On the third day the little one was so much better that mamma told Mattie she could go back to school, and said she would write a note for her to take to Miss Brown. As she said this she took from her writing desk, a dainty sheet of creamy white paper, with an envelope to match, and was just looking for a pen when Mattie cried in

"Please don't take that paper, mamma. Miss Brown won't like it one bit. She said every little girl must bring her 'scuse on a piece of brown paper that a loaf of bread had come in, and it must be written in ead pencil and not ink."

In vain mamma talked to her little girl and told her how strange is would be for a teacher to ask such a thing as that; Mattie still insisted, and would you believe it! she came near crying. So, as it was very nearly school-time, mamma wrote the excase on the brown paper.

LADY-BUG'S HISTORY.

ing a note of some kind

Almost any boy or girl can tell you what a lady-bug for lady-bird, as they call it is England) looks like, and there are very few who connot and do not repeat the old rhyme.

"Lady-bug, lady-bug, fly away home; Your bouse is on fire, your children will burn." whenever they see one; but there are not many, if any, who know why the bug is called lady-bug, or why her house is always supposed to be on fire.

I remember asking a very clever man once if he could tell, but he only shook his head, and said he " did not know, and he did not think any one knew." Lately, however, I have discovered that there is a little of lady-bug's history known, and although incomplete, it is very interesting.

Lady-bugs are supposed to appear and denly on St. Barnaby's Day (the 11th of June), and for that reason were first called St. Barnaby's bees. Now, St. Barnaby was noted for his good works, and for adminis tering comfort to the afflicted, and it was thought that he sent the bugs, and taught them to be useful to man by destroying plant-lice and other insects that fed upon ber during the cold weather. I believe it is not known, or has been forgotten, why they are connected with cows and burning buildings; but that they were is proven by the numerous rhymes that are still sung by the boys and girls of the West Riding of Yorkshire, England, where they are called cush-cow-ladies; and in the North Riding one of the children's songs
