PARKHILL, Ont. October 4. - Between tw and three o'clock this morning Mr. Holland of the Central Hotel, was awakened by the raising of the window in the hall downstairs and securing his revolver, he proceeded downstairs, where he met a masked burglar whom he asked what he wanted. The burglar replied with his revolver, the bullet lodging one foot from Mr. Holland's head. Holland returned the shot without effect. A second shot was fired by the burglar having the same effect as the first, and Holland returned the shot, the ball taking effect. The berglar then fled, leaving blood stains all along the sill and sidewalk. This is the second affempt at burglary, Mr Griffith having had one hundred dollars worth of woollen goods stolen from his Wareroum.

On Tuesday evening, October 1st, the congregation of the First l'resbyterian church, Eromosa, met to bid farewell to Rev. J. McL. Gardiner, their late pastor, has been compelled to resign his charge and go south in search of health. There was a large turnout, and the whole proceed ings showed the appreciation in which Mr. serdiner is held, and the regret caused by his severance of the tie between himself and his congregation. A very pleasant feature of the evening was the resentation to Mr. Gardiner, on behalf of the church, of a purse of $100 in gold. accompanied by appropriate addresses. Rav. J. W. It is not really necessary to enter within the portals of this mammoth dry goods house to learn that an exceptionally fine and choice stock of goods are here to be found. The tastily dressed windows tell the story. Nothing more handsome is to found even in the city of Toronto, and that is saying a good deal. The whole store u filled with goods suitable for all classes, and when one views the choice dress goods from France, Germany and England, it must be conceded that if is folly to go to Toronto or elsewhere to find anything superior, or in fact equal to that displayed. The counters and shelves are laden down with handsome costumes and trimmings. One special thing noticed by the scribe as he passed through the large store on his way to the millinery show room was a long silk man-Ale, standing in the centre of the store on a figure. It is very rich, and is gotten up with long angel sleeves, which are lined with rich silk, and finished with bows of onto lady," remarked the proprietor, im mediately placed her order with us for a similar mantle when she saw this one."

It would be impossible to attempt a description of the tasteful decorations in the following department, suffice to say everybody who attends this grand opening will feel amply repaid for so doing. The fash ionable hats shown this season are large with flat crowns, trimmed high. One exceedingly pretty pattern hat is called the Poliche, and is trimmed with velvet, feath ers and ribbon. The Universal is also a beautiful large hat trimmed with bronze green velvet and ostrich plames to match That exceedingly becoming hat, the "Gains borough." is also shown in brown and cream, velvet tips and ribbon. The beautiful display of French bonnets beggars description. The "Cordonne" and the 'Coquelitot" are the leading shapes, and are elegantly trimmed with ostrich tips and ribbons to match. One French bonner elicited especial admiration. It is trimmed with terra cotta applique ribbons, anspreys and birds. The most fashionable trimmings for the coming season will be plumes, ribbons and nik velvet. The prevailing shades are green, poliche and different hades of mahogany.

Beautiful fabrics for evening costumer are also shown in Tuscau net draped over congee silks in many beautiful and delicate

The large room on the second floor, formerly used as a carpet emporium, has been converted into a mantle department. It is beautifully fitted up, and the display of mantles is varied and elegant, their prices ranging from $2 to $65. Mr. Ryan has selected these mantles with excellent taste from the best markets in England, France and Germany, and cannot fail to meet the requirements of all who are desirous of obtaining elegant goods in this line. - Guelph
