THURSDAY MORNING, May 19, 1881.

YOUNG FOOLS CORNER.

PERSEVERE.

Drive the nail in, boy,
Hit it on the head;
Strike with all your might, boy,
While it is in the red.

When you're weak to do, boy,
Do it with a will;
They who teach the top, boy,
First must climb the hill.

Standing at the foot, boy,
Gazing at the sky,
How can you get up, boy,
If you never try?

Though you stumble oft, boy,
Never be downcast;
Try, and try again, boy,
You'll succeed at last.

What Did the Clock Say?

The clock upon the tower of a neighboring church tolled forth slowly and solemnly, the knell of the departed hour.

As the last sound died away, Willie, who was sitting upon the carpet at his mother's feet, lifted his head, and looking earnestly into her face, said: "Mother, what did the clock say?" "To me," said his mother, sadly, "it seemed to say, 'Gone—gone—gone!'" "What, mother? What has gone?" "Another hour, my son?" "What an hour, mother?" "A white-winged messenger from our Father in heaven, sent by him to inquire of you—of me, what we are doing, what we are saying, what we are thinking and feeling."

"Where is it gone, mother?" "Back to him who sent it, bearing on its wings, that were so pure and white when it came; a record of all our thoughts, words, and deeds, while it was with us. Were they all such as our Father could receive with a smile of approbation?"

Reader, what record are the hours, as they come and go, bearing upon high of you?"

Hints to Young Men

At the commencement of your career in life you will see before you many paths. Some lead to success, to wealth, to honor and influence; others lead to disappointment, to poverty, to disgrace, to infamy, to disgrace now which way you will go. On the one hand you will find indepedence and true manhood; on the other, want and degradation. You must make your choice now. It will be to live by and by. You can trust the future only when you are the present. It is easier to go down than to climb up. It is less difficult to follow along the beaten path of others than to strike out boldly for yourself, and conquer success in the face of all obstacles. In most young men there is a tendency to follow others' disposition to their circumstances, push them along, rather than to try to control circumstances. This is the greatest vice—constantly imitating the young. It must be over-come.

Between sorrow and joy is but a single day.

Prayer strengthens endurance in suffering.

The Gethsemane night comes before the Easter morning.

Faith is something that is susceptible of large cultivation.

Discipline is meant for the making of heroes, not cowards.

Such love as His demands to be trusted in all, or trusted not at all.

Who has not mastered himself, by whom can he not be overcome.

Work is the weapon of honor, and he who lacks the weapon will never triumph.

It is a easy thing to be built for God, and end only with the dust which shall cover you.

There is a positive aggressive work assigned to each one of us that no one else can do.

Those who have long waited for the day are much more ready to appreciate it when it comes.

He Couldn't Handle Them

The Portland Transcript tells a good story of a Colonel M——, living in Washington County, Maine, who had a great aptitude for serving as a juror. When thus serving, he was very anxious that his opinion should be largely consulted in making up a verdict. Some years ago, while upon a case, after many hours' trial had begun, but failing, he marshalled the delinquent jury from the room to their seats in the court, where the impatient crowd awaited the result of the trial.

"Have you agreed upon a verdict?" inquired the clerk.

Col. M—— arose, turned a withering glance upon his brother jurors, and exclaimed:

"May it please the court, we have not; I have done the best I could do, but here are eleven of the most contrary devils I ever had any dealings with."

A negro, after gazing at some Chinese, shook his head and said solemnly, "If do white folks be so dark as dat out der, I wonder what's de color ob du black folks!"

Sold!—Neighbor's pretty daughter: "How much is this yard?" Draper's son (temperate "spoons" on her): "Only one kiss." N.P.O.: "I will take three yards. Grandma will pay it."

A Strange Preacher.

There was once a minister of the Gospel who never built a church. Who never preached in one. Who never proposed a church fair to buy the church a new carpet. Who never founded a sect. Who never belonged to any sect. Who never received a salary. Who never asked for one. Who never wore a black suit nor a white necktie. Who never used a prayer book. Or a hymn book. Or wrote a sermon. Who never fired a cornet soloist to draw souls to hear the "Word." Who never advertised his sermons. Who never went through a course of theological study. Who was never ordained. Who never went to conference. Who was he?

How Absurd.

In the south of England there is a curious superstition, which shows how a silly notion will sometimes influence people for generations. It is the custom for brides to never wear the same pins they wore on their marriage day. Before retiring the bride carefully withdraws every pin from her clothing, and throws them away, where she cannot use them again. No doubt there are other customs as foolish in vogue, but happily the age is outgrowing them. In generations back, the lives of our ancestors were rendered miserable by belief in ghosts, witches, charms, spells, and dabblers of all kinds. From the cradle to the grave they were dread and fear of supernatural agencies in every act of life.

Editorial Errors.

1. To believe that the more hours that children are at their studies the faster they learn. 2. To believe that the more a person eats the stronger and fatter he will become. 3. To believe that if exercise is good for one it should be taken at all hours and seasons, the more violent the better the result. 4. To imagine that the smallest room in the house is large enough to sleep in. 5. To eat without appetite. 6. To eat a hearty supper the last thing at night.

Hagard's Yellow Oil is a perfect panacea curing by external and internal doses of Bursick blood Bitters. It is the best regulator of the Liver, Bowels and Kidneys; the most perfect Blood Purifier and permanent Tonic known. Purely vegetable, safe and pleasant to take, and unrivaled in its effects as a health restorative. Sample Bottles 10 cents.

A REAL NECESSITY.—No house should be without a bottle of Hagard's Yellow Oil, in case of accident. There is no preparation offered to suffering humanity that has made so many permanent cures, or relieved so much pain and misery. It is called by some the God's Own Remedy, by others the Cure-all, and by the afflicted an Angel of Mercy.

To Public Speakers.

Public speakers and singers who would possess a clear voice, freed from hoarseness and sore throat should use Hagard's Pectoral Balsam, a safe, pleasant and certain healer for the throat and lungs; it speedily breaks up a cold and cures all pulmonary complaints, that so often lead to incurable consumption.

BELLEVILLE, ONT., Feb. 13, 1880.

It is with pleasure that I testify to the popularity of Perry Davis' Pain-Killer, and the great sale it enjoys here. The large and uniform demand for it is an evidence of its virtue, and when once used it needs no further advertising. It would be impossible to enumerate here the many cures it has effected. We hear of them almost daily. It is evident that the people in this locality appreciate the good qualities of Pain-Killer.

Very truly yours,

L. W. YEOMANS,

See advertisement in another column.

Stop That Cough.

Or it will lead to serious disease of the Lungs & Bronchial Tubes. Wilson's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry will cure it to you now. It is pleasant to take, contains no opium or other injurious drug, and is recommended by the many thousands who have already used it and been cured by it. For Hoarseness, Whooping Cough, Croup, Bronchitis, Catarrh and Loss of Voice it has no equal. Be sure and get the genuine in white wrappers.

Ladies, if you wish to keep your hands soft and smooth, you can't do better than use Guelph's Persian Balm. It cures Chapped Hands, Cracked Lips, and Roughness of the Skin, etc., only costs 25 cents per bottle, and is sold by all druggists.

Mother! Mother! Mother!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately, and quiet him down; it is the only mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle.

Sold!—Neighbor's pretty daughter: "How much is this yard?" Draper's son (temperate "spoons" on her): "Only one kiss." N.P.O.: "I will take three yards. Grandma will pay it."
