YOUNG FOLKS CORNER.

MY MOTHER'S SONGS.

Of all the songs from sweetest voices,
In young days or of old,
That make my inmost soul rejoice,
Hoarier oft they're told,
Are those sweet songs my mother sang
While at the home I dwelt,
When all the world seemed little and young,
And joy was on our side.
Oh! I have wandered far away
In many lands of song,
And I have heard the minstrel's lay
That thrill'd the listening throng;
That sweet the charm when beauty sings,
And sweet the minstrel's voice,
There is no charm that memory brings
Like those old songs to me.
Through many years of joyous life
I reach the sea of old,
Now all the battles and the strife,
The horse and the cold,
Are o'er for me, and calm I wait
To hear the "joy bells" ring;
For I shall hear at heaven's gate
My angel mother sing.

Boys and Thimbles.

No man can, like the writer, live sixty years, without often wishing he had learned to use a sewing thimble well in his early boyhood, especially if he has gone about the world much. Buttons will come off, stitches will break, and how handy it is for boys at school, for men at a hotel, at a friend's house, indeed anywhere away from home—often at home—to be able to whip on a button, stop a starting rent, and do many other little things, without calling on a woman, or perchance sending for a tailor, before being able to appear at a hotel table. One seldom, if ever, learns to use a thimble, if this part of his education has been neglected in small boyhood. The writer has travelled a good deal, and at a rough guess he has broken threads at least five hundred times in attempting to work a needle through a button or garment without a thimble. Boys, take our advice, and every one of you learn to use a thimble well before you grow up. Do it this very winter; it is not too late to do so. Do it, and if you live long you will many times thank us for this advice.—Ed.

A physician has been telling some of his patients "How I died." His explanation is that I died of Pott's disease. "Is it possible that I should like to cover my ground, but—" "Boy, show big enough for your feet, and you'll do it." was the impatient suggestion from the crowd.

Fooled Once More.

(Markdale (Ont.) Standard.)

MR. EDITOR.—The most of people relish a good story, provided it be truthful one. Tales of adventure, daring, heroism, dangers of the deep, battles, &c., all have their charms. Who amongst us could read the adventures of Robinson Crusoe half way through, and not have a desire to know the end of it. We confess being of this class. Now, the first thing we do when we receive our weekly newspaper is to hurriedly glance through it and pick out what we consider the most important items. These are generally distinguished by their headings; but you don't catch us trawling any longer to these glaring impositions. We could laugh at being fooled once or twice, but to get caught a third time is our reason for remonstrating. Two or three weeks since we got to reading what we thought was a very nice story in one of our Toronto weeklies, and towards the end it informed us about St. Jacobs Oil; we only laughed, and said humbug. The week following we noticed another heading, "How Mark Twain Entertained a Visitor." Well, thinking we might learn a little edifying, in case Mark should take a fancy to send us an invitation, we read it, but by St. Patrick, if they didn't finish by making Mark introduce St. Jacobs Oil. Well, confound it, we exclaimed, but they have got another dose of that St. Jacobs Oil on us again, determined not to be caught so simple next time; but now, sir, I admit the corn; along comes our Toronto Mail on Thursday, down we sat, and almost the first thing that caught our eye was the adventures of Capt. Paul Boynton; it appeared quite interesting; it told how he had bumped against sharks, etc. At this point we began to feel a little incredulous, because, from our knowledge of these gentry, they would relish the captain alive or dead, all the same. However, determined to learn some more of his exploits, we read a little further, when—O, well, it don't matter what we said, you can't find it in any of the dictionaries. I'm—dashed if the captain wasn't gilding himself all over with St. Jacobs Oil, it may be, but more easily to evade the sharks, for we made no further search, our curiosity was satisfied. Now, Mr. Editor, in order to fool us again, it will require to be printed wrong end up. We have made up our mind to look out for anything and everything in the shape of St. or Saint attached to their names. We are sorry for the readers of any journal to be thus "taken in," so to phrase it, but what can they expect when we editors are caught in the same storm without any protection. While sympathizing with them, we can only desire the ability shown in any enterprise that can thus compel, as it were, the attention of people. When it is considered that only a short time ago St. Jacobs Oil was scarcely known in Canada, and now has so commended itself to the favor of the people of the Dominion as to become the household remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, pain, bruises, chilblains, etc., and all because of its surprising efficacy in these ailments, we think it will be regarded by everybody as a matter of congratulation that we possess, so easily obtainable, such a reliable means for the cure of disease. Such is our view of the matter, although we are "fooled" on an average, about five times a week. If St. Jacob can stand it, we've made up our mind to "fight it out on that line, if it takes all Winter."

Use "Castorine" Machine Oil for all kinds of machinery. It is also excellent for Harness or Leather, making it water and weather proof.

FOR MORE EXAMINATIONS HAVE, in some instances, led to the discovery of the scars of completely healed abscesses or sores upon the lung. This of itself shows that the long disease when diagnosed is susceptible of restoration to a sound and healthy condition. Persons afflicted with lung disease may reasonably hope to recover health by the use of well-chosen remedies. Foremost among these is Northrop & Evans' Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, a thoroughly tested and highly accredited specific for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, spitting of the blood and other affections of the throat, chest and lungs. Pulmonary irritation is promptly arrested by the Cod Liver Oil, and the hypophosphites, which are among the finest restoratives used by physicians, revive the flagging energies of the debilitated system.

Nearly $9,000 of an Increase in the Sales at the Right House

During October and November over the sales of October and November 1880. It is perfectly astonishing to see the crowds who throng these enormous stores from morning until night. Although they are about four times as large as the most of other stores in town, yet the immense multitudes who patronize them often cannot get room to sit down at the vast lengths of counters provided for them. The reason of this great success is that Watkins' long experience of thirty-eight years as a buyer has given him a thorough knowledge of the best markets of the world to buy in. Then his great capital enables him to purchase his goods for cash down at the very lowest possible prices. The cash discounts he gets, amounting to over $4,000 in each year, are a hindrance to profit alone. His system of selling for prompt cash saves him from loss by bad debts, which for the last two years only amount to $12,000 altogether. The immense amount of his sales enables him to sell his goods at a mere trifle over the cost, and he, in every sense, has no average profit for many years. Customers know they can get all kinds of Dry Goods, Millinery Materials, Dress, Underclothing for Ladies, gentlemen, girls and boys, House Furnishing Goods, including Carpets, Floor Oil Cloths, Linoleums, Lace Curtains, etc., from the lowest to the very best. If every article of all kinds, quantities and prices. Silks, satins, Velvets, Plushes, and almost anything and everything they require, at this enormous house, at the very lowest prices that good, serviceable goods can be sold for. They know they can always get the very latest fashions and best French, English and American styles to be had. They know also that Watkins' system of marking all his goods in plain figures at the lowest cash prices is a guarantee of fair dealing, and that if they send a child for goods it will get them as cheap as they can, and further, that should any mistake be made or an overcharge occur, it will be set right if the bill is brought back and the matter explained to the proprietor. They know also that they will be treated politely, and will not be teased to buy more than they require. Wanted, a salesman, Mantle makers and apprentices. Remember the Right House is on King Street east, close to Hughson Street, and the same is
