THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 80, 1884.

FOLDED AWAY

Day by day we fold away. Some treasure that our heart holds dear, Some cherished thing to which we ching And bless with many a kiss and tear.

A shred of lace may hold a place That jewels rare could never win; With love untild a ribbon old Is laid our dearest shrine within.

A little tress we fondly press Unto a heart that aches with pain Then, with a sigh for days gone by, We fold it from our sight again.

And is there not a hallowed spot, In memory's casket lying low,
Where, day by day, we fold away
Our heart-thoughts, lest the world should know?

Many a one, now lost and gone, In sweet day dreamings we behold Who, in our sleep, came back to keep. With us their vigils as of old.

And yet, alas ! such dreams must pass, Life's sterner duties must be met! Quickly we turn and strive to learn That cruel lesson-to forget !

When from the gleam of love's sweet dream Our hearts awake in sad surprise, How dimly burn, where'er we turn, The lesser lights that meet our eyes!

When o'er the dead our fears are shed, While on the silent lips we press The last fond kiss-oh, is not this The summit of life's loneliness? And yet we know, though all lie low

Whom we have ever loved or known, Still we must live and learn to give To earth the claims it calls its own. O grief untold! with hearts grown old, Like flowers blighted in a day, How fondly, then, from sight of men We fold our dear dead loves away

Farmers, Care for Yourselves.

I often think it strange that, as a rule, farmer is kinder to his horse than he is to himself. If he takes out his roadster, how careful he is on returning to groom the animal till perfectly clean, to see that water is not given till the animal has cooled; yet he will go straight to the well and drink, often without sense or reason; and, without heeding the perspiration that streams and must have what he wants there before Garvin Druggist. his eyes. Leather slippers do not absorb moisture, and are therefore best, and nothing refreshes the feet more than a regular washing in tepid water, and clean socks.

laborers bruised his leg. Owing to the bad state of his blood, an ugly scrofulous swelling or lump appeared on the injured limb. Horrible itching of the skin, with burning and darting pains through the lump, made life almost intolerable. The leg became enormously miarged, and running nicers formed, discharging great quantities of extremely offensive matter. No treatment was of any avail until the man, by Mr. LELAND's direction, was supplied with AYER'S SARSAPAhealed the sores, removed the swelling, and completely restored the limb to use. Mr. LELAND has personally used for Bheumatism, with entire success; and, after careful observation, declares that, in his belief, there is no modicine in the world equal to it for the cure of Liver Disorders, Gout, the effects of high living, Sali Bheum, Sores, Eruptions, and all the various forms of blood diseases.

We have Mr. LELAND's permission to invite all who may desire further evidence in regard to the extraordinary curative powers of ATER'S SARRAPARILLA to see him personally either at his mammoth Ocean Hotel, Long Branch, or at the popular Laland Hotel, Broadway, 27th and 28th Streets, New York. Mr. LELAND'S extensive knowledge of the good done by this unequalled eradicator of blood poisons enables him to give inquirers much valuable information.
