Sad Finale to an Accident

Reference was made in these columns last week to an accident by which the little daughter of Mr. John Stephenson sustained a serious fracture of the thigh. The little patient seemed to be progressing as favorably as could be expected until Monday afternoon when she very unexpectedly and peacefully passed away. Her death was attendant, and so suddenly did her spirit bid adieu to fleeting time that Mr. Stephenson had barely time to reach home from his shop, but a few steps away, before she was gone. It is thought her death was the result of internal injuries. During the week which elapsed after the accident she bore: her sufferings with remarkable Thursday, and was cut to pieces.
