The Acton Sectt Act Patition. In the issue of last week the Cham pion makes another feeble attack on us in reference to our position concerning the Actea Scott Act petition. The article was principally a reputation of a former effort to prove in a round about way, that many of the names on the petition were written by the cauvass ers. and without the knowledge of the persons themselves. It still refuses to publish the list of fictitious names which it claims appears on the petition. It knows too well that it dare not publish any such list. -

We admit that a rumor was in circulation last year to the effect that several of our citizens had stated that they never saw the petition and that if their names appear on it, they were placed there by others than thepiselves. However, when the persons referred to, were interrogated on the subject they said that the matter had been misrepresented to them, that the question explanation will satisfy the excited announcing his death were sent to all brain of the Champina man. .

Esquestro, March, 15th 1881. To the World Publishing Co., Guely-k : GENTLEMEN: - After a careful purusal of "The Iliustrated Stock Ductor and Live Stock Encyclopedia," published by you and written by J. Russell Manning. M. D. V. N., we cannot but conclude that it is one of the most valuable works, on the sulfect of Stock. publie. We have without any solicila tion secured a copy of the work for my own use and we would recommend that country become the possessor of the book. The illu-trations are excellent and will tend to educate those interested in stock, in many particulars, which have bitherto been but imperfectly understood, and sill enable them to detect any disease, with which an animal is afflicted. The work will also te found most useful in warning the unsuspecting purchaser against the arts of the Jockey.
