YOUNG FOLKS CORNER.

Rocking the Baby.

I bear rocking the baby—
The room is next to mine.
And I have a feeling that
That round neck cradle,
As the rocks and rocks the baby,
In the room next to mine.
I bear rocking the baby—
Each day when the twilight comes,
And I know there's a world of trouble and love
In the baby's "oh-ho's."
I can see the restless fingers
Playing with "Mamma's" ring,
The sweet little smiling, pouting mouth
That to her is kissing clings,
As she rocks and rocks the baby,
And dreams as the rocks and sings.
I bear rocking the baby—
The room just next to mine,
And I know that the good-night kiss
On her cheek and nose the baby,
From her rocking, rocking, rocking,
I never would she start,
Could she know through the wall between us,
She is rocking on a heart?
While my eyes are on the shining
For a form that may not pass,
As I see my heart's darling
In the double bed-room.
I bear rocking the baby—
The room just next to mine,
As I breathe a prayer to Heaven,
At mother's broken sigh,
For the woman who rocks the baby
In the room just next to mine.

What Young Men Should Do.

1. Every young man should make the most of himself, intellectually, morally and physically.
2. He should depend on his own efforts to accomplish these things.
3. He should be willing to take advice from those competent to give it, and to follow such advice, unless his own judgment or conviction, properly founded, should otherwise direct.
4. If he is unfortunate enough to have a rich and indulgent father, he must do the best he can under the circumstances, which will be to educate himself very much as though he had no such obstacles to overcome.
5. He should never be discouraged by small losses, but remember that all great results have been accomplished from slight beginnings.
6. He should never under any circumstances, be idle. If he can find employment he should, let him come as near his duties as possible, he will thus reach the object of his ambition.
7. All young men have "unalienable rights," among which none is greater or more sacred than the privilege to be "successful."

Action, look, work, step, form the alphabet by which you can spell character.
