YOUNG FOLKS CONNES.

OUR DAILY RECKONING.

If you ait down at met of sun And count the acts that you have done. And counting, find, One self-denying act, one word That eased the beart of him who heard

One glance most kind, That fell like evashine where it went, Then you may count that day well spent, But, if through all the livelong day Yor've cheered no beart by yea or nay; If, through it all,

You've nothing done, that you can trace, That brought the sunshine to one face ; No act most small, That helped some soul, and nothing cost, Then count that day as worse than lost !

The Electrical Girl Who Lives

(London (Can.) Advertiser.)

It is now about three years since the ADVERTISER published the story of the Electrical Girl in the township of Romney. The tale passed through nearly all of our exchanges, and co-casionally re appears now. The story in brief was that the girl was so highly charged with electricity that she could not handle any article of steel. She Kendall's Spavin Cure. was-a veritable magnet, and needles, knives, etc , would cling to any part of her person. The publication excited a proved beyond a doubt that Kendall's Spavin good deal of curiosity concerning the girl, and many people called upon her at her home. Recently she was taken ill, and the local physicians were called Kendall's Spavin Cure. tions. In her knee joints severe pains were felt shooting at intervals, as though a bettery were at work and giving her intermittent shocks. The knee began so swell, and the pains spread to other parts of bez body, generally becoming permanent in the iciale All the doctors could do was of very little avail. .. Occasionally slight relief would be obtained, but in wet or murky weather the pains would re-shouble in violence. Finally when the Moremedy has ever met with such poquali-decrease to our knowledge, for beaute as murky weather the pains would redoctors had given up treating her, and well as man. regarded her stepty as a physiological Price 81 per bettle, or six bottles for $5.
