The rebel chief, as | The Acid was the steamer which Tel el Kebir, galloped away to Zagazig, was burned last May. whence a train conveyed him to Cairo, where he was stoned by his own conn by the prefect of police, and is now prisoner in the British bands. Ten thousend Egyptian troops in Cairo laid down their arms the same day, and the work of disarming the rebels and taking possession of their forts was procorded with as rapidly as possible, of aubuitation are received by the Khe-Gen. Wulseler.

The capture of Tel el Kebir, followed by that of Zagazig before the sun bad time to set ; the taking possession of the earthworks at Kafrel-Dwar practially destroyed Arabi's hopes and demoral-Izedhis army. Tue British troops arriv ed at the capital and the native officials were ready to band over the keys of the city. Damietta bas followed in tl wake of Cairo and has offered to surrer der. Thus has the campaign bee brought to a successful close, and the has Sir Garnet amply fulfilled his pro mise of suppressing the rebellion befor the 15th of September, WAR NOTES. It is believed that Arabi will be set to England.

The Household cavalry will be th first to leave Egypt. The-bomeware movement will begin shortly after the military teriew, which will be held as soon as the Khedive arrives

At the taking of Tel-el-Kebje two thousand E-Vitians were slain and three kandred taken prisoners. Forty guns were taken. The British loss was about one hundred and seventy four. As soun as General Wolseley arrived at Cairo he telegraphed that midship man De Ghair, who was captured at Alexandria, was safe, The health and spirits of the troops Isreported excellent.

The list of British killed, which is not large sonsidering the victory won against such great odds, unfortunally includes a large number of officers. The victory was of the most complete description, and adds snother to long list of names worn with pride upon the colors of the English army.
