MANHOOD
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.
The friends of the family were astonished at the provisions of the will, and were still more astonished when Arthur and Samantha openly proclaimed that Emma was not their sister at all, but a puper whom their father had adopted out of charity.

POETRY.
SONG FOR ALL SEASONS.
BY HARRY OWENALL.
When March tempests white the pine,
Stretch'd I dream of those old times,
And Spring so soon to be,
When the sweet bee, hush by hour,
Lies in the rose flower,
Sings its life song.

OUR STORY.
He Had A Heart.
"At heartless as a Jew" is an expression that long since passed into a proverb, but why as heartless as a Jew would probably puzzle the inventor of the expression were he now living.

Johnny and the Eggs.
"Grandpa, does hens make their own eggs?"
"Yes indeed they do Johnny."
"An' do they always put the yoke in the middle?"
"Guess they do, Johnny."

Lazy Farmers.
Laziness prevents a man from getting off his horse to set up the first rail that gets knocked off the fence, and consequently the whole field of corn is damaged.
Wasn't In.
The occupant of an office on Congress Street west mixed matters one day this week in such shape that any caller had to run the gauntlet of a boy in the next room, and as he retired into his den beyond he said to the youth:
"Now, young man, look me in the eye."
"Yes, sir."
"And remember what I say."
"Yes, sir."
"If any person asks if I am in you must say you don't know. You will then ask their business. If they say it is a financial matter you must come in here, stop a minute, and return and say that I am out of town to take baths for rheumatism."
"Yes, sir."
It was hardly an hour before a stranger came up, and when asked his business he replied:
"Well, I called on a little errand involving some money."
That was the cue for the boy. He retreated to the back room, winked at his employer, and returned to the ante-room and reported:
"He has just left for the country on a vacation."
"Then I'll leave a note," said the man, and he sat down and wrote a few lines and took his departure, when he had been gone ten minutes the employer came out smiling and said:
"Called to pay you ninety dollars, but you were out. Am off for Tennessee. See you when I return in January. T-t-t-t!"
It was the worst only of ten seconds to fling on his hat and reach the street; but it was too late. An hour's hard work, including a walk to one of the depots, failed to turn up the man who had the money to leave instead of the bill to collect. The boy over there was looking very much cast down yesterday. One would have said that somebody had been scolding at him.

A Vexed Clergyman.
Even the patience of Job would be overcome by the trials of a clergyman who while they were keeping up incessant coughing, making it impossible for him to be heard. Yet, how very easy can all this be avoided by simply using Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Trial bottle given away at J. R. McGarrin's Drug Store.

LEVI. She must part with her mother's work-box for bread!
"Mr. Levi," she said, "I am in great need, and am compelled to part with this box for a little better money."
Mr. Levi looked at it critically, and inquired: "You ask for five?"
"I could put no value on it, as it is price less to me. Let me have five dollars on it, and I will redeem it in the future."
"Oh! Mein Gmueln! I feel dollar! Vy, it would bankrupt me if I give you a dollar. I don't care to take him at all!"

Stamped.
A Philadelphia gentleman took his little son on a railway excursion. The little fellow was looking out the window, when his father slipped the hat off the boys head. The latter was much grieved at his supposed loss, when papa consoled him by saying that he would "whistle it back again." A little later he whistled and the hat reappeared. Not long after the little lad flung his hat out of the window, shouting: "Now, papa, whistle it back again!" A year or two later in the car served to enhance the confusion of perplexed papa.

Arraham Levi valued Emma's work-box at ten dollars, but found no purchaser. After trying vainly to sell it one day he took it and gave it to the customer as he was leaving his shop, and was surprised to hear something more inside of it. Taking the key he unlocked it, but it was empty. Holding it up he again shook it, and again heard something moving. Examining the interior more closely he observed a minute spring, against which he pushed, and a false bottom sprang up.
And such a sight as met the astonished eyes of the Jew. Spread out on the bottom of the box was a ten-thousand dollar United States bank note with ten coupons undispensed. He picked it up and unprecisely like it was his own. Grasping the second the third appeared, and so on until they numbered thirty-five. Here was a greater fortune than Abraham Levi had ever dreamed of. He selected a pencil and calculated the interest. The bonds and coupons were worth more than six hundred thousand dollars in the money market. They were his. He was wealthy at last. He replaced them in the box, put down the false bottom and locked it up in his safe.

Emma had been removed to Pittsburg from the interior of the State upon the death of her wife, while his children were yet small, and Emma, as she grew up, still kept the rural ways of her early childhood, which gave moral effect to her fashionable brother and sister. Fashionable life and high society had no charms for her, and she was soon imported in the household, even her father lavished all his attentions and paternal regards upon his two eldest children.
At length Mr. Harrison died, and was buried, and the will, which he had taken great care to make, was admitted to probate. It was short and to the point.
"To Emma Harrison I bequeath the work-box that belonged to my dear wife, and the same amount in the household, I bequeath all the remainder of my estate, bonds, stocks, lands, tenement and property of whatever kind."
It is to be regretted that my two children, Arthur and Samantha, give Emma a home until she marries.

Nassagaweya News.
The members of the Prospect Division No. 233, Sons of Temperance were greatly edified by a visit from Mr. John Ramsey last Thursday evening. Mr. Ramsey was present on behalf of the Ontario Alliance and made arrangements with the Division to work as a Branch of the Alliance. As one of the county commissioners, he reported the reports so industriously criticised, to the effect that those hotel keepers who had been fined had received received their fines back again, and also that the Police Magistrate was not legally appointed. The Division expressed their determination to support the Sons Act which has worked such a favorable change in this township since the first of May, to the bitter end. Besides Mr. Ramsey were present Messrs. A. Pickett and J. D. Strang, both of whom spoke favorably of the working of the Sons Act.

There's Where the Shoe Pinches.
Corns are a capital indicator. They tell to a hair's breadth whether your shoe or hat will allow you the right dimension or not. Corns will require an accident to get away from them in a few days. No such accident is so simple and so sure as the use of the Shoe Pincher. It is sold by Dr. J. R. McGarrin's Drug Store, 210, St. John Street, Acton, Ont.
