DAIRYING IN CANADA.

A Series of Letters Addressed to the Agricultural Public of Canada.

AMONG THE BRITISH DAIRY FARMERS.

Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act, and republished in this paper by permission of the author.

At the British Dairy Farmers' conference there was no fact brought out more clearly than that of the serious condition of the dairy industry in Canada.

It will surprise many to learn that it is a veritable problem with the British farmer himself to get his butter placed in his own market.

In spite of all the disadvantages which he has to contend with, the British farmer is still a successful one.

Some of the reasons for this success are: 1. The quality of his milk.

2. The quantity of his milk.

3. The cleanliness of his milk.

4. The regularity of his milk.

5. The purity of his milk.

6. The freshness of his milk.

7. The richness of his milk.

8. The creaminess of his milk.

9. The sweetness of his milk.

10. The whiteness of his milk.

11. The tenderness of his milk.

material, of land composed of life, if not absolutely unwholesome, compounds, had better be left to the inventors and designers of this species of enterprise.

Of almost wonder why the British dairy farmer does not feel inclined actually to prohibit the sale of margarine, and to liberally ruin their trade.

All we care about here is to see that margarine is always sold as such, and that our best home brands of butter get fair play.
