The Young Folks.

HELP ONE ANOTHER.

"Help one another" is the motto we said. As there is no love in their hearts, they do not care what will not be felt. One of us here would quickly melt; But I'll help you and you'll help me, And then what a big white drift we'll have."

"Help one another," the maple sprays tall to its fellow leaves one day;

The sun would smite us here alone, Long enough, and the day's gone by; But here we stand, and we're not alone, And each a hand that could shade the other!

"Help one another" the dewdrop cried, Seeing another drop close to its side;

"The winter south brooks would drive me away, And I alone be gone once more to-day;

And it would help you and help me, And we'll make a brook and run to the sea."

"Help one another," a grain of sand said, Said to another grain just at hand:

"The world would be lost if we were lost, And then O, what will become of me?

But come my brother, give me your hand; We'll build a mountain, and there we'll stand."

TWO BRAVE LITTLE GIRLS.

Tiny and Trip, the little cousins, were up in the bazaar in Tiny's yard, playing with their dollsies. "It was a splendid place to play."

"I like to be up here so high, of the way of everything, don't you?" asked Trip.

"Yes," replied Tiny, "it's ever so nice. Nothing can get up here. I ain't afraid of nothing!"

"Nor I," said Trip. "It's bear-should come in at the gate, I should just sit here and look at him and laugh."

"So would I," added Tiny. "And if an elephant came in here, I would take the whip, just so, and snap it at him, just so, and say: 'Go long away, you great old elephant! and wouldn't he just go opearing down the road?"

The two little girls laughed loud and long, they felt so safe and happy.

A few minutes after two cows came running along the road and turned at the gate. The gentle, old, mealy cows had found the barn down where they came into the yard at night, and had come into the road to see what they could find.

When those two brave little girls saw those two cows coming into their yard, they just went to screaming as loud as they could.

How they did shriek! You would have supposed that a bear and an elephant were both after them at once.

Tiny's mother ran to her door, and Trip's mother ran to her door, and all the neighbors ran to their doors.

"And then they saw the two little screaming girls in the buggy, and a man driving out the two old cows that had frightened them."

When the cows were gone, Trip and Tiny climbed down out of the buggy, with very red faces and went home—lucky children.

GIRLS, DON'T TRY IT.

We read in a paper a few days ago of the marriage of a lovely girl with a sunny disposition and a heart overflowing with love to a disfigured young fellow. She married him to comfort him, she said. Girls don't try it. A man that thinks more of honor than he does of a sweet and amiable girl, will never reform. We have seen it tried, and we have seen it fail. Stick to the good girls, girls, and never marry a man if he is ugly. It's better not to have loved at all than to marry a man who dislikes. There are plenty of sober, big-hearted boys lying loose all about the country, who will be glad to "catch on" and make you good husbands."

Mechanics' Steel Iron and Wine.

If you are languid and weak, and your appetite poor, my Steel, Iron and Wine is the tonic for you.

An invigorating tonic it is recognized by the Medical Profession as the best strengthening medicine thus far produced. It is invaluable as a blood-and-muscle maker, especially in those cases where weakness is the result of imperfect or insufficient diet, of wasting fevers or excesses of any sort. It contains the nutriment of Steel, the stimulant properties of Wine and the tonic powers of Iron, and is admirably calculated to build up the emaciated system.

Advice to Mothers.—Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of Cutting Teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for Children Teething. It is safe and calculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mother; there is no mistake about it. It cures Dentistry and Diarrhoea, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums, reduces Inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children, teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. GIRLS, DON'T TRY IT.

We have made arrangements with the great agricultural weekly, Farm and Fireside, by which we are able to supply our subscribers with that paper to the end of 1889, and the weekly Mail to one year for 1890, and our own paper for one year for 1890, and our own paper for two dollars. Farm and Fireside is a large 4 column, 4 page weekly, two pages being devoted to agricultural matters, and two pages to stories by the best authors. It is well illustrated throughout and has a large circulation at 75 cents a year. The low price at which we give it and the weekly Mail is a special arrangement.

Trusted and Proven.

"I have tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for summer complaints, have proved it, after a fair trial, a sure cure, both in my own case and others of the family," Lazarus Wing, New Haven, Waterbury, Conn.

"My hair was coming out (without any cause) and I used Ayer's Hair Vigor, taking only one bottle, and now have as fine a head of hair as any one could wish for."

"I have tried Ayer's Hair Vigor in my family for a number of years, and regard it as the best hair preparation I have ever used. It keeps the hair soft and lively, and preserves the original color. My wife has used it a long time with most satisfactory results, and has now a fine head of hair, being greatly improved by it."

"My hair was becoming harsh and dry, but after using half a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, I now have a fine head of hair as any one could wish for."
