable. Elliott won the toss, and took up his position on the north side, which gave him the double advantage of shorter distance and smoother water. At 12:12 o'clock the contestants started, both rowing very fast, but Hanlan almost immediately forging ahead, which he continued to do until the finish. At the end of the first half mile he was a length ahead, and rowing a waiting race. Along past the Meadows, which lie in the middle of the river and halfway from starting point to goal, Elliott made a gigantic effort to retrieve his waning fortunes, but the Toronto sculler calmly watched the spurt, and without putting forth increased exertions, maintained his lead, ultimately winning, some say by eight lengths, some ten, and others eleven, in 21 min. I sec.—the fastest time on record.

It is expected that Hanlan will return home at an early day, as he has conquered all who dare row against him in England, and now he is the proud possessor of three championships, viz: Canada, America, and England, and we have no doubt but that if he has a chance he will row a match with Trickett, the possessor of the World's championship, and should they measure oars Canada will be proud to know that the man who has wrested every championship, and rows the best in the world was born on her soil, and still is a whole-hearted Canadian.
