THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 14, 1885. POETRY.

AN OLD PROVERB. Putting my darling, because it rains, And flowers droop and the rain is falling, And a meaning wind through the lane is calling.

When the world is bright and fair and gay, And glad birds sing in the fair June west, And summer is gathering, night and day, Her golden chalice of sweets together;

But this is the time the heart to test, When winter is near and storms are howling, And the earth from under her frozen vest Looks up at the sad sky mute and weeping.

OUR STORY. The Little Tin Pails.

About six o'clock in the afternoon, a passenger cannot walk through the quietest street in any city, without meeting men, each with a little tin pail in his hand.

What Boys Should Know. Don't be satisfied with your boy's education or allow him to handle a Latin or Greek book until you are sure that he can

1. Write a real business hand. 2. Spell all the words he knows how to spell.

3. Speak and write good English. 4. Write a good social letter.

5. Write a good business letter. 6. Add a column of figures rapidly.

7. Make out an ordinary account. 8. Deduct 15 per cent, from the face of it.

9. Receipt it when it is paid. 10. Write an ordinary receipt.

11. Write an advertisement for the local paper. 12. Write a notice or report of a public meeting.

13. Write an ordinary promissory note. 14. Reckon the interest or discount on it for days, months, or years.

15. Draw an ordinary bank check. 16. Take it to the proper place in a bank to get it cashed.

17. Make neat and correct entries in your day-book and ledger. 18. Tell the number of yards of carpet required for your parlor.

19. Measure the pile of lumber in your yard. 20. Tell the number of bushels of wheat in your large bin, and the value of it at the current rates.

21. Tell your something about the great authors and statesmen of the present day. 22. Tell you what railway he would take in making a trip from Boston to San Francisco.

23. If he can do all this and more, it is likely that he has sufficient education to enable him to make his own way in the world.

24. If you have more time and money to spend upon him, all well and good. Give him higher English, give him literature, give him mathematics, give him science, and if he is very, very anxious about it, give him a little Latin or Greek, or whatever else the course he intends pursuing in life demands.—School Supplement.

Butter for Profit.

(1) Test the cows of the herd from time to time by churning the milk of each cow separately.

(2) Keep one day of every week a record of the milk yield of each cow and the quantity of butter made from it.

(3) Having ascertained which cows are non-paying, sell them off the farm, and breed the best ones to a pure bred bull of stock well established as butter-makers.

The common cows of this country, require on an average twenty-five pounds of milk to produce one pound of butter; but by grading up the stock to half or three-quarters pure blood, the farmer can raise a herd of dairy cows which will give an average of a pound of butter to every six pounds of milk, without any reduction in the quantity of milk yielded or increase in the cost of breeding.—Valancey E. Patten, Hamilton.

A Few Plain Questions.

Why? Should churches charge for pews? Should we compromise with any wrong? Should politics be so corrupting? Should the rich escape full taxation? Should a man have the suffrage who uniformly neglects it? Should corporations own the people? Should debating books be published? Should prize-fights be tolerated? Should papers which cater to the low instincts be popular?

What Shall it be Billy?

Old Bill McGinnis was an Irishman, and that was all right; but he was a drunken Irishman, and that was all wrong.

CUPID'S QUEST.

Dan Cupid flew as a butterfly To the gardens of earth one day, And he sailed along through the summer sky In search of his flowerets gay.

He lighted upon an amber crown Which glittering leaves unfold; Alas! when to kiss he bent him down, 'Twas not kissing, but molten gold!

He flew to a blossom with pure white crest To rest him a balmy hour; The snow concealed but his bright breast— A stone was that passionless flower.

Then spying a ruby cup, he dips In the petals of loveliest rose; The carmine stained his sinuous lips, And dan Cupid indignantly fled.

A HEROIC DEED.

Surpassing Even the Deeds of Prowess of Every-Day Life.

A few months ago the country was thrilled with the account of a girl who, at the risk of her life, when the whirling flood of the swollen rivers was wresting great bridges from their foundations, skipped across the ties of a western railway, lantern in hand, and saved a train from certain destruction.

This state of affairs, however, is her suitable medal for her bravery. In this instance it was a child who saved the lives of many adults, but as a rule, the life of the child is in the hands of older persons.

In November 1883, a little eight-year-old son of Danish parents was suffering with diphtheria. The attack was not severe, but he did not seem to rally after the throat appeared perfectly well. Nausea, headache and low fever, succeeded the sore throat, and, and two or three days afterwards his limbs began to swell mysteriously. The skin became very dry, vomiting was frequent, nose-bleeding was persistent, and nothing would stay in his stomach. "It was evident to our minds," says Mrs. Thos. Schmidt, wife of the vice-consul of Denmark, residing at Netherwood, N.J., "that some mysterious malady was working ruin in his system. Our physician said he had the terrible bright's disease. To our suggestion that a certain preparation be used he made no objection. We gave him six doses a day, two teaspoonfuls at a dose, in sweetened water. It remained upon his stomach, and within a week there was marked improvement. The boy became vigorous without the use of cathartics, and the nausea subsided; in three weeks there was a subsidence of the dropsy, and by the middle of May the limbs were perfectly normal. He had a good appetite, and could take three pints of milk daily. By the first of May he was up, and though he had spent six months in bed, he did not feel particularly weak. In June he was out, feeling perfectly well, and in July he weighed eight pounds more than he did before he was taken sick. To-day there is only a slight unfavorable condition in his system, and the physician says we have every reason to believe the child will be perfectly well."

Mrs. Schmidt is certainly to be congratulated on the good results which followed the use of Warner's safe cure, and she says: "We feel bound to make this truly wonderful result known, and are perfectly willing to have this letter published." Gratifying as is the result wrought, it is by no means singular, for thousands of children, who seemed weak and puny, have had their entire nature changed and their future secured by a prompt use of the same preparation. Such disorders are transmitted by inheritance, or arise from children's epidemic diseases, the evil effects of which often prove fatal in later life. The secret of the ill-health of many children is that their kidneys and liver are not performing their natural work.

It was a brave feat of the brave girl who crossed the swollen stream on the bridge to save the lives of the passengers; but it is a braver deed, and one worthy of wider recognition, which, seeing the perils awaiting childhood free from prejudice, with a purpose only to save by any effective means preserves to us the lives of our children.

A Straight Shot.

"It beats all what shall some people can attain," said Smith.

"Why, I saw a fellow down town throw water from a bottle through an inch square hole ten feet distant, and every drop of it passed through the hole without wetting the sides. Of course, the feat possesses no importance, except the careful practice necessary to perform it."

"I should think," said Mrs. Smith, "that it would be a difficult feat. How in the world do you suppose he ever learned to do such a thing? Must have belonged to a fire company, didn't he?"

"No," said Smith quietly; "he belongs to the Mormon church, and acquired his skill by firing soothing syrup into his babies."

On other preparation so concentrates and combines blood-purifying, vitalizing, enriching and invigorating qualities as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Quality should be considered when making comparisons.

Many ladies admire gray hair—on some other person. But few care to try its effect on their own charms. Nor need they, since Ayer's Hair Vigor prevents the hair from turning gray, and restores gray hair to its original color. It cleanses the scalp, prevents the foundation of dandruff, and wonderfully stimulates the growth of the hair.

The virtue of Carbolic Acid for healing, cleansing and purifying is well known; but from the many modes of applying it, the public is uncertain how best to use it. To meet that want, McGreggor & Parke's Carbolic Ointment is prepared, and may be used with confidence. Do not be misled. Take only McGreggor & Parke's Carbolic Ointment. Sold at J. E. McGarvin's Drug Store, Acton.

First relief ultimately a cure. These are the successive efforts of one of the most deservedly popular remedies in the Dominion, Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, which reforms an irregular condition of the bowels and liver, invigorates the stomach, renews digestion, and changes the current of the blood from a sluggish and turbid into a pure, rapid, and fertilizing stream.

A. M. Hamilton, Warwick, writes: "For weeks I was troubled with a swollen ankle, which caused me much pain and annoyance. Mr. Maybee, of this place, recommended Dr. Thomas' Eucalyptic Oil for it. I tried it, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is an article of great value." Beware of Eucalyptic Oil, as they are imitations of Dr. Thomas' Oil.

A Cure for Croup. There is no better remedy for Croup than Hagyard's Yellow Oil taken internally and applied according to special directions. This is the great household preparation for Rheumatism, stiff joints, pain, inflammation, etc.

Wide Spread Evil. The great source of consumption and of ugly sores is scrofula in the blood. Burdock Blood Bitters purify the entire system and save scrofula, as well as the more common blood humors.

Drive it Away. Drive away all poisonous humor from the blood before it develops in scrofula or some chronic form of disease. Burdock Blood Bitters will do it.

Fluid Lightning does not take a day or an hour to remove Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, Lumbago or Rheumatism, but will do it instantly, and without carrying your head in a pillow for a day or using greasy liniments. Try a 25c. bottle from J. E. McGarvin, Druggist.

Finally Caught. It is very easy to catch cold, but not so easy to cure it unless you use Hagyard's Pectoral Balm, the best remedy for all throat, bronchial and lung troubles, coughs, colds and consumptive tendencies.

Mrs. Robert Hooper, of Kinross, county of Bruce, in a letter, says: "I have been troubled with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaints for a number of years, and am glad to say to the public as well as friends that McGreggor's Speedy Cure brought me around and I am now all right, thanks to McGreggor's Speedy Cure. Hundreds of the testimonials are frequently received, and are daily proving that this is truly a wonderful remedy, curing sluggish Liver Bilems, Headache and Constiveness, where all else fails. Sold at J. E. McGarvin's Drug Store. Trial bottles given free."
