The Young Hynds.

THE NINETEEN AND NINE.

"There are ninety and nine who live and die
in want, hunger and cold."

That one may live in luxury;
And be wrapped in silver fold;

The slender and miser live bare,

The ones in a relish with riches rare.

"They will have nothing but ninety and nine;
For the rest of us are nothing but dust."

And the rest die and drive in the dusty mire;

And bring their treasures forth;

And the wealth released by their sturdy brows

To the hand of one forever low.

"From the sweat of their brow the desert bloom;

And before them the forest falls;

Their labor has built up the mighty houses;

And the cities and towns and houses and lands,

And the misery and sine have empty hands.

"And the night so dreary, dark and long;

At last, the morning shall bring,

And over the land the victory's song.

Of the ninety and nine shall rise,

And echo star from tone to tone,

Before, for labor shall have its own."

CHURCH MANNERS.

Dr. Liddell is the author of the following:

Burke has shown how various attitudes of the human body correspond to, or are inconsistent with, deep emotions of the human soul. You cannot, for instance, sit loping back in an arm-chair with your mouth wide open, and feel a warm glow

of indignation, and if you or I were introduced suddenly into the presence of the Queen, we should not keep our hat on and sit down with our pockets on the ground that the genuine sentiment of loyalty is quite independent of its outward expression. And if people come to church and sit and talk and look about while prayers are being addressed to the Infinite and Eternal Being, it is not because they are so very spiritual, as to be able to do without any outward forms. They really do not know because they do not with the eyes of their souls see Him, the sight of which awes first the soul and then the body into profound reverence.—Church

IT WASN'T THE PRINCIPLE.

A young man with excited step and fashed face haltered an officer in front of the City Hall the other day, says the Detroit

Free Press, and stated that he had been robbed.

"When and where?" naturally inquired

the officer.

"Out on the exposition grounds this forenoon."

"How much?"

"Well, as near as I can figure it there was about forty cent in the portomonee."

"Have any suspicions?"

"No. I missed it after coming out of the smoke shop."

"Isn't it a pretty small matter to make complaint about?" queried the officer.

"Or is it the principle of the thing which indicates you?"

"Principle of the thing is largely?"

"Yes, I am a forty-cent-and-a-half fellow."

"I don't care if I'll have to walk thirteen miles on the railroad track. Principle is all right,

when you have a big hooch, but I'd walk

thirteen miles."

A BAD YEAR FOR KINGS.

What appears to be a bad year for kings,

let alone the proverbial three or four that the poker play wishes had not held.

The king of Monaco has just died. The king of Holland's death is apparently a question of only a few weeks. The mental condition of King Edward is becoming worse. The king of Portugal is dead.

The king of Servia has been forced to abdicate. The king of Bulgaria may soon be forced to abdicate and follow suit.

The king of Montenegro is wedged in between Russia and Austria in a very uncomfortable

way. The king of Greece is worried over the "you know" Cretan question.

The king of Italy is still at war with the Pope. The king of Denmark has a hard task before him. And the king of Belgium is thinking seriously of an African trip to avoid the cares of state.—Utica Herald.

KISSING SQUEAKING GIRLS.

A Scotch clergyman, in a recent lecture, said the great peculiarity of the old Scott ish elder or deacon was his power in ex-

pounding Scripture; he was never at loss about the meaning of any passage. As an illustration of this, he said: "An elder was reading and commenting upon the thirty-

fourth Psalm, and the book being printed in the old style when he came to verse thirteen he saw: 'Keep thy tongue from evil and thy lips from speaking guile.' The last two words he read aloud as 'squeaking girls,' and then he remarked by way of exposition, 'It is evident from this passage

the Scribes does not absolutely forbid

kissing, but such Christians evidently it is to be done decently and in order, we are here encouraged by the passage to choose rather those girls that like it quietly, and not those that squeak under the operation."

Victoria Crook's Song is a wonderful juggling comedy for the violin, banjo, tenor, bass, scales, bells, pipe, trumpet, &c.

It is a great public benefit.—"These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness.

A Pleasing Discovery.

I suffered with neuralgia and obtained no relief until advised to try Harry's Yellow Oil. Since then I have found it to be an admirable remedy also for burns, sore throat and rheumatism.

Life Was a Burden.

Until lately I suffered from headache, always preceded by constipation, making my life a burden. A friend advised Burdock Blood Bitters. I took three bottles, and now I feel myself a new man, and my headaches are a thing of the past.

Restlessness, morbid anxiety, and a fatal disposition, are usually met with in the dyspeptic. These mental disorders show how close the connection between brain and stomach. Their most prolific cause, dyspepsia, is a complaint for which Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Blood Purifier is used with varying success. It also remedies Biliousness, Constipation, and Impurity of the Blood.

Never allow the bowels to remain constipated too long, as it causes serious ill effects.

Mr. H. Monroe, Party Sound says: "Natal Balm, has no equal as a remedy for a cold in the head. It bathes speedily and effectively in its results.

Mr. R. A. Harrison, Chemist and Druggist, Dunnville, Ont., writes: "I can with confidence recommend Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure for Dyspepsia, Impure Blood, Pimples on the Face, Biliousness and Constipation—such cases having come under my personal observation."

Differences of opinion regarding the popular external cold remedy, Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil do not go far, but the results are often quite different.

It is almost Driven Insane.

I had such distress in my stomach and head that I thought I would lose my reason but on trying Burdock Blood Bitters I derived great benefit. I have used three bottles and am now as well as I ever was in my life. Thanks to your medicine.
