YOUNG FOLKS' CORNER.

Telling Fortunes.

I'll tell you two fortunes, and you will like them. For you to see or to hear: The one of them good, the other bad.—Now hear them and say which you prefer. I see by my gift within reach of your hand, A fortune right fair to behold; A house and a beautiful piece of land, With harvest fields yellow as gold.

I see a great orchard, with boughs hanging down;

With apples russet and red;

Two doves of 'telle—some white and some brown;

But all of them sleek and well fed.

I see doves of swallows about the barn-door;

See the spinning mill whirling so fast;

I see the man threading out wheat on the floor,

And now the bright picture is passed.

And I see riding diamantini in the place.

Of the beautiful houses and the land,

A man with a freckled nose on his face,

And a little brown pup in his hand!

Oh! if you behold him my lad, you would wish

That he were less wretched to see;

For his foot toes they look like the mouth of a calf;

And his troubles are at the knee.

In walking he staggers now this way, now that;

And his eyes they stand out like a bulge;

And he wears an old coat and a battered hat;

And I think the fault is the jugs.

For the next says the drunkard shall come to poor.

And that dressness clothes men with rage,

And he doesn't look much like a man;

Who has honest hard cash in his bags.

Now, which will you have? To be thrifty and sad;

Or to be right up with your dish?

And your shoes like the mouth of a fish?

Say No.

In every school the difference is clearly marked between the boy who has moral courage, and the boy who has mere impudence. The one knows how to say "No." The other is so afraid of being thought "backward" that he soon kills everything fresh and healthy in his character, and dries up into a premature death.

Evidently were gathered in a room at a boarding school, and four of them engaged in a game of cards, expressly forbidden by the rules. One of the players was called out. The three said to the quiet lad who was busy at something else:

"Come take a hand with us. It is well to have the game broken up."

"I do not know one card from another."

"That makes no difference," exclaimed the players. "We'll show you how. Come along."

Now that was the turning point in that lad's life. He nobly said:

"My father does not wish me to play cards, and I will not disobey him."

That sentence settled the matter and settled his position among his associates. He was the boy who could say "No," and henceforth his victories were made easy and sure. I well remember the pressure brought to bear in a college upon every young man to join a wine-drink or to take a hand in some contraband amusement. Some number got well-seasoned. Some of the other sort got pretty well rotted through with sensuality and vice. The Neophytes at that college have been Neophytes ever since. The boy was the father of the man.

Dresses, cloaks, coats, stockings and all garments can be colored successfully with the Diamond Dyes. Fashionable colors only 10 cents.

Talking about difficult fads, did you ever attempt to select a name for a baby?

"There is no arguing a coward into courage." But even the coward has his moments of trying Kidneys, the prediction of what will effectually cure diseases of the liver and kidneys. Let's prepare both in liquid and dry, and can always be relied on as an effective cathartic and diuretic. Try it.

A crusty old bachelor says he thinks it's a woman, and not her wrongs, that ought to be redressed.

A. Des Rochers, Arthabaska-ville, P. Q., writes: "Thirteen years ago I was seized with a severe attack of rheumatism in the head, from which I nearly constantly suffered, until after having used Dr. Thomas's Electric Oil for nine days, bathing the head, &c., when I was completely cured, and have only used half a bottle."

Flowers ought to make good soldiers; they are accustomed to cold lead and are tremendous followers to charge.

Mr. Henry Marshall, Reeve of Dunnville, writes: "Some time ago I got a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery from Mr. Harrison, and I consider the best medicine extant for Dyspepsia." This medicine is making many cures in Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, &c., in purifying the blood and restoring manhood to full vigor.

Matherie: There are only two beautiful things in the world women and roses, and only two sweet things, women and melons.

Mr. T. C. Wells, Chemist and Druggist, Port Colborne, Ont., writes: "Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspepsia Cure sells well, and gives the best of satisfaction for all diseases of the blood." It never fails to root out all diseases from the system, cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, &c., purifies the blood, and will make you look the picture of Health and Happiness.

It is now said that night-lacing gives women red noses. That is the most telling that has ever been aimed at the time-honored habit.
