THE BIDDULPH HORROR.

The horrible tragedy which took place on Tuesday evening last, near Lucan, has sent a shock through the whole Dominion, and opened the eyes of the people to the fact that in the most cultured and most powerful of the seven Provinces of the Confederation, and in one of the oldest-settled parts of it, it is possible for scenes of lawless ness to be enacted which are not surpassed by the most bloody records of western frontier life. The murder of the Donnelly family was but the last act in a long tragedy of crimes, in which, it appears, the members of that family were the principal actors. The deed was purely an act of revenge carried out under a cover of justice. It is a disgrace not only to the district in which it occured, but to the whole Province; for it has brought to light the fact that the residents of that locality have for many years past set at defiance the law of the land and taken it into their own hands. One of the main points of distinction between civilized and savage communities is found in the mode of administering justice; in the former, crime is punished by the State; in the latter, it is avenged by individuals acting either alone or in concert—and in the the district in which the wholesale murder in question was perpetrated the latter principle seems to have been paramount. The Donnelly's were a reckless and lawless family, and were in a great measure responsible for their own fate; but that fact does not lessen the crime of the murderers. Doubtless these men thought that this fact was one of stern justice rather than of revenge, and that they were benefitting society by ridding the earth of this quarrelsome family; and it is chiefly for that reason that it is earnestly to be hoped that the murderers will be brought to justice; the speedy and stern punishment of these men is necessary to prevent any Canadian or community of Canadians from being influenced by the false idea that killing is no murder.

Fatal Accidant to Mr. O. Atkinson.

Killed by a Falling Tree.

A fatal accident occured in Erin on Saturday afternoon, which has cast a gloom over the neighborhood. Mr. Oliver Atkinson, was instantly killed by the fall of a tree in the bush, while cutting saw logs on the 6th line of Erin, under a lodged tree, which was hanging by two limbs. The wind being very high at the time caused the limbs to split, and the tree fell, bringing down the limbs of another tree along with it. He saw the limb falling, but did not see the tree, and in jumping out of the way of the limb, landed underneath the falling tree, which instantly killed him. Wm. Snodgrass, being working along with him at the time, tried his utmost endeavor to release him, but without effect. He had to procure the assistance of a neighbor, before Mr. Atkinson could be released. There were no marks or bruises on his body.

It is a hard trial for his aged mother who is in poor health, to have her only son brought in a corpse, who had only two hours before left her in the full health and vigor of manhood, and spoke a soothing word to her about her sickness. Mr. Atkinson was much respected, and was a hard working industrious, kind hearted and obliging neighbor. This is another warning to be careful of lodged trees while working in the bush.

A sad case of suicide took place at Barrie on Tuesday. Mary Munro, aged 23, took about two teaspoonfuls of Paris green, and died a very short time after, notwithstanding prompt medical assistance. It is supposed the deed was committed during mental derangement.

His Description of the Murder.

THE VIGILANCE COMMITTEE.

Thirteen Men Arrested.

A shocking tragedy was perpetrated in Biddulph township, near Lucan, Ont., on Tuesday night, 3rd inst. A band of armed men, blackened and masked, entered the dwelling of Wm. Donnelly, and murdered the inmates, the father, mother, one son and a girl a niece. A small boy named Connor, took refuge under the bed and escaped unhurt. They then set fire to the house which together with the murdered bodies was totally consumed. When the murder was committed, and the house fired the gang decamped The boy then emerged from his hiding place and made for the village. The only reliable account that can be had is from the boy.

About the time that the above mentioned deeds were being committed another band of masked men visited the house of Wm. Donnelly, on the ninth concession, about three miles from his father's farm. The men knocked at the door, which a minute or two afterwards was opened by John Donnelly, brother of William. His appearance was greeted with a volley of bullets, which took fatal effect in the chest and groin. The wounded man dropped on the threshold like a log, and when the gang saw that the object of their visit had been accomplished they hastily left the place. William Donnelly who had been awakened by the report of guns, found his brother breathing his last, and no words passed between them. It is thought that in the dark the murderers mistook John for William, whom it is believed they were after. The body of the deceased —who was of an amiable and conciliatory disposition—was taken to Lucan. When the news of the tragedy spread through the township and adjacent country the excitement became intense—in fact the feeling is indescribable. People flocked into the village from a radius of thirty miles to view the scene of the bloody and fiery work.

Coroner Hossack empannelled a jury and visited the ruins, where they found the four charred bodies. The body of Thomas Donnelly was lying near the door, that of the girl Bridget, a niece of the old man, was found six or eight feet away, and the remains of Donnelly and his wife were found in the kitchen bedroom. Thomas was about twenty-six years of age, the niece about twenty two, and the old folks were each between sixty and seventy.

WHAT THE BOY CONNERS SAYS.

The boy Conners was interviewed. He is aged 11 years and living with his mother in Lucan. He said he went over to Donnelly's at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and Tom Donnelly, Bridget Donnelly, the old man and the old woman were there. After they had their supper they all went to bed. Between 12 and 2 o'clock some men came on pretence of arresting the old man and Tom. Tom lit the candle and then they put the handcuffs on him. Tom asked them to read the warrant, and soon after a lot of men entered the house and began beating him with clubs. Hearing the row I crawled under the bed, hiding behind a clothes basket. Tom ran out of doors and I heard them hammering him with sticks and then carry him back into the house. One of the party said "Hit that fellow with a shovel and break his head open." Another man then ran at him and struck him with a shovel. I heard him yell and fall. The old woman was in the kitchen. They struck her on the head with sticks. One of the men asked, "Where is the girl?" She had run up stairs. A lot of them ran upstairs and came down saying, "It is all right." The old man went out into the kitchen and I heard him groan. Coal oil was thrown on the bed and it was set on fire. As it blazed up they left the house. There were about twenty of them.

The boy then emerged from his hiding place and made for the village.

For some considerable time back incendiary fires, and other misdemeanors, have been of frequent occurrence, and whether rightly or not, the Donnelly family were blamed, if not as the actual perpetrators of the crimes, that they were the instigators; and hence an intense feeling of enmity accumulated against them throughout the township. A vigilance committee was formed some time ago by the settlers, as a means of protection from these outrages, which, with all their precautionary measures, did not seem to have the desired end. The last fire was on the Ryder farm, on Thursday night, 15th January, in the very midst of the Donnelly settlement, and the four Donnelly brothers were at a wedding when the fire occurred, but the father and mother, who were at their homes at the time, were arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the burning. Their examination was still pending.

Since the murder, Chief of Police, Williams, and detectives Murphy and Phair, of London, and County Crown Attorney, Hutchinson, have been working up the case, and have arrested John Kennedy, James Maher, Martin McLaughlin, James Ryder, Patrick Ryder, James Carroll (County Constable) Jno. Maher, Jno. D'Arcy, Patrick Ryder, Jr. Michael Heenan, Jno. Parkell, Wm. Carroll, and Thomas Ryder. The above are all members of a Vigilance Committee which was formed under the advice of Father Connolly, the parish priest, for the suppression of the lawless gang who were causing much disturbance in the township, the Committee was organized about a year ago and numbers about 100 members, and it is supposed that the murderers were members of the Committee. The Detectives have secured several revolvers and rifles and other instruments supposed to have been used in the murder.

The inquest which was adjourned until yesterday is now being held and up to the time of going to press we have not learned whether or not the verdict has been brought in. In conversation with a reporter, a resident of the township, he said he did not believe the prosecution could get sufficient evidence to make out a prima facie case against them. Only those in the conspiracy had any actual knowledge of the murder, and their mouths would be forever sealed as the members of the Committee were all bound under a cast iron oath, and dare not reveal anything in reference to the conspiracy. He also said, that if a man was summoned as witness he would not tell what little he happened to know. The speaker added that men would evade the police with a view of not being called as witnesses.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The Editor, while willing to open his columns for the free discussion of all matters of public interest, does not hold himself in any way responsible for the opinions of his correspondents. Correspondents are requested to be brief, to write legibly, and on one side of their paper only. All letters must be accompanied by the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

Mr. McDermid Astray.

To the Editor of the Free Press.

DEAR SIR,—I don't see what Mr. McDermid gains by his correction "quit the field before finishing his argumente." The impression he tries to make is the same viz:—that I broke the "ball" for the church before Finishing the debate. We agreed to discuss the question of baptism five nights. We did, and then both quit or we would have been at it yet. But he quit first, for I made the last address, and when he quit I was forced to do so too. Mr. McDermid has a chance to win $25 if he can prove the contrary. He asks the following questions, to which I reply briefly:(though I don't know why he should ask such questions unless it be to mislead.)

1. Was he not urged to continue the Debate until he could finish his arguments? ANS. No.

2. Did he not refuse to do so? ANS. No.

3. Did he not do this after he was protected from my replies by a public announcement by the Presbyterian minister that I would not be allowed to discuss the question; therefore I was not there. ANS. The former part of this question has reference to one thing, the latter part to another. The Presbyterian minister would not allow the Debate in the church so that I was affected by it as well as Mr. McDermid. After the debate he did not refuse to have a Lecture, and there was no public announcement that I knew of that Mr. McDermid would not be allowed to reply to my Lecture. Hence I invited replies. It was a public meeting and Mr. McDermid had as much right there as any one. But he did not come, therefore he is wrong in saying he was not allowed to reply. I wonder how he can make such a statement. The Public announcement he refers to had reference to the Debate not being allowed in the church, not the Lecture. I might say the same. I was not allowed to discuss the question in the church, but we were allowed to do so elsewhere, and it was there, where the victory was accomplished. We don't speak of the victory of the Lecture, but of the Debate. David slew the giant. The above questions remind us of his style in conducting the late discussion. I don't see why such questions should be asked as are asked in his last letter. The statements I made in my former letter are a sufficient reply. Why does he not contradict them? If I am not correct why does he not say so? What did I say:

1. That I finished the Debate according to agreement.

2. That much time was taken up during the discussion correcting misrepresentations.

3. That he commenced to preach one evening instead of discussing

4. That he did not reply to 10 propositions out of 30 given.

5. That he promised to return my papers at the end of a week or two (I am not now receiving his paper with the propositions printed)

6. That he was not giving a correct report of the Debate in his paper and

7. That I would meet him again on condition, which is expressed. I am sorry Mr. McDermid that I am compelled to expose you, but you invite me to it and since you are ashamed to mention the offer "I fairly won" I will do it. I was promised $1000, if I would prove that Campbellism was built in a watery foundation. I proved it to the satisfaction of the majority at the meeting. But I have not got the money yet, and now let me say in conclusion if I am compelled to write again on this question I will give a startling revelation which will reveal to the Acton people the ignorance of Mr. McDermid, M. A.

yours etc,
THOMAS HADDON.

What All Men Should Know.

TO RELIEVE A COUGH.—The troublesome cough caused by an accumulation of phlegm in the throat, especially in the morning, experienced mostly by persons affected with Chronic Catarrh, can be relieved almost instantly by taking a teaspoonful of Hagyard's Pectoral balsam, which has the advantage of being harmless to the stomach, and at the same time improving the appetite.

A MOURNFUL CHAPTER.

Crime and Accidents.

Lieut.-Governor Chandler, of New Brunswick, was seized with a violent attack of bronchitis on Wednesday, and died on Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, at his residence in Fredericton. He was unconscious for eight hours.

An explosion of boilers in the mills belonging to the Canada paper Company, at Windsor, Que., occurred on Tuesday morning. Three men were badly, if not fatally, injured by steam and bleach liquor, and two killed. The pulp mill took fire and was destroyed.

A man named James Boyd, aged fifty-five years, committed suicide on Thursday, at Rosedale, near Toronto, by hanging himself in a stable with a breeching strap. As he had to lift his legs from the ground to accomplish his purpose, the suicide is a most determined one. An inquest was held.

A man named Chas. Weir, living on the 5th concession of the township of Peel, lot No. 19, near Floradale, hanged himself on Friday morning. He was a weaver. Shortly after breakfast one of his sons found him suspended from a beam by a cord made from warps. His body was still warm, but life extinct.

A young man named Cutt, living on the 5th con. of Biddulph, near Lucan, who had his leg broken by the fall of a tree, while he was chopping in the woods, died on Saturday morning. The unfortunate man lay in the woods some four hours before being discovered, and the effects of the cold caused congestion of the brain, to which he succumbed in a few hours.

Last week Jas. Dinsmore, of Tara, charged with sheep stealing, was arrested by constable Kennedy on the strength of a telegram from officer Beiggs of Port Elgin. Dinsmore, it appears, asked permission to see his family before being conveyed to the tombs, which was granted, and seizing the opportunity he made good his escape. Up to the present his whereabouts is not known.

George McLean, of Colchester, had his barn and stable destroyed by fire on Monday; also four work horses, nine head of cattle, all the farming implements, and other property. The loss is heavy, and there is no insurance. A notorious gang of thieves, who have been operating all winter, are suspected as the guilty parties. The corporation have offered $800, and McLean $200, making $1,000 reward for the apprehension and conviction of the same. Great excitement prevails in the township.

Three cow-boys named Jim West, John Dorsey, and Tom Henry, of Las Vegas, Col., implicated in the shooting of the City Marshall, Carson, at a dance two weeks ago, were dragged from their cells on Sunday, at 3 o'clock, by a mob of 75 armed men, who battered down the outer door, and forced the gaoler to give up the keys. Ropes were thrown around their necks; they were dragged to the business centre of the town and hanged, and the bodies were riddled with bullets.

A young man named Joseph Deary, of Chatham, aged eighteen, was brought before Police Magistrate McRae this morning charged with shooting with intent to kill. It appears from evidence that Deary went into a shooting gallery and deliberately shot at a lad named Frank Trombley with a cap gun. The grain of shot entered near the eye and came out near the temple. Beyond an ugly wound, no serious results are feared. Deary was convicted and sentenced to three years in the Penitentiary.

Thursday night last some thieves stole a valuable span of horses and a sleigh from Mr. B. Snyder, a farmer, living near Bloomingdale. From there they proceeded on about a mile to the farm of Mr. J. Snyder, where they exchanged the sleigh and harness for more valuable ones, taking also buffalo robes and blankets. They then went to the village of Bloomingdale, where they broke into the store of Mr. Solomon Erb, abstracting therefrom over $1,000 worth of general store goods. No trace of the thieves so far.

A shocking story is told of a boy near Smith's Falls being frightened to death. He was engaged as a cook for a number of lumbermen. One evening he went to a neighbour's, and on returning found the shanty dark. He struck a match, but it was blown out. He did this two or three times, and finally looked behind him as he struck the match. He caught a glimpse of several dark objects, which were the men blackened and dressed to suit. His heart, as the doctor afterwards said, leaped from its strong-hold, and fell into an unnatural position, and he ran to a neighbour's and died in a few hours.

On Monday last at Bradford, Pa., Howard Hackett and James Feeney started to Coleville in a two horse sleigh, carrying 100 pounds of nitro glycerine. The sleigh upset, and caused an explosion. Feeney jumped as the sleigh was going over. Hackett was thrown fifty feet; he was instantly killed and horribly mangled. A hole was torn in the frozen road bed twenty feet in length and fifteen in width, in which Feeney was found still alive. The exact nature of his injuries cannot be stated. The sleigh was torn to atoms, and both horses killed. The house of Chas. Zeeley, fifteen feet distant, was shaken to pieces by the concussion. Henry Dolloff's dwelling, five rods away, and a barn were also wrecked.

Wentworth County Council has sent the sum of $1,000 to the relief of the Irish sufferers.

INVALIDS.—Do you wish to gather flesh to acquire an appetite, to enjoy a regular habit of body, to obtain refreshing sleep, to feel and know that every fibre and tissue of your system is being braced and renovated? If so, commence at once and use the quinine wine, prepared by Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto, and in a short time you will feel the whole system invigorated, and strengthened. It is a well-known fact that Quinine has been acknowledged by the medical faculty for many years as the best appetizer and tonic known. And for general debility, this combination will be found superior to all other preparations. And combined as it is with fine sherry wine and choice aromatics, it is made an agreeable and pleasant invigorator to the whole system. The properties of Quinine are a febrifuge, tonic and antiperiodic. Small doses, frequently repeated, strengthen the pulse, increase muscular force, and invigorate the tone of the nerve system. The peculiar operation of this medicine in general debility and as an appetizer, has undergone long and close observation, and it is believed it will never fail, if properly and judiciously administered, unless other diseases predominate of a different character. Persons of weak constitution may take it without the least difficulty, as it strengthens the stomach and digestive organs, and seldom require more than one or two bottles to effect a decided benefit, as it contains nothing injurious to the most delicate constitution. Remember to ask for the "Quinine Wine prepared by Northrop & Lyman Toronto," and we are sure you will be satisfied that you have full value for your money. Sold by G. E. Morrow Acton, and all Medicine Dealers.

NOTICE.—A public meeting will be held in Matthews' Hall, Acton, on Friday, 20th inst., at 8 p.m., to consider the advisability of forming a Joint Stock Cemetery Company, near to the Village of Acton.
