Halifax, and in scores of towns and cities in Ontario do we count those who through the largeness of our stock and the excellence of our work have been led to favor us with their orders, and what is more having come to us one season they invariably come back again. AND SO IT is in the Millinery Through the restlessness of human nature and ambition for improvements, people move from one place to another, but in so many cases where our customers have moved to other places we are still favored with their patronage in these Departments.

These reflections assure us that not by bombast, not by vain pretensions, but by fair and honorable attention to the requirements of our customers, that a bond of this kind is established and maintained.

And while we do not claim to have an exclusive monoply of all the fine goods that are sold in Guelph we have good reason to know that a very large proportion of the finest goods sold go across our counters. THE VARIETY of our Dress and Fancy Goods at present is simply immense, and in certain lines-if not in all-we have it established by actual comparaior that our prices for goods of equal quality are in many instances lower than others in the trade. We enjoy a financial and trade position that opens up to us the keenost markets of the world, and being confined to no amount or place we make our selections wheresoever and by whomsoever the greatest and most tangible indocements come in our way. This is one reason for diffusiveness of our styles and the fact that the requirements of every pocket and fancy find a ready response in our Colossal Stock
