BOTH PERFECTLY WILLING.

If I should steal a little kiss. Oh, would she weep, I wonder ? tremble at the thought of bliss-If I should steal a little kiss! Such pouting lips would never miss.

The dainty bit of plunder;

If I should steal a little kiss. He longs to steal a kiss of mine-He may if he'll return it; If I can read the tender sign, He longs to steal a kiss of mine "In love and war "-you know the line-Why cannot he discern it?

He may if he'll return it. A little kiss when no one sees-Where is the impropriety? How sweet amid the birds and bees, A little kiss when no one sees ; Nor is it wrong, the world agrees, If taken with sobriety. A little kiss when no one sees

He longs to steal a kiss of mine-

Where is the impropriety?

Philosophy of After Marriage.

"You love me no longer," said a bride of a few mouths to her better-half in his grown and slippers. "Why do you say that, Puss ?" he asked, quietly, removing a cigar from his lips. "You do not caress me por call me pet names, you no longer seek so anxiously for my company," was the tearful answer. "My dear," continued the wretch, "did you ever notice a man running after a car ? How he does run ?seizes hold and swings on. Then he of the sex, with positive cure for each chasing it, but the manifestation is no ommended by many eminent lady physici longer called for. I would have shot any ans as a safe guide for the sex. Handsomely one who put himself in my way when in bound and illustrated. Sent postpaid for pursuit of you, as I would now shoot any $1.00. Address the one who would come between us; but as a proof of my love you insist on my running after the car."

An Extraordinary Tailoring Job.

Among the many whimsical anecdotes told of the peculiar habits of the Chinese, perhaps few will be considered more characteristic of their love of imitation than the following: Towards the close of the last century, an officer of the Pitt, East Indiaman, when that ship lay off Canton, sent ashore to a native an order for a dozen pairs of trousers, to be made of the nankeen for which China has been so long famed. The Chinese artisan required a patternhe could not make anything without a pattern-so a pair of trousers were sent at his request, which pair had been mended with a patch and needlework on the knee. In due time the dozen pairs were sent on board, of a farbic of exceeding beauty for fineness and quality, but every pair bearing, like an heraldic badge, the obnoxious patch on the knee, exactly copied, stitch for stitch, in a style that reflected the highest credit on the mechanical skill of the workman, and for the difficult execution of which an extra charge was made upon the purse of the exasperated owner, who had no alternative but to bring home his bargain as a qualification for the Traveller's Club.

Early Training.

To shape the character of a child aright is a task which perhaps only those who have themselves been wisely disciplined in youth are thoroughly competent to perform. Few know how to go about it; fewer still possess the requisite patience and equanimity to adhere persistently to the rules under which alone it can be accomplished. The great difficulty is with those strong propensities which, wholesome in themselves and implanted in our nature for was purposes, may become, if unregulated by principle, the source of the worst vices and the most heinous crimes.

There's too much horse racing at your agricultural fairs," remarked Parson Jones to the secretary of the county society. should like to know, sir, what horse racing has to do with agriculture ?" " Well, parson," replied the secretary with a pleasant smile, no more than church lotteries bezaars, &c., have to do with spreading the gospel." Parson Jones saw the point and | Garvin Druggist. changed the conversation immediately.
