gallons or ever of distilled spirits in constitnencies where the Scott Actis in force: order to facilitate the operations of the Canada Temperance Act," was another its wornout cry that the item was written by us from a Grit standpoint, but immediately afterwards asserts that it was a Globe editorial. Wrong again. We have ne interest in writing up either Grit or Tory politics, and we don't copy our editorials from either the Globe or the Mail. The the Act. We would direct the Sun's attention to the following from the Christian Guardian, a journal of the highest standing, one absolutely free from the shadow of a charge of writing with a political interest in injuring the Government in power :-

"We have all along been under the im-pression the "Canada Temperance Act was a prohibitory measure framed and enacted by Parliament for the relief of such constituencies as were desirons of putting an end to the liquor traffic within their limits. We have further supposed that for the furtherance of the wishes of a constitutional majority, in the event of the adoption of this Act by a constituency, it would be the duty of Parliament afford the necessary authority and facilities for its enforcement, and that in the interwould not only do nothing to defeat the are entirely mistaken as to its purpose. A recent Order-in-Council, with what apthe Canada Temperance Act," authority given to distillers to introduce whiskey in quantities of not less than ten gallons into Scott 'Act counties. We presume that, under our Constitution, the Governor-in-Council has authority to pass and put in force so important an alteration in an Act of Parliament as this appears to us to be, or it would not have been done, but that it should have been done "to facilitate the operation of the Canada Temperance Act," f it were not a matter of too much gravity to admit of it, would be exceedingly amusing, that is to say from our view point of the Act itself. With the interpretation which this announcement puts upon it, we shall, however, be under the necessity of revising our opinion of the purpose of the Canada Temperance Act, and must now regard it as a measure perverted into a means for transferring the traffic in whiskey from the hands of the retailer to those of the distiller, and that instead of pint and quart jugs, or decanters, every town the trustees. During this time he pursued and village and cross-road will have its his endies with a view to the years of depots, for the sale of ten gallon kegs. Whether the order will be so enlarged as to admit of the liquor being drunk on the premises the future will disclose, but tance. One can well imagine the state of things that must follow this order. The facility with which the very class we are trying to save may, under this order, drink more excessively than ever, all combine to render it a grosser outrage than the open adoption of the Senate amendments by the Commons would have been. It is no longer a mystery why the distillers have for some months past been offering so little ouposition in the Scott Act elections. seems they knew at least three months since that as soon as Parliament should close they were to have this precious Orderin- Council, and what more can they ask? No wonder the distillers have been quiet How immensely they must have enjoyed seeing the ball pitched about from Senate to Commons, or from Commons to Senate. Doubtless they knew well enough what would be the fate of the bill, hence the tranquillity with which they looked upon the whole farce. Well, we shall see what we shall see, but if the temperance party in the Scott Act counties tamely submit to

Isn't it strange, friend Sun, that if the FREE Press is the open Grit political journal you assert, that the Reform party in the county fail to claim it as an organ, and especially when they have no organ in the county? But they don't. Why, then, does the Sun be because a political leader-who can be named if necessary,-who is desperately opposed to the Scott Act, has commanded that unless the Sun speaks out strongly for the Government, and against the Scott Act and its promoters, it cannot expect to re ceive Government patronage. Well, none can find fault with the Sun's honest and liberal support of the Government if chooses to make itself a party organ, but i it expects to win prestige by its unreason able and unfair opposition of the Scott Act, and by maligning the officers appointed t put it into effect, and the members of the Temperance Association in the county, we can inform the editor that he is very greatly mistaken in his estimate of the intelligence of the people of our county. The Sun is so sadly blinded in its desire to make party politics its first and foremost point in all issues, even to the detriment of what in its better judgment it knows to be right, that it sometimes forgets itself. A couple of months ago, after its sudden flopover, the Sun betated roundly the County Temperance Association, the FREE PRESS, and all others concerned, for presuming to say that the Dominion Government was to blame for taking no action for the enforcement of the Scott Act. Forgetting all this and its former thrusts at others for saying so, it now calls upon the Government itself to enforce the Scott Act in Halton. SUDDEN AND LAMENTED DEATH

Dr. W. H. MacDonald of Toronto an old Acton Boy, Cut off in His Prime.

BY SOME MYSTERIOUS CAUSE The news of the death of Dr. W. H. MacDonald, of Toronto, without any previous intimation of illness, last Thursday, came with a shock which cast a cloud of the darkest gloom over this community. At and which was pretended to be enacted "in about 0 o'clock on Thursday morning his housekeeper, having called him repeatedly without receiving an answer, forced the "rift" in the Scott Act. The Sun renews; door of his room, and was horrified to find him quite dead. The bed-clothes were scarcely disturbed, and he had apparently died without a struggle. Dr. McDonald had spent the previous evening at a social gathering at the residence of Mr. Joseph Priestman, and had left apparently in as good health as any of the company, In his diary were found entries of visits intended San reads us an extract from a cotemporary to be made yesterday, which entries he had to show that no "rift" had been made in evidently made after returning from Mr. Priestman's house. The cause of death was at first supposed to be heart disease, but the post mortem examination proved the heart and all other functions of the body to be in a healthy active condition. The general opinion is that the Dr. had been restless and took a dose of morphine or some other anosthetic to enable him to secure rest prior to another day of arduous professional rounds, and accidently took an overdose. However an official analysis of the contents of the stomach is being made, and this will no doubt reveal the truth or falicity of the theory. The lamented death is certainly very mysterious.

The Dr's paternal home is near this place, and about ten or twelve years ago he came to Acton to reside, having been appointed teacher of Bannockburn school. He taught here for six or seven years with much success and to the unbounded satisfaction of his studies with a view to the years 'of future life with care and perseverence. A number of his studies-particularly classics -were followed under the supervision of Rev. D. B. Cameron, his pastor, who took a keen interest in the young man. He was also a very intimate friend of the late R. Little Esq., who frequently gave him valuable assistance in his studies.

The grief-stricken parents and brothers and sister of deceased are accorded the tenderest sympathy of the community in their sudden affliction and the early loss of the "flower of the family."

Funeral services was held in Toronto on Friday afternoon, after which the remains were brought to Acton for interment. The funeral on Saturday was very largely attended. The bearers were Dr. Lowry and Messrs. Jno. Cameron, John Lawson V. S. H. P. Moore, J. E. McGarvin and C. W. Hill. The floral tributes were abundant and of the choicest description.
