Farmers and Their Grain,

Compared very sensibly reviews the matter in the following article and shows those bolding their grain that it is by long odds to their interest to dis. pose of it without further delay :-

"There is no subject upon which the farmer feels more strongly, and consequently reasons more erronéously, then the rise and fall of the price of wheat He fancies the whole community leagued against him on this head! forgetting the economic traism that their seventeenth report recommendprices are regulated by supply and de mand. The world will not starte for bresd though every farmer to Consuls. hold over his wheat till Spring; and our whole Canadian production is so small a fraction of the world's supply that It can have but little effect meantime upon prices. But the farmer biarself la made to auffer. He loses, at a law estimate; about 3 per cent, in shrinkage, about 2 per cent, in rattage, said, from 4 to 5 per cent. in interest-esp c'all if he he meletted to the Loan & cate at the usual 8 per cent, or unce the statekenper who will not go un train season for second lefeling non his equi tal for mere phalenthrops - making in all say 10 per cent lessager ten certs a proces was granted how by the Minister bushel off the price of the wheat, es of Justice, until January nest, in order timafed at a dollar a bushel. Thus for breuchte Mr. N. Murphy to file writ the wheat which he might have sold of error to the conviction, on a technical in September or October for any a dol. ground relaive to the right of challen lar a bushel, he must get in the month | ging jurora Eulius Irving, Q. C., of April $1.10 to $1.12 in order to put appeared for the Crowe, but not being himself in as good a position-to obtain as good a market as that at a dollar a bushel of six months; before; should he sell at a dollar in the spring, it would be no better than 90 cents in the previous October."

Anti-Scott Logic.

Last Satuaday there were twoor three individuals in town the worse of liquor and this fact has been pointed out to us to prove that the Scott Act is a failure, " Prohibition doesn't prohibit, because men seil liquoc and others get drunk where probibition exists,' reason the friends of license. Now, suppose we use the same argument in because weeds still come up in the field. Education doesn't educate because it doesn't exterminate the ignorance that persists in such silly arguments as the above. Just pluse, and think of the absurdity of the above logic: We dividual who does not live a bundred contend that the Scott Act is doing wil-s from the place. What aroused much good in our midst and that many this suspicion is the general character of families are being blessed by its juffa. the individual, the peculiar way in fails. ence. But who is it that says the which the words were printed, the Scott Act is not a success I Is it the temperance people of the community ! No. . It is the men who are illegally selling liquor, and the friends of: these

"While we are opposed to class legislation in Masonry, as in politics, fact that there are too many saloon keepadmitted to our city lodges. Indeed call at J. E. McGarvin's Drug Store, and one city lodge ought to change its name, and we suggest the "Licensed Victual lers' Own" as being appropriate. The Aberdeen Standard says that in Scotland many taverns use Masonic emblems to attract custom. In a bar room in this city a Mason's diploma and liquor license hang side by side. what vice purpose, &c."

The Farmers' Importance.

From the leading articlet in the ma jority of the newspapers, at present, it is evident that the farming community forms a most important feature in the financial workings of the country. Their present action in holding back Store their grain is proving this more effectually than could be done in any other woy. But, now that they have had the satisfaction of proving themselves in discensible, they should come out like ion, poor appetite. low and depressed men, sell their surplus grain, and pay spirits, and generally depilitated, do not men, sell their sur los grain; and pay all honest liabilities. By so doing they procure a bottle of the wonderful Elective soft, clear and beautiful; also incommunity at large
